Elliott Roosevelt Defends Conduct

Tells Probers He Paid For His Entertainment

Did Not Talk To FDR About Hughes Deal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt testified today that "I paid my own fair share" of costly entertainment with John W. Meyer, contact man for Plane Designer Howard Hughes.

He gave the Senate War Investigating Committee his opinion that "my conduct did not violate" an Air Forces directive cautioning officers against "relationships of a compromising character" with war contractors.

And he related that he had feared a "smear" campaign against his father, the late President Roosevelt, would grow out of his recall from overseas in 1943 to advise on war plane purchases.

Elliott again referred to what he called a "smear" attempt against his father, when he spoke briefly over the radio.

"I think that this investigation is purely political," he told an interviewer. "I believe that the past records of Sen. Ferguson and Sen. Brewster will bear me out in that they have spent a good proportion of their time since Franklin D. Roosevelt died in trying to smear him. I think that they did so in the hopes of building themselves politically."

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) is chairman of the subcommittee conducting the current investigation. Brewster (R-Maine) is chairman of the full committee.

Elliott recommended a Hughes-designed photo-reconnaissance plane, Hughes got a $22,000,000 contract to build them, the contract was considered for cancellation but was left in force. The deal never produced any planes that got into the war.

The late President's second son, ex-brigadier general and formerly in charge of photo reconnaissance work in the European theatre, made these other points in a full afternoon of questioning before the committee, which is looking into the Hughes contract and another $18,000,000 deal for Hughes to build a huge flying boat.

Repaid Loan From Meyer

He once borrowed $1,000 from Meyer—a couple of days before his marriage to Actress Faye Emerson—but he paid it back in five months with six per cent interest for a full year.

He had $1,500 cash when he came back from Europe on the trip that was connected with the Hughes contract but he "relaxed" and it was all gone but about $2.50 when he returned from California despite the number of checks Meyer picked up.

He never talked to his father about the Hughes deal—the elder Roosevelt had "more important" matters on his mind.

He and the other officers in his group repaid Meyer, over the latter's protest, after the publicity man had settled their $32 hotel bill in Los Angeles on the trip that brought the recommendation for Hughes' F-11 reconnaissance plane.

Meyer, sitting beside him, said he couldn't remember receiving the money.

Roosevelt testified he and his fellows on the mission didn't care whether Hughes' plane was made "of wood or paper or what" but the materiel division was dead set against wood and that was the reason for a recommendation for a shift to metal.

In that connection young Roosevelt added:

"I maintain they didn't know much about the war."

Meyer Questioned Further

Roosevelt declared that all he and the officers with him could do in making a recommendation on the plane was "rely on what the man (Hughes) said he could do and what he guaranteed he could do, and the rest would be up to the Procurement Division."

He took the stand after fresh questioning of Meyer. Meyer was questioned further about accounts which showed more than $5,000 spent on entertainment of Roosevelt

Odom Forced To Turn Back On Globe Flight

Returns To Chicago Due To Plane Trouble

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP)—William (Bill) Odom, Roslyn, N. Y. pilot, who left Chicago's Orchard Airport at 2:31 Central Daylight Time today on an attempted solo round-the-world flight, returned to Chicago at 11:55, Central Daylight Time tonight. He had turned back shortly after passing over Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Franklin Lomb, flight manager, said in Chicago he was informed by ovflerseas telephone that Odom and turned back after his plane incurred mechanical and electrical troubles. He did not elaborate.

Was Heading For Paris

Fligfht officials in Chicago reported Odom passing over Halifax, Nova Scotia, at 8 p. m., and at 6:40 p. m. the control tower at Gander, Newfoundland, airport reported the plane passing over the northernmost part of Maine. An hour and a half out of Chicago, he passed over London, Ontario.

Odom was on the first leg, 3,900 miles to Paris, France, on his proposed 19,600-mile globe-girdling flight, when he turned back. He had planned to be back in Chicago Thursday night from the start of his flight today.

Trouble with electrical circuits in the direction finder delayed the plane's takeoff Sunday.

Last April, Odom flew with Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer, and T. Carroll (Tex) Sallee in the Bombshell, completing the ckircuit in 78 hours 55½ minutes.

Smooth Takeoff

The solo record of 186 hours for world-girdling was set by the late Wiley Post in his single-engined monoplane Winnie Mae in 1933.

The takeoff today over the shimmering white concrete runway was smooth, the 40-000-pound plane rising with apparent ease as he circled to the south then eastward toward Lake Michigan. Part of his load was 15,000 pounds of gasoline—2,460 gallons, radio equipment and an automatic pilot.

Twenty minutes after he left the field he radioed to Flight Manager Franklin Lamb, "I'm 12,000 feet up and climbing slowly. Everything's working fine."

American Eludes Hungarian Police Following Arrest

BUDAPEST, Aug. 4— (AP) —An American citizen arrested for making derogatory remarks about Hungarian Communists escaped Saturday night from three political policemen and fled in an American legation automobile, American officials reported today.

Stephen Thuransky, 54, formerly a farmer living near Columbus, Ohio, knocked down one political policeman with his handcuffed fist, while his wife frienziedly clawed another from his side. Then Thuransky was knocked unconscious and sprawled out in the rear seat of the parked American car. An American legation official who had been waiting to interview him thrust Mrs. Thuransky into the car behind her husband and drove both of them away.

Threatened With Shooting

Thuransky's escape was effected while the political police were transferring him from one jail to another.

In American custody later, Thuransky said he had been beaten by the Hungarian police and had been threatened with shooting.

The Hungarion Ministry of the Interior issued a press statement tonight saying Thuransky was being taken to the National Defense Department—another name for political police headquarters—"for a hearing" when "two unknown men and one woman grabbed him and shoved him into a waiting vehicle bearing American license plates."

The statement said Thuransky had "reviled the Hungarian Republic on the main street of Balassagyarmat," a town northeast of Budapest on the Czechoslovak border.

Heard Woman Scream

The American official involved in the escape said today he was inside the Marko jail waiting for prison officials to carry out their promise to bring Thuransky down from his cell for a conference when he heard a woman scream, "My God, Steve. They are taking you away!"

The American said he rushed outside and saw Thuransky lying half inside the parked sedan. He ran across the sidewalk, pushed the unconscious prisoner all the way in the car, pushed Mrs. Thuransky in beside him and drove off.

Attlee, British Officials Discuss Economic Plan

LONDON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Prime Minister Atlee, beset by political foes critical of his Labor Cabinet's administration, conferred today with high government officials and service chieftains on a program for Britain's economic survival.

Foregoing the August bank holiday, the Prime Minister spent the day completing the plan he will lay before the House of Commons on Wednesday to combat the nation's critical dollar shortage and restore industrial production.

"I Am Franklin"

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late President, arrived by plane at La Guardia field today from Boston.

Asked by newsmen if he was en route to Washington he replied merely:

"I am Franklin."

Stalemate Indicated

NANKING, Aug. 4— (AP) —Pro-government press dispatches reported continuing local advantages for Nationalist armies in Shantung Province and Manchuria today, but there was little indication of definite progress by either side in the civil war.

Russian Plan For Balkans Is Killed By U.N.

Proposal Rejected 9-2 Without Debate

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 4 (AP) —The United Nations Security Council late today rejected without debate a Russian counter-proposal for peace in the Balkans and then argued over what to do next.

The vote on the Soviet resolution, calling for withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and United Nations supervision of economic aid to that country, was 9 to 2 with Poland the only Russian supporter.

The council's slate thus was cleared of the second major proposal for settling the Balkans troubles, Russia having vetoed a United States plan for a semi-permanent Balkans commission last week.

Poland immediately offered a "compromise" which took all the teeth out of both the American and Russian versions and merely recommended that Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria solve their own difficulties.

Britain and the United States assailed the Polish plan as ineffective and an admission of the failure of the council.

No Agreement In Sight

Chairman Faris El Kouhry, of Syria, adjourned the meeting with no agreement on the Balkans in sight and announced that Egypt's charges against Britain would be taken up at 10:30 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow. Cairo demands the evacuation of British troops from Egypt and termination of the British regime in the Sudan.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in asking for adoption of his plan, charged that "certain powerful states" were attempting to bring about the "political and economic enslavement of Greece."

His remarks were interpreted as a reference to the Truman program to aid Greece and the presence of British troops there.

No other delegate attempted to speak after Gromyko's address and the council merely began to vote. Gromyko has complained that his proposals were being "passed over in silence."

The American plan called for a semi-permanent border commission and followed a commission report laying the blame for frontier incidents on Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. It was supported by nine delegates, but was turned down by the Russian veto. Other top developments here included:

U. S. Hits Hungary, Romania

1—The United States sharply attacked the Communist dominated governments in Hungary and Romania and expressed doubts that either of these ex-enemy countries qualified for membership in the United Nations.

2—Council President Faris El Kouhry said "we may say that hostilities (in Indonesia) have now ceased." He announced replies from the governments of the Netherlands and Indonesia and took under advisement an Australian request that the United Nations send "a responsible officer" to Indonesia to report on the situation.

The United States position on Hungary and Romania was stated in the council's Membership Committee where members voted down a Soviet move to block consideration of the application from Austria, Hungary, Italy and Romania at this time.

27 Arrested In New York Anti-Gambling Drive

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—Twenty-seven persons were arrested today in the first eight hours of an anti-gambling drive which began with announcement of one of the most severe shakeups ever staged in the police department.

Seven of those arrested were alleged bookmakers, principal target of the drive. Six others were alleged collectors for bookies and two were alleged runners working for bookies.

Eleven others were picked up on charges of participating in a dice game and one on a lottery charge.

"MISS MARYLAND"—As the orchestra appropriately played "Maryland, My Maryland" last night at Fort Hill High School auditorium, Miss Jean Dixon, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, Fayette Street, entered as "Miss Cumberland," was proclaimed "Miss Maryland," in the state-wide competition, and was presented a floral crown by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., who came here by plane to preside at the coronation. Orders To Halt Indonesian War Go Into Effect

BATAVIA, Java, Tuesday, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Republic of Indonesia issued a cease-firing order to its troops last night, paralleling a similar Dutch order Sunday.

The orders, giving the United Nations Security Council its greatest victory for peace, became effective at midnight.

Indonesian President Soekarno, in a brief radio speech, ordered the whole Indonesian population to halt hostilities against the Dutch. He addressed Republican troops as commander-in-chief and also told the civil population to cease guerrilla and scorched earth tactics.

Jogjakarta, Fall Was Near

The commands to stop fighting found Dutch forces at Salatiga, Java, in a position which their staff officers declared would have enabled them to capture Jokjakarta, the Republican capital, within two or three days. Skirmishes were under way at many points throughout the East Indies yesterday as the deadline for the truce approached.

Earlier Republican Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin said the cease-fire order was being issued "without any reservations at all." He quickly added that the republic would demand appointment of an international commission by the United Nations to supervise the cease-fire orders.

Sjarifoeddin told the United Nations that the Dutch had delayed transmission of the Security Council message, making it difficult to achieve cessation of hostilites on short notice.

INSURGENTS REPORTED IN PARAGUAY CAPITAL; FIGHTING IN STREETS

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5, (AP)—The newspaper Noticias Graficas said tonight insurgent troops had entered the Paraguayan capital of Asuncion and that there was fighting in the streets.

A dispatch from Formosa, on the Paraguayan border, said loyalist troops from the Campo Grande Garrison outside Asuncion had attempted to defend the city, but were defeated.

Rebel sympathizers in Asuncion began attacking police stations as soon as the revolutionary troops entered, the dispatch said.

European Wheat Crop To Be Small

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Latest reports indicate the European wheat crop, excluding Russia's, may be 10 per cent smaller than last year's poor crop, the Agriculture Department announced tonight.

It said that substantial exports of grain from Russia and parts of the Danube Basin will be possible during the coming season for the first time since the war. But whether they will be shipped, the department noted, will depend in large measure on Soviet policy.

The department said its report from abroad substantiated previous government forecasts that foreign demand for wheat will again exceed supplies available for export in the United States and other areas.

The United States may export 450,000,000 bushels of wheat, including flour, from its record crop of 1,436,000,000 bushels by harvest time next year, the department forecast. Wheat and flour exports from last year's crop totalled about 400,000,000 bushels.

In view af the bumper fheat crop, however, such an increase in exports would still allow use of more wheat for livestock feed to maintain a high level of meat, poultry and dairy production. Increased feeding of wheat is expected because of a prospective smaller corn crop. It also would allow some increase in wheat reserves, which this year dropped dangerously low.

Crushed By Falling Boy

METCALF, Ill., Aug. 4—(AP)—Three-year-old Peggy Jean Atwood smiled with delight as her playmate, Albert Sturchie, 13, climbed a tree yesterday to fasten a rope swing for the little girl.

As she stood beneath the tree, the limb broke and Albert fell on her and crushed her. Peggy Jean died on her way to a Paris hospital.

Churchill Offers To Back Laborites In New Loan Bid

WOODSTOCK, England, Aug. 4—(AP)—Winston Churchill offered today to support the Labor government in an appeal to the United States for a new loan on condition that Britons "labor long and hard" to help themselves.

In a party speech the Conservative leader charged that Prime minister Attlee's government had "frittered away" a great part of the present American loan of $3,750,000,000 on non-essentials.

Churchill also scoffed at what he called the "folly" of proposals for a coalition government to meet Britain's economic crisis, despite his offer of support to the Labor Cabinet for "any and all sensible proposals, however severe, that are truly made in the national interest."

Miners Producing Less

Referring to the problem of coal production, a key factor in the nation's present crisis, Churchill declared that, since the nationalization of the mines, the miners "are producing less at a far heavier cost than when they were working for the private capitalist owner, with his more intimate and flexible management."

Churchill said some of the terms of the present American loan alarmed him, notably the clauses requiring Britain to make her sterling debts to other countries freely convertible into dollars by last July

Marshall To Address U.N.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall plans a major address in mid-September before the United Nations Assembly, the State Department said today.

Both Sides Say Agreement Has Been Reached

Union And Company Statement Awaited

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (AP) — Hard-pressed negotiators returned to a session at 10:50 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) tonight to try to wrap up an agreement to avert tomorrow's nationwide strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Company production workers.

Remaining to be ironed out were details of a joint statement announcing an agreement reached earlier in the evening between negotiators for the company and the CIO United Auto Workers.

This agreement, authoritative sources said, embraced a settlement of the union's demand for immunity from penalty provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and a plan for adjusting differences over a workers' pension setup.

The joint statement previously had been prepared by a representative of each side and copies distributed among the negotiators.

Union sources said the UAW approved it with "one minor revision."

John Bugas, industrial relations director of Ford, then consulted on the telephone with other Ford executives standing by at company offices in suburban Dearborn, among them Henry Ford II, company president.

Bugas Late In Returning

Bugas asked an adjournment until 10 p. m. and in the interim—with Bugas 50 minutes late in returning to the downtown hotel room discussions—the union representatives lounged about.

Earlier spokesmen for both sides said an agreement had been achieved and needed only to be reduced to writing.

At the same time sources close to the union had said flatly that the strike would be called off.

It had been set for noon (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow with Ford and the UAW-CIO unable to agree on a union demand for immunity from Taft-Hartley law penalty provisions and particulars of a workers' pension plan.

Al Leggat, UAW press representative, said "company red tape" was delaying the procedure.

Leggat said he was uncertain what effect this might have on the strike scheduling. He said, however, that both sides were hopeful of coming to a final understanding tonight.

In the meantime the UAW's Ford Council was ordered to stand by to await the negotiators' session.

Earlier authoritative sources close to negotiators said the company and CIO United Auto Workers heads had come to an understanding in their dispute involving the Taft-Hartley law.

"It's only a question now of preparing a joint statement," an official union spokesman said at 5:30 p. m. (EST).

Union Attorney Called In

Shortly before, Union Attorney Maurice Sugar had been called into the consultations. He left with a secretary and later returned to the session.

Richard T. Leonard, tall, sternjawed vice president of the UAW-CIO and head of its Ford Department, told reporters at the outset of the meeting that the union had a counter-proposal on the Taft-Hartley issue. He did not elaborate.

However, after three hours behind doors, Bugas emerged briefly to say that the union "hadn't come up with anything new on the Taft-Hartley law."

Some time later, Thomas Thompson, president of Ford Local 600 and one of the negotiators, told reporters the union was prepared to accept a compromise company offer on the Taft-Hartley issue "with certain revisions."

He did not explain the revisions but alluded to a company suggestion that the issue be referred to a four-man committee for future settlement.

Bride, 21, Breaks Down During Jail Revival Service, Tells Of Slaying

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 4. —An attractive, 21-year-old Connecticut bride, crying "I want to make my peace with the Lord," broke down during a Psalm-singing jail service and, Sheriff Glen Jones announced today, acknowledged that she and her husband of four days lured a California businessman to his death in an isolated forest glen.

Jailed for Nevada County, Calif., where a murder charge was filed were Joseph L. Hardy, Jr., 24, North Kittery, Me., and the blonde former Lois Hunt, a native of New London Conn., and until recently a waitress in a Portsmouth, N. H., tea shop.

"People have always taken me for a sweet, innocent little girl,' Sheriff Glen Jones quoted her in one of three signed statements. "If only they knew how I am on the inside, they would sing a different tune."

Elsewhere in the statement, said the sheriff, she detailed how she and Hardy lured J. W. McLain, 48, Burbank, Calif., Veterans' Administration official, off a highway between Reno and San Francisco and how, as they sat on a blanket, Hardy shot him. McLain's body, wrapped in a blanket, was found a few miles east of Truckee by officers who started a search Sunday, soon after the incident at the jail services.

The pair had been held since Friday night for investigation, after Hardy fell asleep on the Boulder City Highway south of here and crashed in a car Jones identified as McLain's.

Sheriff Jones continued today to question the pair for amplification of hints which Jones said were contained in the statements of other slayings. At one point in Hardy's version, the sheriff declared, was the line:

"Our score in murder: Successful 3, Chicago one, California one, Louisiana one. Failed, Missouri, one."

Proposal Rejected 9-2 Without Debate

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 4 (AP) —The United Nations Security Council late today rejected without debate a Russian counter-proposal for peace in the Balkans and then argued over what to do next.

The vote on the Soviet resolution, calling for withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and United Nations supervision of economic aid to that country, was 9 to 2 with Poland the only Russian supporter.

The council's slate thus was cleared of the second major proposal for settling the Balkans troubles, Russia having vetoed a United States plan for a semi-permanent Balkans commission last week.

Poland immediately offered a "compromise" which took all the teeth out of both the American and Russian versions and merely recommended that Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria solve their own difficulties.

Britain and the United States assailed the Polish plan as ineffective and an admission of the failure of the council.

No Agreement In Sight

Chairman Faris El Kouhry, of Syria, adjourned the meeting with no agreement on the Balkans in sight and announced that Egypt's charges against Britain would be taken up at 10:30 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow. Cairo demands the evacuation of British troops from Egypt and termination of the British regime in the Sudan.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in asking for adoption of his plan, charged that "certain powerful states" were attempting to bring about the "political and economic enslavement of Greece."

His remarks were interpreted as a reference to the Truman program to aid Greece and the presence of British troops there.

No other delegate attempted to speak after Gromyko's address and the council merely began to vote. Gromyko has complained that his proposals were being "passed over in silence."

The American plan called for a semi-permanent border commission and followed a commission report laying the blame for frontier incidents on Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. It was supported by nine delegates, but was turned down by the Russian veto. Other top developments here included:

U. S. Hits Hungary, Romania

1—The United States sharply attacked the Communist dominated governments in Hungary and Romania and expressed doubts that either of these ex-enemy countries qualified for membership in the United Nations.

2—Council President Faris El Kouhry said "we may say that hostilities (in Indonesia) have now ceased." He announced replies from the governments of the Netherlands and Indonesia and took under advisement an Australian request that the United Nations send "a responsible officer" to Indonesia to report on the situation.

The United States position on Hungary and Romania was stated in the council's Membership Committee where members voted down a Soviet move to block consideration of the application from Austria, Hungary, Italy and Romania at this time.

27 Arrested In New York Anti-Gambling Drive

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—Twenty-seven persons were arrested today in the first eight hours of an anti-gambling drive which began with announcement of one of the most severe shakeups ever staged in the police department.

Seven of those arrested were alleged bookmakers, principal target of the drive. Six others were alleged collectors for bookies and two were alleged runners working for bookies.

Eleven others were picked up on charges of participating in a dice game and one on a lottery charge.

Attlee, British Officials Discuss Economic Plan

LONDON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Prime Minister Atlee, beset by political foes critical of his Labor Cabinet's administration, conferred today with high government officials and service chieftains on a program for Britain's economic survival.

Foregoing the August bank holiday, the Prime Minister spent the day completing the plan he will lay before the House of Commons on Wednesday to combat the nation's critical dollar shortage and restore industrial production.

"I Am Franklin"

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late President, arrived by plane at La Guardia field today from Boston.

Asked by newsmen if he was en route to Washington he replied merely:

"I am Franklin."

Stalemate Indicated

NANKING, Aug. 4— (AP) —Progovernment press dispatches reported continuing local advantages for Nationalist armies in Shantung Province and Manchuria today, but there was little indication of definite progress by either side in the civil war.

"MISS MARYLAND"—As the orchestra appropriately played "Maryland, My Maryland" last night at Fort Hill High School auditorium, Miss Jean Dixon, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, Fayette Street, entered as "Miss Cumberland," was proclaimed "Miss Maryland," in the state-wide competition, and was presented a floral crown by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., who came here by plane to preside at the coronation. Orders To Halt Indonesian War Go Into Effect

BATAVIA, Java, Tuesday, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Republic of Indonesia issued a cease-firing order to its troops last night, paralleling a similar Dutch order Sunday.

The orders, giving the United Nations Security Council its greatest victory for peace, became effective at midnight.

Indonesian President Soekarno, in a brief radio speech, ordered the whole Indonesian population to halt hostilities against the Dutch. He addressed Republican troops as commander-in-chief and also told the civil population to cease guerrilla and scorched earth tactics.

Jogjakarta, Fall Was Near

The commands to stop fighting found Dutch forces at Salatiga, Java, in a position which their staff officers declared would have enabled them to capture Jokjakarta, the Republican capital, within two or three days. Skirmishes were under way at many points throughout the East Indies yesterday as the deadline for the truce approached.

Earlier Republican Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin said the cease-fire order was being issued "without any reservations at all." He quickly added that the republic would demand appointment of an international commission by the United Nations to supervise the cease-fire orders.

Sjarifoeddin told the United Nations that the Dutch had delayed transmission of the Security Council message, making it difficult to achieve cessation of hostilites on short notice.

INSURGENTS REPORTED IN PARAGUAY CAPITAL; FIGHTING IN STREETS

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5, (AP)—The newspaper Noticias Graficas said tonight insurgent troops had entered the Paraguayan capital of Asuncion and that there was fighting in the streets.

A dispatch from Formosa, on the Paraguayan border, said loyalist troops from the Campo Grande Garrison outside Asuncion had attempted to defend the city, but were defeated.

Rebel sympathizers in Asuncion began attacking police stations as soon as the revolutionary troops entered, the dispatch said.

European Wheat Crop To Be Small

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Latest reports indicate the European wheat crop, excluding Russia's, may be 10 per cent smaller than last year's poor crop, the Agriculture Department announced tonight.

It said that substantial exports of grain from Russia and parts of the Danube Basin will be possible during the coming season for the first time since the war. But whether they will be shipped, the department noted, will depend in large measure on Soviet policy.

The department said its report from abroad substantiated previous government forecasts that foreign demand for wheat will again exceed supplies available for export in the United States and other areas.

The United States may export 450,000,000 bushels of wheat, including flour, from its record crop of 1,436,000,000 bushels by harvest time next year, the department forecast. Wheat and flour exports from last year's crop totalled about 400,000,000 bushels.

In view af the bumper fheat crop, however, such an increase in exports would still allow use of more wheat for livestock feed to maintain a high level of meat, poultry and dairy production. Increased feeding of wheat is expected because of a prospective smaller corn crop. It also would allow some increase in wheat reserves, which this year dropped dangerously low.

Crushed By Falling Boy

METCALF, Ill., Aug. 4—(AP)—Three-year-old Peggy Jean Atwood smiled with delight as her playmate, Albert Sturchie, 13, climbed a tree yesterday to fasten a rope swing for the little girl.

As she stood beneath the tree, the limb broke and Albert fell on her and crushed her. Peggy Jean died on her way to a Paris hospital.

Churchill Offers To Back Laborites In New Loan Bid

WOODSTOCK, England, Aug. 4—(AP)—Winston Churchill offered today to support the Labor government in an appeal to the United States for a new loan on condition that Britons "labor long and hard" to help themselves.

In a party speech the Conservative leader charged that Prime minister Attlee's government had "frittered away" a great part of the present American loan of $3,750,000,000 on non-essentials.

Churchill also scoffed at what he called the "folly" of proposals for a coalition government to meet Britain's economic crisis, despite his offer of support to the Labor Cabinet for "any and all sensible proposals, however severe, that are truly made in the national interest."

Miners Producing Less

Referring to the problem of coal production, a key factor in the nation's present crisis, Churchill declared that, since the nationalization of the mines, the miners "are producing less at a far heavier cost than when they were working for the private capitalist owner, with his more intimate and flexible management."

Churchill said some of the terms of the present American loan alarmed him, notably the clauses requiring Britain to make her sterling debts to other countries freely convertible into dollars by last July

Both Sides Say Agreement Has Been Reached

Union And Company Statement Awaited

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (AP) — Hard-pressed negotiators returned to a session at 10:50 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) tonight to try to wrap up an agreement to avert tomorrow's nationwide strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Company production workers.

Remaining to be ironed out were details of a joint statement announcing an agreement reached earlier in the evening between negotiators for the company and the CIO United Auto Workers.

This agreement, authoritative sources said, embraced a settlement of the union's demand for immunity from penalty provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and a plan for adjusting differences over a workers' pension setup.

The joint statement previously had been prepared by a representative of each side and copies distributed among the negotiators.

Union sources said the UAW approved it with "one minor revision."

John Bugas, industrial relations director of Ford, then consulted on the telephone with other Ford executives standing by at company offices in suburban Dearborn, among them Henry Ford II, company president.

Bugas Late In Returning

Bugas asked an adjournment until 10 p. m. and in the interim—with Bugas 50 minutes late in returning to the downtown hotel room discussions—the union representatives lounged about.

Earlier spokesmen for both sides said an agreement had been achieved and needed only to be reduced to writing.

At the same time sources close to the union had said flatly that the strike would be called off.

It had been set for noon (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow with Ford and the UAW-CIO unable to agree on a union demand for immunity from Taft-Hartley law penalty provisions and particulars of a workers' pension plan.

Al Leggat, UAW press representative, said "company red tape" was delaying the procedure.

Leggat said he was uncertain what effect this might have on the strike scheduling. He said, however, that both sides were hopeful of coming to a final understanding tonight.

In the meantime the UAW's Ford Council was ordered to stand by to await the negotiators' session.

Earlier authoritative sources close to negotiators said the company and CIO United Auto Workers heads had come to an understanding in their dispute involving the Taft-Hartley law.

"It's only a question now of preparing a joint statement," an official union spokesman said at 5:30 p. m. (EST).

Union Attorney Called In

Shortly before, Union Attorney Maurice Sugar had been called into the consultations. He left with a secretary and later returned to the session.

Richard T. Leonard, tall, stern-jawed vice president of the UAW-CIO and head of its Ford Department, told reporters at the outset of the meeting that the union had a counter-proposal on the Taft-Hartley issue. He did not elaborate.

However, after three hours behind doors, Bugas emerged briefly to say that the union "hadn't come up with anything new on the Taft-Hartley law."

Some time later, Thomas Thompson, president of Ford Local 600 and one of the negotiators, told reporters the union was prepared to accept a compromise company offer on the Taft-Hartley issue "with certain revisions."

He did not explain the revisions but alluded to a company suggestion that the issue be referred to a four-man committee for future settlement.

Bride, 21, Breaks Down During Jail Revival Service, Tells Of Slaying

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 4. —An attractive, 21-year-old Connecticut bride, crying "I want to make my peace with the Lord," broke down during a Psalm-singing jail service and, Sheriff Glen Jones announced today, acknowledged that she and her husband of four days lured a California businessman to his death in an isolated forest glen.

Jailed for Nevada County, Calif., where a murder charge was filed were Joseph L. Hardy, Jr., 24, North Kittery, Me., and the blonde former Lois Hunt, a native of New London Conn., and until recently a waitress in a Portsmouth, N. H., tea shop.

"People have always taken me for a sweet, innocent little girl,' Sheriff Glen Jones quoted her in one of three signed statements. "If only they knew how I am on the inside, they would sing a different tune."

Elsewhere in the statement, said the sheriff, she detailed how she and Hardy lured J. W. McLain, 48, Burbank, Calif., Veterans' Administration official, off a highway between Reno and San Francisco and how, as they sat on a blanket, Hardy shot him. McLain's body, wrapped in a blanket, was found a few miles east of Truckee by officers who started a search Sunday, soon after the incident at the jail services.

The pair had been held since Friday night for investigation, after Hardy fell asleep on the Boulder City Highway south of here and crashed in a car Jones identified as McLain's.

Sheriff Jones continued today to question the pair for amplification of hints which Jones said were contained in the statements of other slayings. At one point in Hardy's version, the sheriff declared, was the line:

"Our score in murder: Successful 3, Chicago one, California one, Louisiana one. Failed, Missouri, one."

Rep. Snyder Cites Chances Of Party In 1948 Election

Addresses Young Republican Club

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 4 — Speaking before several hundred members of the Mineral County Young Republican Club at a picnic meeting held at Minco Park, W. Va., tonight, Rep. Mel Snyder, of the Second West Virginia Congressional District, outlined the achievements of the 80th Congress and spoke enthusiastically on the chances of the party in the 1948 elections.

Rep. Snyder, who was introduced by W. L. Harman, prominent Mineral County Republican leader, cited the difficulties encountered in placing into effect the provisions of the Congressional Reorganization Law during the past session of Congress.

Snyder explained with enthusiasm the Republican program to be attempted with the 81st Congress in January and described the prospects of electing a Republican president of 1948.

In closing he proposed the following as a slogan for the next campaign, "The Democrats Failed To Win the Peace."

Another speaker on the program, Cecil Underwood, Sistersville, president of the West Virginia Young Republicans Clubs, told of the plans of the various clubs in the state. Underwood also cited two instances in West Virginia where the clubs were instrumental in overturning a Democratic stronghold and a Republican ticket won, and told of "tremendous inroads", made into Democratic majorities in another section.

The state president is currently making a tour of all Young Republican Clubs in the state and so far has covered 30 counties with 25 left to be visited.

Other prominent Republicans present at the meeting were Mineral County Circuit Court Judge Ernest A. See, State Senator A. R. Reed, Rowlesburg; John I. Rogers, clerk of the Mineral County Court; James A. Dixon, Mineral County Sheriff, Mrs. Myra Nefflin, principal of Cresaptown School; Madalyn Bazzle, Justice of the Peace at Keyser, and Prosecuting Attorney Vernon Rankin, of Mineral County.

The meeting and picnic which featured a hamburger fry was held on the lawn of the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Vern B. Kesner.

Four Projects

erge, noise and, to some extent, interruptions to water, sewerage and utility services. The successful completion of the work will need the complete co-operation and understanding of city officials, city departments, industry, commerce and the general public, all of whom should be prepared to accept the inconvenience as a necessary step toward the accomplishment of the project which will be the most important public improvement the city has ever had."

Will Cost $10,275,000

Construction cost an adjusted to 1947 on the basis of increased cost is estimated at $10,275,000. The 1942 estimate was $7,338,206.

In the section dealing with water supply, the present impounding reservoirs, Lake Gordon and Lake Koon are termed adequate for present and immediate future needs and are found to be capable of supporting a draft of 12 million gallons daily during periods comparable to the driest on record and somewhat greater during average years.

The drainage area, it states, can support drafts greater than twice that amount is sufficient additional storage is provided. It is recommended, that when the average annual consumption approaches 12 million gallons daily action should be initiated for additional storage reservoirs.

The present 12 million gallons daily filtration plant is found inadequate both in sedimentation capacity for the present filters and in overall capacity. Improved facilities for wash water, metering of filtered water and chemical treatment are needed, according to the report, which says that in addition there are other desirable improvements such as office a nd testing facilities, additional electric power, structural changes to existing plant and buildings as well as extensive inspection and overhauling of present filtering facilities which should be carried out as soon as funds are available.

It is recommended that two sedimentation tanks each holding 750,000 gallons be constructed to provide a settling time of two hours for a filtering rate of 18 million gallons daily, that the present mixing and settling tanks be converted to mixing basins having mechanical mixing equipment, that four additional filter units be constructed each having a capacity of 1.5 million gallons daily, that a metering section of the venturi type be installed on the transmission mains immediately beyond the filter plant and that miscellaneous improvements be made to chemical feed and chemical control facilities.

Construction of a 36-inch transmission main also is recommended, but the city already is prepared to go ahead with this project in the near future.

Reservoirs Are Adequate

It is pointed out that the distribution system has in general given satisfactory service and suggested improvements, such as more shut-off valves and the present policy of the Water Department in installing nothing less than six-inch pipe, are seen as more in the nature of normal maintenance, repair and extensions.

Capacity of the two large city reservoirs is found adequate even though limited to one day's usage if the duplicate transmission main is constructed.

Construction costs, adjusted to 1947, are estimated as transmission main, $845,000; filter plant improvements: settling basin, $155,000; four new filter beds, $115,000; venturi vault, $16,000; chemical feed equipment, $7,000.

The present system of collecting sewers covers nearly the entire developed ara of th city and the toveloped area of the city and the to-be served by extensions of the present system with one exception, the area adjacent to Bedford Road near the north city limits. Sewerage service could be provided to this section by extension of the Evitts Creek outfall sewer as a gravity collection system or by construction of a small sewage pumping station near the junction of Bedford and Frederick Streets with a force main to pump sewage back into existing sewers.

No additional construction or extensions to the interceptor system are recommended other than that which will be a part of the flood control construction or that which will be required to bring all sewage to a common point for treatment.

The report points out that it is to be expected that sewage treatment by Cumberland will be required in the relatively near future, and it is recommended that a primary type treatment plant be constructed but that space be provided for the addition of secondary treatment units when the control of stream pollution in the Cumberland area has reached a standard which requires better than primary treatment for all wastes discharged to the Potomac River. The location of the plant suggested is adjacent to the North Branch in or below South Cumberland, and facilities for incineration of municipal garbage and rubbish are proposed.

Costs are estimated at $1,085,000.

By-Pass Recommended

Besides recommending a crosstown viaduct from the intersection of Emily Street and Maryland Avenue to the intersection of Greene and Johnson Streets, the report proposes that a new approach highway be constructed along Central Avenue from Baltimore Avenue at Lindnerville to the beginning of the viaduct.

Arterial highways are suggested for South Cumberland along with one-way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets, and a by-pass originating at the present Henderson Boulevard viaduct and crossing Wills Creek to Wills Creek Avenue and thence to Fayette Street.

Construction of the crosstown viaduct is expected to provide space for public parking areas beneath the structure and this utilization is recommended as well as off-street parking lots for the area north of Baltimore Street.

Viaduct cost is estimated at $1,600,000.

Housing in Cumberland was found almost wholly provided by private individuals or companies and the problem was seen as one of reconstructing relatively small areas now built up with obsolete individual or row houses having inadequate space, light and air, into modern housing units. The reports says it should be possible for private enterprise to successfully rehabilitate such areas.

A zoning ordinance containing a definition of structures, usage and specific exceptions for residential, commercial and industrial zones, provisions for non-conforming uses, regulations for heights of buildings, lot coverage, front, rear and side yards; general area regulations and exceptions, enforcement procedure, penalties for violation, functions and powers of the Board of Appeals, and procedure for amendment and change is recommended.

Recreation Facilities Poor

A surge of home building and improvement is to be expected on the fringe of present development and in order to guide and insure orderly growth it is recommended that a master plan and regulations for the control of subdivisions be prepared and adopted. The plan should show existing streets, highways and major physical features as well as proposed highways, streets, bridges, viaducts, parks public lands and other proposed future development.

From a standpoint of recreational facilities the city is found deficient in neighborhood playgrounds for children of pre-school and grade school age and it is recommended that the city either independently or along with the school system acquire and develop six more neighborhood playgrounds.

Another playground similar to the North End, East Side and South End playgrounds is recommended for West Side as well as additional facilities for negro residents. It also is suggested that advantage be taken of a readily available scenic spots.

In the category of public buildings, it is recommended that a fire station be located in the vicinity of Park and Williams Streets to improve fire protection. A police substation is recommended in South Cumberland.

The present building housing the Cumberland Free Public Library is found to no longer afford space for expanding and it is suggested that a campaign to raise funds for a new building be started.

Recommendations relating to a building code fall generally into two classifications:

City Sound Financially

1. Revisions to fire zones and provisions for types of construction within fire zones which will be required as a result of the zoning ordinance.

2. Specific revisions relating to various detailed regulations for construction which appear to be desirable in the light of the present status of nationally accepted standards for such details.

The report does not recommend for the near future a subway duct system for wires of the Potomac Edison Company, Western Union, Police and Fire Department signal systems and private or railroad systems, but it offers suggestions in event such a step should be considered. It is recommended, however, that the matter be given consideration and that power and communications utilities be approached with a view to making a joint study of the fundamentals and scope of a conduit subway system which could be economically justified and carried out to mutual benefit.

Cost of such a system in the business district is estimated at $186,000.

An analysis of the financial status of the city indicates, according to the report, that the City of Cumberland is on a sound basis financially and well able to carry on normal municipal functions and meet obligations of indebtedness.

Gov. Lane, who underwent a throat operation a few days ago, has been forbidden to make speeches, and did not talk at the pageant last night.

At the dinner, however, he greeted his friends here, and stated that he hopes to return here soon to appear publicly and bring the people of Western Maryland some first hand information of the fiscal policy and condition of the state.

He refered jokingly to the sales tax and said, "I just had my throat cut, so a lot of people who have threatened me with this have been saved a lot of trouble."

Gov. Lane said, "I believe our state was headed for bankrupcy, and many of our institutions were on the decline. The only way to avoid this, was to take immediate action as painlessly as possible."

He admitted, however, the Southern Hotel plan is more expedient at the present from a traffic standpoint but said expediency should not be the only point considered.

Both Henry W. Price, representing the Blue Ridge Lines, and Clifford O. Albright, owner of the Albright Bus Lines, said they preferred the Bedford-Centre Street location because it is more convenient for the public and closer to the shopping district. Adolph Blunk, president of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, said he had no preference in the location and termed both sites "excellent locations for us." Together the three lines handle 3,000 to 4,000 passengers daily in this city with the C. and W. accommodating about 3,000.

City Commissioners Clifton E. Fuller and Myers G. Light asserted that in their opinions traffic was the principal problem and that the hotel site would offer relief from congestion while the Bedford-Centre location would tend to increase congestion.

Rep. Snyder Cites Chances Of Party In 1948 Election

Addresses Young Republican Club

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 4 — Speaking before several hundred members of the Mineral County Young Republican Club at a picnic meeting held at Minco Park, W. Va., tonight, Rep. Mel Snyder, of the Second West Virginia Congressional District, outlined the achievements of the 80th Congress and spoke enthusiastically on the chances of the party in the 1948 elections.

Rep. Snyder, who was introduced by W. L. Harman, prominent Mineral County Republican leader, cited the difficulties encountered in placing into effect the provisions of the Congressional Reorganization Law during the past session of Congress.

Snyder explained with enthusiasm the Republican program to be attempted with the 81st Congress in January and described the prospects of electing a Republican president of 1948.

In closing he proposed the following as a slogan for the next campaign, "The Democrats Failed To Win the Peace."

Another speaker on the program, Cecil Underwood, Sistersville, president of the West Virginia Young Republicans Clubs, told of the plans of the various clubs in the state. Underwood also cited two instances in West Virginia where the clubs were instrumental in overturning a Democratic stronghold and a Republican ticket won, and told of "tremendous inroads" made into Democratic majorities in another section.

The state president is currently making a tour of all Young Republican Clubs in the state and so far has covered 30 counties with 25 left to be visited.

Other prominent Republicans present at the meeting were Mineral County Circuit Court Judge Ernest A. See, State Senator A. R. Reed, Rowlesburg; John I. Rogers, clerk of the Mineral County Court; James A. Dixon, Mineral County Sheriff, Mrs. Myra Nefflin, principal of Cresaptown School; Madalyn Bazzle, Justice of the Peace at Keyser, and Prosecuting Attorney Vernon Rankin, of Mineral County.

The meeting and picnic which featured a hamburger fry was held on the lawn of the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Vern B. Kesner.

ence, noise and, to some extent, interruptions to water, sewerage and utility services. The successful completion of the work will need the complete co-operation and understanding of city officials, city departments, industry, commerce and the general public, all of whom should be prepared to accept the inconvenience as a necessary step toward the accomplishment of the project which will be the most important public improvement the city has ever had."

Will Cost $10,275,000

Construction cost an adjusted to 1947 on the basis of increased cost is estimated at $10,275,000. The 1942 estimate was $7,338,206.

In the section dealing with water supply, the present impounding reservoirs, Lake Gordon and Lake Koon are termed adequate for present and immediate future needs and are found to be capable of supporting a draft of 12 million gallons daily during periods comparable to the driest on record and somewhat greater during average years.

The drainage area, it states, can support drafts greater than twice that amount is sufficient additional storage is provided. It is recommended, that when the average annual consumption approaches 12 million gallons daily action should be initiated for additional storage reservoirs.

The present 12 million gallons daily filtration plant is found inadequate both in sedimentation capacity for the present filters and in overall capacity. Improved facilities for wash water, metering of filtered water and chemical treatment are needed, according to the report, which says that in addition there are other desirable improvements such as office a nd testing facilities, additional electric power, structural changes to existing plant and buildings as well as extensive inspection and overhauling of present filtering facilities which should be carried out as soon as funds are available.

It is recommended that two sedimentation tanks each holding 750,000 gallons be constructed to provide a settling time of two hours for a filtering rate of 18 million gallons daily, that the present mixing and settling tanks be converted to mixing basins having mechanical mixing equipment, that four additional filter units be constructed each having a capacity of 1.5 million gallons daily, that a metering section of the venturi type be installed on the transmission mains immediately beyond the filter plant and that miscellaneous improvements be made to chemical feed and chemical control facilities.

Construction of a 36-inch transmission main also is recommended, but the city already is prepared to go ahead with this project in the near future.

Reserveirs Are Adequate

It is pointed out that the distribution system has in general given satisfactory service and suggested improvements, such as more shutoff valves and the present policy of the Water Department in installing nothing less than six-inch pipe, are seen as more in the nature of normal maintenance, repair and extensions.

Capacity of the two large city reservoirs is found adequate even though limited to one day's usage if the duplicate transmission main is constructed.

Construction costs, adjusted to 1947, are estimated as transmission main, $845,000; filter plant improvements: settling basin, $155,000; four new filter beds, $115,000; venturi vault, $16,000; chemical feed equipment, $7,000.

The present system of collecting sewers covers nearly the entire developed ara of th city and the to-veloped area of the city and the to-be served by extensions of the present system with one exception, the area adjacent to Bedford Road near the north city limits. Sewerage service could be provided to this section by extension of the Evitts Creek outfall sewer as a gravity collection system or by construction of a small sewage pumping station near the junction of Bedford and Frederick Streets with a force main to pump sewage back into existing sewers.

No additional construction or extensions to the interceptor system are recommended other than that which will be a part of the flood control construction or that which will be required to bring all sewage to a common point for treatment.

The report points out that it is to be expected that sewage treatment by Cumberland will be required in the relatively near future, and it is recommended that a primary type treatment plant be constructed but that space be provided for the addition of secondary treatment units when the control of stream pollution in the Cumberland area has reached a standard which requires better than primary treatment for all wastes discharged to the Potomac River. The location of the plant suggested is adjacent to the North Branch in or below South Cumberland, and facilities for incineration of municipal garbage and rubbish are proposed.

Costs are estimated at $1,085,000.

By-Pass Recommended

Besides recommending a crosstown viaduct from the intersection of Emily Street and Maryland Avenue to the intersection of Greene and Johnson Streets, the report proposes that a new approach highway be constructed along Central Avenue from Baltimore Avenue at Lindnerville to the beginning of the viaduct.

Arterial highways are suggested for South Cumberland along with one-way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets, and a by-pass originating at the present Henderson Boulevard viaduct and crossing Wills Creek to Wills Creek Avenue and thence to Fayette Street.

Construction of the crosstown viaduct is expected to provide space for public parking areas beneath the structure and this utilization is recommended as well as off-street parking lots for the area north of Baltimore Street.

Viaduct cost is estimated at $1,600,000.

Housing in Cumberland was found almost wholly provided by private individuals or companies and the problem was seen as one of reconstructing relatively small areas now built up with obsolete individual or row houses having inadequate space, light and air, into modern housing units. The reports says it should be possible for private enterprise to successfully rehabilitate such areas.

A zoning ordinance containing a definition of structures, usage and specific exceptions for residential, commercial and industrial zones, provisions for non-conforming uses, regulations for heights of buildings, lot coverage, front, rear and side yards; general area regulations and exceptions, enforcement procedure, penalties for violation, functions and powers of the Board of Appeals, and procedure for amendment and change is recommended.

Recreation Facilities Poor

A surge of home building and improvement is to be expected on the fringe of present development and in order to guide and insure orderly growth it is recommended that a master plan and regulations for the control of subdivisions be prepared and adopted. The plan should show existing streets, highways and major physical features as well as proposed highways, streets, bridges, viaducts, parks public lands and other proposed future development.

From a standpoint of recreational facilities the city is found deficient in neighborhood playgrounds for children of pre-school and grade school age and it is recommended that the city either independently or along with the school system acquire and develop six more neighborhood playgrounds.

Another playground similar to the North End, East Side and South End playgrounds is recommended for West Side as well as additional facilities for negro residents. It also is suggested that advantage be taken of a readily available scenic spots.

In the category of public buildings, it is recommended that a fire station be located in the vicinity of Park and Williams Streets to improve fire protection. A police substation is recommended in South Cumberland.

The present building housing the Cumberland Free Public Library is found to no longer afford space for expanding and it is suggested that a campaign to raise funds for a new building be started.

Recommendations relating to a building code fall generally into two classifications:

City Sound Financially

1. Revisions to fire zones and provisions for types of construction within fire sones which will be required as a result of the zoning ordinance.

2. Specific revisions relating to various detailed regulations for construction which appear to be desirable in the light of the present status of nationally accepted standards for such details.

The report does not recommend for the near future a subway duct system for wires of the Potomac Edison Company, Western Union, Police and Fire Department signal systems and private or railroad systems, but it offers suggestions in event such a step should be considered. It is recommended, however, that the matter be given consideration and that power and communications utilities be approached with a view to making a joint study of the fundamentals and scope of a conduit subway system which could be economically justified and carried out to mutual benefit.

Cost of such a system in the business district is estimated at $186,000.

An analysis of the financial status of the city indicates, according to the report, that the City of Cumberland is on a sound basis financially and well able to carry on normal municipal functions and meet obligations of indebtedness.

Gov. Lane, who underwent a throat operation a few days ago, has been forbidden to make speeches, and did not talk at the pageant last night.

At the dinner, however, he greeted his friends here, and stated that he hopes to return here soon to appear publicly and bring the people of Western Maryland some first hand information of the fiscal policy and condition of the state.

He refered jokingly to the sales tax and said, "I just had my throat cut, so a lot of people who have threatened me with this have been saved a lot of trouble."

Gov. Lane said, "I believe our state was headed for bankrupcy, and many of our institutions were on the decline. The only way to avoid this, was to take immediate action as painlessly as possible."

Marion Street Repaving Sought By Petitioners

A request that Marion Street be blacktopped was submitted to the Mayor and City Council yesterday in a petition bearing 30 signatures and was submitted to the engineer and street commissioner for further study.

Everett L. Marean, assistant city engineer, said the street was improved in 1938 as a WPA project.

Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller complained that the Potomac Edison Company fails to provide regular bus service to Constitution Park and was asked by the Council to request Henry W. Price, company district manager, to take steps to furnish some daily service and to report his findings back to the council.

Would Help Mothers

Fuller pointed out that several buses could be run to the park in the afternoon and that a pickup could be made in the evening. He suggested more frequent runs to the park for the benefit of mothers with small children who have no other means of transportation.

Commissioner Myers G. Light said Price had informed him the company lost money on park bus service last year and is only providing holiday and Sunday service this year.

Mayor Thomas S. Post told the Council that Burill and Gwin, Baltimore engineers, will make a report soon on possible smoke control activities here.

A lone bid for a motor street sweeper was received by the council. It was $8,825 and was submitted by the Elgin Sweeper Company, Elgin, Ill. The bid was referred to the street and finance commissioners with power to act.

An ordinance to sewer Eichner Avenue, Frederick Street to Bedford Street, was approved.

Linus M. Meming and George O'Rourke reported to the Council that they plan to build on Frederick Street extended and requested that the street be opened. Commissioner Light indicated some steps would be taken to give them an outlet but said the roadway would not be paved.

Check Returned

William A. Strother, county tax collector, returned a check for $124.33 which the city previously had paid him as his fee for collecting auto taxes. Strother said the bill was submitted in error and he instructed the council to ignore another bill for $113.51.

The Council ordered a page advertisement in the program being prepared for the Maryland Amvets convention scheduled for Cum- August 30-31.

Fort Washington Chapter No. 2 Disabled American Veterans, was granted permission to sell forget-me-nots August 13 to 21 at the request of J. E. Hoffman, chairman.

The street commisioner was authorized to ask for bids for a six-cylinder four-door sedan for the engineering department.

Marie E. Hobel and Bernice J. Welch were named bath house checkers at Constitution Park at a salary of $21 a week each. They replace Hannah Kolk and Jeannine Davis.

The collector's report for July showed that $457,391.56 had been received. Of the total of $430,251.83 paid in taxes, $429,075.45 was the current year. Credited to water rent was $25,973.40.

Other collections include: Weights, $183.52; general and privilege licenses, $3,708.99.. movie taxes, $903,-70. bingo taxes, $833.55; engineer's office fees, $517.12; fines, $914.; water office fees $765.

The Loyal Order of Moose and the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club reported they have discontinued bingo games until fall.

Balances were reported as follows:

General, $409,797.19; water operating account, $127,112.16; general improvement bond account, $71,743.91, and sewer bonds of 1931, $1,981.60.

Marion Street Repaving Sought By Petitioners

A request that Marion Street be blacktopped was submitted to the Mayor and City Council yesterday in a petition bearing 30 signatures and was submitted to the engineer and street commissioner for further study.

Everett L. Marean, assistant city engineer, said the street was improved in 1938 as a WPA project.

Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller complained that the Potomac Edison Company fails to provide regular bus service to Constitution Park and was asked by the Council to request Henry W. Price, company district manager, to take steps to furnish some daily service and to report his findings back to the council.

Would Help Mothers

Fuller pointed out that several buses could be run to the park in the afternoon and that a pickup could be made in the evening. He suggested more frequent runs to the park for the benefit of mothers with small children who have no other means of transportation.

Commissioner Myers G. Light said Price had informed him the company lost money on park bus service last year and is only providing holiday and Sunday service this year.

Mayor Thomas S. Post told the Council that Burill and Gwin, Baltimore engineers, will make a report soon on possible smoke control activities here.

A lone bid for a motor street sweeper was received by the council. It was $8,825 and was submitted by the Elgin Sweeper Company, Elgin, Ill. The bid was referred to the street and finance commissioners with power to act.

An ordinance to sewer Eichner Avenue, Frederick Street to Bedford Street, was approved.

Linus M. Meming and George O'Rourke reported to the Council that they plan to build on Frederick Street extended and requested that the street be opened. Commissioner Light indicated some steps would be taken to give them an outlet but said the roadway would not be paved.

Check Returned

William A. Strother, county tax collector, returned a check for $124.33 which the city previously had paid him as his fee for collecting auto taxes. Strother said the bill was submitted in error and he instructed the council to ignore another bill for $113.51.

The Council ordered a page advertisement in the program being prepared for the Maryland Amvets convention scheduled for Cum- August 30-31.

Fort Washington Chapter No. 2 Disabled American Veterans, was granted permission to sell forget-me-nots August 13 to 21 at the request of J. E. Hoffman, chairman.

The street commisioner was authorized to ask for bids for a six-cylinder four-door sedan for the engineering department.

Marie E. Hobel and Bernice J. Welch were named bath house checkers at Constitution Park at a salary of $21 a week each. They replace Hannah Kolk and Jeannine Davis.

The collector's report for July showed that $457,391.56 had been received. Of the total of $430,251.83 paid in taxes, $429,075.45 was the current year. Credited to water rent was $25,973.40.

Other collections include: Weights, $183.52; general and privilege licenses, $3,708.99.. movie taxes, $903.-70. bingo taxes, $833.55; engineer's office fees, $517.12; fines, $914.; water office fees $765.

The Loyal Order of Moose and the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club reported they have discontinued bingo games until fall.

Balances were reported as follows:

General, $409,797.19; water operating account, $127,112.16; general improvement bond account, $71,743.91, and sewer bonds of 1931, $1,981.60.

For every ton of finished steel shipped by the United States steel industry, 4.3 tons of raw materials are progressively processed, all the way from iron ore, coke, pig iron, scrap and limestone to fuel oil and tar.

Deep Ceek Lake Being Made Safe For Vacationers

One of the most satisfying things about this vacation season has been the absence of fatalities on Deep Creek Lake, although the Grim Reaper has struck twice on the Potomac river, claiming four lives within the space of one week. Up to the time this was written not a single fatal mishap had occurred at the summer resort in Garrett county this season.

It certainly has not been because those frequenting the lake have been any more careful. Rather it has been the safeguards thrown about those who have gone there to fish, swim and partake of boating opportunities. They have worked to curb the more reckless of those on their Summer holiday. While not all of the drownings in the past have been due to daredevil tactics of those using boats on the lake, many of them have been traceable to such form of "fun."

Much of this danger has been brought under control, thanks to the Maryland General Assembly in pushing through a law now being enforced by patrolling game wardens, to whom the task of guarding against possible drownings and careless boatmen has been entrusted. They make certain all such craft are, so to speak, seaworthy, that they are equipped with life preservers for each occupant, that licenses are secured to permit them to operate on the lake and that fact is plainly visible to all using the water.

It is very evident they are doing a splendid job in the face of some unjust and unfair criticism by those who have fallen afoul of the law, and have been subjected to punishments with fines ranging up to $20 for disregarding rules and regulations.

These regulations did not come about through any spontaneous action on the part of citizens of Garrett county, nor by the voluntary action of the members of the Garrett county delegation to the Maryland Legislature. It is the result of an ultimatum from the West Penn Power Company, owner of the lake proper, and broad strips of land running the full area of the 68 miles of coastline. The company pointed out the many drownings posed the question of liability, and unless steps were taken to regulate activities on the lake it would have to close it to boating and fishing. Such action would have proved a death blow to the resort, and could have meant that those who have established cottages at considerable expense would be denied the right to get close enough to the lake to even wiggle their toes in the water. No one can take exception to such drastic intention, except, perhaps, those who detest being governed.

The law's requirements do not place any hardships on those who would enjoy the privileges the lake affords, and they should be enforced to the letter to the end that hundreds of vacationers might take advantage of the many opportunities provided with the full knewledge that their rights and safety are being safeguarded by the alertness of game wardens who have been carrying out their tasks with thoughtful consideration for all involved.

General Wedemeyer In China, And His Mission

This country, having taken steps through the proposed Marshall Plan to bring aid to Europe, is turning its attention to the Far East. The highlight of our current dealings with chaotic China is the visit of Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer to that unahppy country.

The former wartime American commander in China and chief-of-staff to Chiang Kai-Shek, is on a fact-finding tour for President Truman. He is to study the political, economic and military situations, relate them to each other, appraise the relationship, and report the findings to the President. That is his own description of his mission.

General Wedemeyer has a hard task. Secretary of State Marshall, while he was still Gen. Marshall, made a trip to China in order to seek a solution to that nation's difficulties and attempt to bring peace between the Nationalist Government and the Communists. He was unsuccessful. Today the civil war flares on several fronts and Chiang Kai-Shek has stated publicly that there can be no peace with the Chinese Reds.

The flare-up in the Far East is, in its way, as serious as that in the Balkans. China, torn by civil war, is not a strong nation. At present its economy is in chaos with wildest kind of inflation gripping the country. It is a situation made to order for Soviet Russia. Her support, openly or not, of the Chinese Communists is designed to keep China unstable.

It is not unlikely that the United States would like to inaugurate a Marshall plan for China if it could be made to work. Undoubtedly the possibility of doing so is one of the reasons behind the Wedemeyer survey. But Gen. Wedemeyer himself is in China with an open mind and has not prejudged the case. Americans would be wise to follow his example. They would also be wise to take the advice of Chiang Kai-Shek that reports on China's condition by certain American correspondents should be taken with a grain of salt. There has been too much of this misleading about China in our press, written by observers who look through red-tinted lenses while suffering from a bad case of pink eye.

Through The Iron Curtain

In Romania, on the other side of the iron curtain that divides the world, another political party has been outlawed by the Communist-dominated government. The Peasant Party's leaders are charged with having conspired with foreign imperialistic interests—meaning the United States, most likely—to impair the sovereignty of the state.

This is familiar post-war Communist tactics. When they have the power, they outlaw other parties. When finally only their own party is left, they rejoice at having achieved unity and true democracy.

The world looks strange and different through the iron curtain. It is as bizarre, though hardly as charming, as the wonderland Alice visited through the looking-glass.

It is interesting, at least, to learn that Communists are in favor of outlawing political parties which conspire with foreign interests against their own government. There is, in fact, such a party in the United States—the Communist Party.

As believers in democracy, we may question the wisdom of outlawing it. But its members, as Communists expounding the principles of "democracy" practiced in Romania and elsewhere, should logically favor their own dissolution.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

"LADIES and gentlemen, the next medical fight is about to start. In this corner, we have a hay fever sufferer; and over there sits the air-borne pollen." Bouts of this nature are going on all over the world. Some are already in progress; others will take place during the coming weeks.

A few individuals do not care to enter the ring; they escape into distant regions where bothersome trees, grasses, and weeds are not as prevalent. Others have been in training for months, receiving "shots" from their physicians to assure immunity. But the majority are prepared to endure the ordeal and await their opponent with a battery of nose drops, pills, inhalants, and masks.

No one knows why several millions of our population develop hay fever. After all, every one breathes in the same pollens but only two or three per cent are disturbed. On exposure, the membranes of the nose, throat, sinuses, and eyes become swollen and irritated. We realize that this peculiar tendency occurs in families and is transmitted from generation to generation; otherwise, our concept of the subject is theoretical.

Symptoms appear only when the particles to which sensitivity exists reach a certain concentration in the air. The victim knows that something is amiss when his nose and eyes begin to itch and tearing occurs. Sneezing follows, and then one or both nasal passageways become congested and a profuse watery discharge pours forth. Several such episodes are noted each day and their duration and severity depend upon the pollen count.

The hay fever season varies in different parts of the country, depending upon local vegetation and the time of pollination. Ten per cent are affected by tres, 30 to 40 by grasses, and 50 to 60 per cent by weeds (mainly ragweeds). The troublesom trees are chiefly those of the hardwood variety and consist mainly of the ash, beech, birch, elm, oak, hickory, and poplar. In the south, the walnut, pecan, and mulberry are the most common culprits. Grass is even more unpredictable. In general timothy, orchard, velvet, and Bermuda varieties are the worst offenders. From mid-August until October, the chief causative agent is ragweed in the eastern two-thirds of the United States. Farther west, burweed, marsh elder, wormwood sages, Russian thistle, and burning bush share with ragweeds the honor of being nuisances.

Special skin tests are available to determine the guilty substances. Many victims are sensitive to several but they need concern themselves only with those present in the immediate neighborhood. The cause can be attacked by eradicating weeds. Furthermore, by remaining in good health, the individual is better able to withstand the effects of each siege. Resistance can be raised by obtaining plenty of sunshine, fresh, air, and rest beforehand. Nose and throat operations are not advised during the hay fever period.

LISPING

D. writes: What cause a slight lisp?

REPLY

There are various possibilities including emotional disturbances, mental retardation, organic lesions, or poor training. An examination would be needed to determine the cause in the individual case.

REPLY

A nerve tumor.

ABOUT CAT HAIR

H.H. writes: If cat hair gets into the food will it cause throat or stomach trouble?

REPLY

The chief objection is from the esthetic standpoint as the hairs are neither digestible nor poisonous. I doubt if any serious ailment would result but if large amounts are ingested, hair balls (bezoars) sometimes accumulate in the stomach.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I thought "flying saucers" in the headlines were silly, but now the front pages are filled with Howard Hughes and his flying party. If throwing a party is bad, I hate to think what Congress will do to Atwater Kent.

Judy Cook, the swimming entertainer at Hughes' party, and a number of witnesses have been sent to the Capital to testify at Washington's expense. Judy was last sighted on her way doing the Australian crawl through the Panama Canal.

Of course, now that miracle man Henry J. Kaiser is mixed up in the clambake things will be different. I understand that when the committee questioned him about his part in the "deals" he said "deals shmeals—anybody wanna buy a new car?"

Despite all the talk I have great faith in Howard. After giving the nation Jane Russell, how can he let us down now with a mere plywood airplane?

But Congress isn't giving up so easily. They're digging back into Hughes' path. they claim that when he crashed that test plane into a Los Angeles apartment house, he violated the rent ceiling.

Everything in the case hinges on Mr. Hughes' ability to get his mammoth, forty million dollar flying boat into the air and that's not an easy task. It's not that the plane is faulty. He just doesn't know how to get the 8,000 families out.

But nothing will stop Hughes. If he can't get that plane off the ground he'll probably lower the earth.

Veterans' Increased Subsistance Bill Fails Of Passage Because Of Economy; Truman Luke Warm Toward Bill, Feeling Veterans Program Now Complete

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—After the smoke of congressional battle cleared, thousands of stunned veterans searched the headlines for word of an expected increase in students' subsistance, on-the-job training pay, plus promised automobiles for the blind and amputees. Both bills had passed the Senate by unanimous vote, had been shoved hurriedly through the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

However, nothing happened. The bills never passed.

Inside story is that GOP bosses in the house quietly turned thumbs down on the veterans legislation. Strategy was plotted at a secret meeting of the Republican Steering Committee, where Indiana's Majority Leader Charlie Halleck argued that the Republican party which had promised more economy than it had been able to legislate, could not afford any more veterans benefits—at least not this year.

This caused a vigorous clash inside Republican ranks.

Rules Chairman Leo Allen obediently refused to grant necessary rules to permit a vote on the Veterans' bills. But Massachusetts' motherly Edith Nourse Rogers, chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, also a Republican, refused to be bullied. For three days she struggled to force the bills before the House. Stubbornly she jumped to her feet at every opportunity, demanding unanimous consent to proceed. But Speaker Joe Martin shrugged her aside.

Finally Mrs. Rogers buttonholed both Martin and Halleck in private, trying every means of persuasion. But it was no go. Slumping into a chair in the cloakroom, she muttered bitterly:

"I don't know what to do. They don't give me excuses. They just get angry."

Slapping the Speaker

On the eve of the last session, the lady from Massachusetts made a last desperate plea.

"I do not know how the members can go back and I do not know how I can go back," she cried, "and tell the veterans . . . 'No, the Congress has passed millions and millions of dollars for relief to foreign countries and never counted the cost but we are not passing legislation for the veterans because of the cost.' . . . I believe the leadership will bring up those bills for action tomorrow. I still have faith. I do not believe that faith will be betrayed."

But the session ended, and the bills were still bottled in Committee.

At the height of the battle, Washington's local AMVET post happened to select Speaker Joe Martin for an honorary life membership. Minority leader Sam Rayburn was supposed to speak on the same program, but a last minute change kept him away, and Mrs. Rogers was hustled on the speakers' platform to take his place. Still smarting over the defeat of veterans' legislation and with the press safely absent, the lady from Massachusetts really let the honor guest have it.

"There have been times when I have hated Speaker Martin," she declared. "I suppose there have been times when he has hated me. But in a democracy we can disagree and still be friends afterward . . . But I do wish he would let me be Speaker for a day."

Truman Was Lukewarm

At the closing day of Congress, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse, who pushed the bills through the Senate, phoned Rep. Halleck, asking him to try to break the bottleneck. A Republican himself, he soundly denounced the Republican leadership for blocking action. Halleck replied by pointing out an excerpt from President Truman's State Of The Union message: "Except for minor adjustments, I believe that our program of benefits for veterans is now complete."

"So you see," Halleck hedged, "the President won't sign those bills anyhow."

"If you really believe that," shot back Morse, "wouldn't it be wiser to pass the bills? It would be our chance to put the President on the spot."

Note—Although it was the Republican leadership that blocked the bills, most Democrats remained strangely silent throughout the battle. Minority Leader Sam Rayburn and Colorado's John Carroll publicly urged passage. But there was a reason why no one pressed the fight harder. A group of progressive Democrats, including Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, Congressman John Blatnik of Minnesota and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California, called the Democratic National Committee, asking for a positive stand from the White House.

Gael Sullivan's office then queried the White House, and received back a confidential memo which estimated that the proposed subsistance increase would cost approximately $250,000,000 annually which it termed "reasonable." But the White House memo went on to argue that since it was late in the session, a message of support from the President would carry implication of support into the next session of Congress. The President could not commit himself that far ahead, the memo continued, since it was not known how much the Marshall Plan would cost.

Capital Chaff

As a result of "Congressional economy," the State Department now has only 30 employees handling goodwill for all 20 Latin American countries — barely enough to open the mail. Yet good neighborliness is the hub of our foreign policy . . . Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman and Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad are in line to be on the Joint Chiefs of Staff as a reward for their efforts in merging the Army-Navy.

Wage Spiral, The Mechanism Of Inflation, Operating With Speed

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the three weeks ending August 1st, the country experienced another rise in the wage-price spiral, which is the mechanism of inflation. This rise had characteristics which distinguish it from preceding ones. The characteristics included the clarity with which it could be seen, the brevity of the time in which it took place, and the definiteness of the successive steps which composed it.

First step. On July 8th a raise in the wages of coal miners took place by agreement between owners of coal mines and Mr. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. The amount of the raise, differing for different kinds of work, while not possible to state exactly in a single figure, was about $1.20 per day.

Second step. The wage-raise led to an increase in the price of coal. The amount of the increase cannot be stated exactly, it differs with different kinds of coal and in different parts of the country. A partial index of the increase is the retail price of coal in one large city, Washington. On July 15th the price of bituminous coal was increased an average of $1.60 a ton. On the last day of the month anthracite coal was increased an average of $1.15 a ton.

Enters Into Price of Steel

Third step. The price of coal enters into the cost of making steel. A wave of increases in prices of steel came during the last week of July, the amounts varying with different kinds of steel and differing stages of manufacture. On July 24th the Republic Steel Company announced an increase of $5 to $8 a ton. Two days later Jones & Laughlin announced an increase of $5 to $10 a ton. Several other companies announced increases during the same week. The largest producer, United States Steel Corporation, acted on July 29th, announcing an increase ranging about $5 a ton, to take effect August 1st.

Fourth step. On the first day of August came the last step, so far. Steel enters into the cost of making automobiles, and General Motors announced an increase in the prices of its automobiles and trucks. The increase ranged from two to six per cent. In terms of the price of cars, the increases on different models of Buicks, for example, ranged from $60 to $139.

While this July wave of price-increases was touched off by the raise in wages of coal miners on July 8th, and while increase in the cost of coal entered into all the other price increases, parts of several increases were due to additional factors. The steel industry had granted a wage-raise last spring and the cost of this entered into some of the increases in the prices of steel announced last week.

The increases in the prices of steel announced last week do not in all cases tell the whole story. For an increase in the price of steel at an early stage of manufacture is only one link in a chain. A pound of steel, in its passage from the original steel plant, to some plant which manufactures an intricate article containing steel, may go through a dozen processes in a dozen plants. In each, the cost of the process may be increased by increase in the cost of coal or wages or other factors. While the increase in one link may be relatively small, the increase in length of the chain is great.

Will Seriously Affect Living Costs

The increases in prices of coal and steel which took place last week must ultimately increase the prices of an infinite number of manufactured goods. The ultimate total increase in the general price level and in cost of living will be serious.

For the increases in coal and steel that took place in July, responsibility is sometimes put upon the United States Steel Corporation because that corporation, as a large producer of coal, acceded to the demand of Mr. John L. Lewis for a wage-raise, though the ultimate responsibility is of course on Mr. Lewis for making the demand. The Steel Corporation, in an explanation it has issued says: "Was it more in the interest of the country as a whole to pay whatever might prove to be the price for a new labor contract . . . or have a general strike in the bituminous coal mines," which, "would soon paralyze the industry of the country."

The present rise in the wage-price spiral arose out of negotiations between labor unions and private corporations. Rises which preceded this one, and caused this one to be added to a level already high, were brought about by the government. In January last year President Truman brought about a wage-raise in the steel industry, and concurrently the Administration, which then had control of prices, ordered an increase of $5 a ton in the price of steel in order to pay the cost of the wage-raise.

The present rise, coming on top of an already high level, is seriously dangerous. The wage-price spiral which is the mechanism of inflation, is operating with increased speed and spread.

More Output And Price Drop Only Guard Against Depression

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—The inflation spiral keeps on revolving. The indisputable fact emerges that the something-for-nothing or more-pay-for-less-work doctrines are slowly but surely bringing the democracies of the world closer and closer to the brink of economic collapse.

In Britain, the cry is for more production. But there is no relief in sight for a nation which needs to produce more. It must be able to sell outside the country enough goods to balance the cost of buying food and necessary commodities from other countries.

In America, the demand by the union labor bosses in 1945 and 1946 that workers get approximately the same pay for 40 hours of work that they got for a regular workweek and overtime during the war has resulted in an inflationary cycle that is still pyramiding business operating costs.

President Truman, who refused to maintain wage controls but for a long time insisted on keeping price controls, has fought a losing battle to persuade American producers to absorb wage increases within their existing prices. He urged them to take a chance on quantity production or large volume of sales to get a profit. They didn't like the risk in the face of rising costs in materials.

Failed to Persuade Union Bosses

Mr. Truman failed to persuade such union bosses as John L. Lewis to hold the line, too. As a consequence, despite the administration's efforts to belittle the real meaning of the wage boost in coal and to insist that the costs could be absorbed, there have been serious sequels.

Steel companies, faced with a rising price in coal, have lifted prices of steel products.

Automobile companies, faced with a rise in steel prices, have lifted the prices of automobiles.

In countless businesses, steel is the backbone of the product made and hence influences the price.

So coal influenced steel and now steel is influencing a host of other things—including new construction.

When will the spiral end?

The answer is that, for the time being, our export trade is absorbing a huge volume of American goods and when the exports decline—as they have already begun to do—the American domestic market will absorb some of this export business for a while until shortages are met. This may take a few months anyway.

Then what—when shortages are met and demand is in balance with supply?

The answer is "recession" or "depression" depending on whether the movement turns out to be a mild correction of a maladjusted situation or whether it becomes more intense and farreaching.

The situation today is by no means parallel to 1929 except in one sense—the nation found then as it will now that it cannot stand the continuance of a maladjustment indefinitely. The present crisis is due to high prices and rising wages. Eventually, as the purchasing power of the people is curtailed, demand falls off and factories have to be shut down. At that time the folly of the union leaders in forcing the issue will doubtless be camouflaged in an attempt to spread the work in 35-hour weeks—which will mean that most wage earners will earn less. If production per man is increased the situation will be retrieved after a painful transition.

Responsibility Is Administration's

The responsibility for a recession or depression will fall squarely on the administration which refused to apply to the wage spiral the same pressure it exerted on price control. The ill effects of the administration's unbalanced effort to retain price control are still being felt, as is also its policy of encouraging unions to ask for wartime earnings for less hours of work.

When the "recession" or "depression" occurs and is fully understood, the answer to recovery will be to bring about increased production per hour of wages. This, in turn, will permit lower prices. Propaganda to the effect that the production of coal, for instance, has increased recently is met with counter charges by coal operators that coal production is below what it was before the new contract was signed.

Unless this country and other countries can find a way to increase production and reduce prices, there will be economic stagnation and unemployment. The high level of business activity noticeable at the moment in America can be deceiving. Once the export trade comes down to normal and the inevitable resistance to price increases really takes hold, a serious "transition" period may be expected. When? It is anybody's guess—the climax can come anywhere from two months to two years hence, depending mostly on the severity of the impact of developments abroad on our own economic structure.

The Dollar Shortage

LET US try to make it as simple as possible, although the politicians have so over-complicated the problem that it is difficult to cut away the barnacles. There is no scarcity of dollars; if anything, too many dollars are in actual circulation. The point is that countries that have borrowed dollars are unable to pay them back. They therefore want to borrow more dollars to produce goods with which to make a profit so that they might be able to redeem a part of their I.O.U.'s. It is a desperate debtor's attitude.

The theory of the dollar shortage was manufactured by the debtors with the object of convincing the creditor that he ought to share his productivity with nations that are bogged down in a morass of experimental politics and whose people suffer from war psychosis and cannot settle down to work.

Garet Garrett has wisely written in his foreword to Walter Sulzbach's "Bugaboo of Dollar Scarcity," published by the National Industrial Conference Board:

"But to speak of a scarcity of dollars, literally, is to make nonsense. If there is one thing now plentiful in the earth it is the American dollar. What is scarce — scarce in the whole world—is the equivalent of dollars, which is a very different matter and cannot be cured by simply providing more dollars."

The European theory is that if the United States does not provide Europe with more dollars, this country will lose the credits we have already provided and we shall also lose our prospective foreign trade. But we have to ask: If we can only save our money by pouring more good money after bad, and if we can only have a foreign trade by giving the customer the money with which to buy our goods, where will this process end? Will it end before we are broke ourselves?

As it stands now, the United States is the principal producing nation. Although Great Britain came out of World War II with a loss of about $30,000,000,000 in national wealth, her industrial productivity approximates what it was before the war, but she can do no better with her present plant and equipment. It is difficult for Great Britain to draw on private capital for investment in the reconstruction of existing industries or the development of new ones as long as she experiments with socialistic nationalization.

The four principal producing countries before the war were the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Japan. Two of these were knocked out by the war and remain out; Great Britain is inadequate. Therefore, all the world seeks American goods—not only manufactured goods but agricultural and mineral products as well. All this talk about a dollar shortage really amounts to a demand that the United States supply its goods and services to Europe for nothing, for free.

Between 1942 and 1945, this country supplied the world with $48,000,000,000 of goods and services and received back $8,000,000,000. Most of the difference was wiped out as an act of grand generosity. During 1946, the United States provided $15,300,000,000 to foreign countries, receiving $7,100,000,000. Among the agencies used to transfer American wealth to Europe and Asia were UNRRA and private remittances which together amounted to $3,100,000,000. It looks now as though Europe would be willing to settle for an American contribution of $5,000,000,000 a year for four years.

Thee institutions exist to transfer American wealth abroad:

1. The Export-Import Bank has a lending authority of $3,500,000,000. This bank is owned by the Government of the United States. Its loans may not be political in nature under the law.

2. The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which rose out of the Bretton Woods Agreement. This bank has an authorized capital of $10,000,000,000 (about $8,000,000,000 paid up), which the United States, among about 45 countries, subscribed $3,175,000,000. Only the United States possesses a free ticket for the purchase and resale of its securities.

3. The International Monetary Fund exists to facilitate exchange operations.

The sum total of all this is that spigots have been hammered into our national wealth to siphon it off. Dr. Sulzbach asks: "Shall the United States give its wealth or lend it?" What's the difference?

Inner Serenity

In a world, and at a time, when there is so much confusion, fear, and hopelessness in people's minds, a new hunger—that for inner serenity—is created. How many happy, undisturbed faces can you count in a great crowd, or upon a busy street?

I have an idea Marcus Aurelius wrote that immortal little book of his, not for the public eye, ever, but that he might the more gain the joy and comfort of an inner serenity kept alive and vibrant by an unfaltering faith in the goodness of God and by the love which he had for his fellowman. No one can read this volume of "Reflections" without a spiritual lift.

It is possible for anyone to acquire this inner serenity if he will but put his mind to the task, dismissing all hatreds, all resentments, and all jealousies, for there can be none of this inner serenity with any of these at work. The secret of its attainment is centered in religion, in a devout faith, and a meaning, purposeful pursuit of the highest hopes of the heart.

Nature, also, is rich in the substance that contributes to inner serenity. I walk the velvety paths, with their emerald glow of moss, at Weskawenaak, watch the fall of the sun at the day's closing, and look upon the distant wooded hills, often grey with mists, and at other times with a richness of playing masses of color, and running shadows—deep blues, light olive, and casts of purple. Such scenes, attracting the eye, give inner serenity because Nature and God are inseparable.

None of us can hope for much inner serenity without a liberal accumulation of love in our hearts. Love for those near and dear to us, love for all beauty, love for the right and decent, love for all Nature, and love for life itself. We ought to lose ourselves in our loves! Then we would find ourselves.

People who sincerely pray early learn the secret of inner serenity. Prayer sweeps out the mind, and reconditions the heart. It schools us in patience, tolerance, and just ways. It gives to us clearness of vision. We see beyond our own petty interests. We glimpse God!

Deep Ceek Lake Being Made Safe For Vacationers

One of the most satisfying things about this vacation season has been the absence of fatalities on Deep Creek Lake, although the Grim Reaper has struck twice on the Potomac river, claiming four lives within the space of one week. Up to the time this was written not a single fatal mishap had occurred at the summer resort in Garrett county this season.

It certainly has not been because those frequenting the lake have been any more careful. Rather it has been the safeguards thrown about those who have gone there to fish, swim and partake of boating opportunities. They have worked to curb the more reckless of those on their Summer holiday. While not all of the drownings in the past have been due to daredevil tactics of those using boats on the lake, many of them have been traceable to such form of "fun."

Much of this danger has been brought under control, thanks to the Maryland General Assembly in pushing through a law now being enforced by patrolling game wardens, to whom the task of guarding against possible drownings and careless boatmen has been entrusted. They make certain all such craft are, so to speak, seaworthy, that they are equipped with life preservers for each occupant, that licenses are secured to permit them to operate on the lake and that fact is plainly visible to all using the water.

It is very evident they are doing a splendid job in the face of some unjust and unfair criticism by those who have fallen afoul of the law, and have been subjected to punishments with fines ranging up to $20 for disregarding rules and regulations.

These regulations did not come about through any spontaneous action on the part of citizens of Garrett county, nor by the voluntary action of the members of the Garrett county delegation to the Maryland Legislature. It is the result of an ultimatum from the West Penn Power Company, owner of the lake proper, and broad strips of land running the full area of the 68 miles of coastline. The company pointed out the many drownings posed the question of liability, and unless steps were taken to regulate activities on the lake it would have to close it to boating and fishing. Such action would have proved a death blow to the resort, and could have meant that those who have established cottages at considerable expense would be denied the right to get close enough to the lake to even wiggle their toes in the water. No one can take exception to such drastic intention, except, perhaps, those who detest being governed.

The law's requirements do not place any hardships on those who would enjoy the privileges the lake affords, and they should be enforced to the letter to the end that hundreds of vacationers might take advantage of the many opportunities provided with the full knewledge that their rights and safety are being safeguarded by the alertness of game wardens who have been carrying out their tasks with thoughtful consideration for all involved.

General Wedemeyer In China, And His Mission

This country, having taken steps through the proposed Marshall Plan to bring aid to Europe, is turning its attention to the Far East. The highlight of our current dealings with chaotic China is the visit of Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer to that unahppy country.

The former wartime American commander in China and chief-of-staff to Chiang Kai-Shek, is on a fact-finding tour for President Truman. He is to study the political, economic and military situations, relate them to each other, appraise the relationship, and report the findings to the President. That is his own description of his mission.

General Wedemeyer has a hard task. Secretary of State Marshall, while he was still Gen. Marshall, made a trip to China in order to seek a solution to that nation's difficulties and attempt to bring peace between the Nationalist Government and the Communists. He was unsuccessful. Today the civil war flares on several fronts and Chiang Kai-Shek has stated publicly that there can be no peace with the Chinese Reds.

The flare-up in the Far East is, in its way, as serious as that in the Balkans. China, torn by civil war, is not a strong nation. At present its economy is in chaos with wildest kind of inflation gripping the country. It is a situation made to order for Soviet Russia. Her support, openly or not, of the Chinese Communists is designed to keep China unstable.

It is not unlikely that the United States would like to inaugurate a Marshall plan for China if it could be made to work. Undoubtedly the possibility of doing so is one of the reasons behind the Wedemeyer survey. But Gen. Wedemeyer himself is in China with an open mind and has not prejudged the case. Americans would be wise to follow his example. They would also be wise to take the advice of Chiang Kai-Shek that reports on China's condition by certain American correspondents should be taken with a grain of salt. There has been too much of this misleading about China in our press, written by observers who look through red-tinted lenses while suffering from a bad case of pink eye.

Through The Iron Curtain

In Romania, on the other side of the iron curtain that divides the world, another political party has been outlawed by the Communist-dominated government. The Peasant Party's leaders are charged with having conspired with foreign imperialistic interests—meaning the United States, most likely—to impair the sovereignty of the state.

This is familiar post-war Communist tactics. When they have the power, they outlaw other parties. When finally only their own party is left, they rejoice at having achieved unity and true democracy.

The world looks strange and different through the iron curtain. It is as bizarre, though hardly as charming, as the wonderland Alice visited through the looking-glass.

It is interesting, at least, to learn that Communists are in favor of outlawing political parties which conspire with foreign interests against their own government. There is, in fact, such a party in the United States—the Communist Party.

As believers in democracy, we may question the wisdom of outlawing it. But its members, as Communists expounding the principles of "democracy" practiced in Romania and elsewhere, should logically favor their own dissolution.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

COMING ATTRACTIONS

"LADIES and gentlemen, the next medical fight is about to start. In this corner, we have a hay fever sufferer; and over there sits the air-borne pollen." Bouts of this nature are going on all over the world. Some are already in progress; others will take place during the coming weeks.

A few individuals do not care to enter the ring; they escape into distant regions where bothersome trees, grasses, and weeds are not as prevalent. Others have been in training for months, receiving "shots" from their physicians to assure immunity. But the majority are prepared to endure the ordeal and await their opponent with a battery of nose drops, pills, inhalants, and masks.

No one knows why several millions of our population develop hay fever. After all, every one breathes in the same pollens but only two or three per cent are disturbed. On exposure, the membranes of the nose, throat, sinuses, and eyes become swollen and irritated. We realize that this peculiar tendency occurs in families and is transmitted from generation to generation; otherwise, our concept of the subject is theoretical.

Symptoms appear only when the particles to which sensitivity exists reach a certain concentration in the air. The victim knows that something is amiss when his nose and eyes begin to itch and tearing occurs. Sneezing follows, and then one or both nasal passageways become congested and a profuse watery discharge pours forth. Several such episodes are noted each day and their duration and severity depend upon the pollen count.

The hay fever season varies in different parts of the country, depending upon local vegetation and the time of pollination. Ten per cent are affected by tres, 30 to 40 by grasses, and 50 to 60 per cent by weeds (mainly ragweeds). The troublesom trees are chiefly those of the hardwood variety and consist mainly of the ash, beech, birch, elm, oak, hickory, and poplar. In the south, the walnut, pecan, and mulberry are the most common culprits. Grass is even more unpredictable. In general timothy, orchard, velvet, and Bermuda varieties are the worst offenders. From mid-August until October, the chief causative agent is ragweed in the eastern two-thirds of the United States. Farther west, burweed, marsh elder, wormwood sages, Russian thistle, and burning bush share with ragweeds the honor of being nuisances.

Special skin tests are available to determine the guilty substances. Many victims are sensitive to several but they need concern themselves only with those present in the immediate neighborhood. The cause can be attacked by eradicating weeds. Furthermore, by remaining in good health, the individual is better able to withstand the effects of each siege. Resistance can be raised by obtaining plenty of sunshine, fresh, air, and rest beforehand. Nose and throat operations are not advised during the hay fever period.

LISPING

D. writes: What cause a slight lisp?

REPLY

There are various possibilities including emotional disturbances, mental retardation, organic lesions, or poor training. An examination would be needed to determine the cause in the individual case.

A GROWTH

B. W. writes: What is a neuroma?

REPLY

A nerve tumor.

ABOUT CAT HAIR

H.H. writes: If cat hair gets into the food will it cause throat or stomach trouble?

REPLY

The chief objection is from the esthetic standpoint as the hairs are neither digestible nor poisonous. I doubt if any serious ailment would result but if large amounts are ingested, hair balls (bezoars) sometimes accumulate in the stomach.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I thought "flying saucers" in the headlines were silly, but now the front pages are filled with Howard Hughes and his flying party. If throwing a party is bad, I hate to think what Congress will do to Atwater Kent.

Judy Cook, the swimming entertainer at Hughes' party, and a number of witnesses have been sent to the Capital to testify at Washington's expense. Judy was last sighted on her way doing the Australian crawl through the Panama Canal.

Of course, now that miracle man Henry J. Kaiser is mixed up in the clambake things will be different. I understand that when the committee questioned him about his part in the "deals" he said "deals shmeals—anybody wanna buy a new car?"

Despite all the talk I have great faith in Howard. After giving the nation Jane Russell, how can he let us down now with a mere plywood airplane?

But Congress isn't giving up so easily. They're digging back into Hughes' path, they claim that when he crashed that test plane into a Los Angeles apartment house, he violated the rent ceiling.

Everything in the case hinges on Mr. Hughes' ability to get his mammoth, forty million dollar flying boat into the air and that's not an easy task. It's not that the plane is faulty. He just doesn't know how to get the 8,000 families out.

But nothing will stop Hughes. If he can't get that plane off the ground he'll probably lower the earth.

Veterans' Increased Subsistance Bill Fails Of Passage Because Of Economy; Truman Luke Warm Toward Bill, Feeling Veterans Program Now Complete

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—After the smoke of congressional battle cleared, thousands of stunned veterans searched the headlines for word of an expected increase in students' subsistance, on-the-job training pay, plus promised automobiles for the blind and amputees. Both bills had passed the Senate by unanimous vote, had been shoved hurriedly through the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

However, nothing happened. The bills never passed.

Inside story is that GOP bosses in the house quietly turned thumbs down on the veterans legislation. Strategy was plotted at a secret meeting of the Republican Steering Committee, where Indiana's Majority Leader Charlie Halleck argued that the Republican party which had promised more economy than it had been able to legislate, could not afford any more veterans benefits—at least not this year.

This caused a vigorous clash inside Republican ranks.

Rules Chairman Leo Allen obediently refused to grant necessary rules to permit a vote on the Veterans' bills. But Massachusetts' motherly Edith Nourse Rogers, chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, also a Republican, refused to be bullied. For three days she struggled to force the bills before the House. Stubbornly she jumped to her feet at every opportunity, demanding unanimous consent to proceed. But Speaker Joe Martin shrugged her aside.

Finally Mrs. Rogers buttonholed both Martin and Halleck in private, trying every means of persuasion. But it was no go. Slumping into a chair in the cloakroom, she muttered bitterly:

"I don't know what to do. They don't give me excuses. They just get angry."

Slapping the Speaker

On the eve of the last session, the lady from Massachusetts made a last desperate plea.

"I do not know how the members can go back and I do not know how I can go back," she cried, "and tell the veterans . . . 'No, the Congress has passed millions and millions of dollars for relief to foreign countries and never counted the cost but we are not passing legislation for the veterans because of the cost.' . . . I believe the leadership will bring up those bills for action tomorrow. I still have faith. I do not believe that faith will be betrayed."

But the session ended, and the bills were still bottled in Committee.

At the height of the battle, Washington's local AMVET post happened to select Speaker Joe Martin for an honorary life membership. Minority leader Sam Rayburn was supposed to speak on the same program, but a last minute change kept him away, and Mrs. Rogers was hustled on the speakers' platform to take his place. Still smarting over the defeat of veterans' legislation and with the press safely absent, the lady from Massachusetts really let the honor guest have it.

"There have been times when I have hated Speaker Martin," she declared. "I suppose there have been times when he has hated me. But in a democracy we can disagree and still be friends afterward . . . But I do wish he would let me be Speaker for a day."

Truman Was Lukewarm

At the closing day of Congress, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse, who pushed the bills through the Senate, phoned Rep. Halleck, asking him to try to break the bottleneck. A Republican himself, he soundly denounced the Republican leadership for blocking action. Halleck replied by pointing out an excerpt from President Truman's State Of The Union message: "Except for minor adjustments, I believe that our program of benefits for veterans is now complete."

"So you see," Halleck hedged, "the President won't sign those bills anyhow."

"If you really believe that," shot back Morse, "wouldn't it be wiser to pass the bills? It would be our chance to put the President on the spot."

Note—Although it was the Republican leadership that blocked the bills, most Democrats remained strangely silent throughout the battle. Minority Leader Sam Rayburn and Colorado's John Carroll publicly urged passage. But there was a reason why no one pressed the fight harder. A group of progressive Democrats, including Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, Congressman John Blatnik of Minnesota and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California, called the Democratic National Committee, asking for a positive stand from the White House.

Gael Sullivan's office then queried the White House, and received back a confidential memo which estimated that the proposed subsistance increase would cost approximately $250,000,000 annually which it termed "reasonable." But the White House memo went on to argue that since it was late in the session, a message of support from the President would carry implication of support into the next session of Congress. The President could not commit himself that far ahead, the memo continued, since it was not known how much the Marshall Plan would cost.

Capital Chaff

As a result of "Congressional economy," the State Department now has only 30 employees handling goodwill for all 20 Latin American countries — barely enough to open the mail. Yet good neighborliness is the hub of our foreign policy . . . Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman and Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad are in line to be on the Joint Chiefs of Staff as a reward for their efforts in merging the Army-Navy.

Wage Spiral, The Mechanism Of Inflation, Operating With Speed

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the three weeks ending August 1st, the country experienced another rise in the wage-price spiral, which is the mechanism of inflation. This rise had characteristics which distinguish it from preceding ones. The characteristics included the clarity with which it could be seen, the brevity of the time in which it took place, and the definiteness of the successive steps which composed it.

First step. On July 8th a raise in the wages of coal miners took place by agreement between owners of coal mines and Mr. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. The amount of the raise, differing for different kinds of work, while not possible to state exactly in a single figure, was about $1.20 per day.

Second step. The wage-raise led to an increase in the price of coal. The amount of the increase cannot be stated exactly, it differs with different kinds of coal and in different parts of the country. A partial index of the increase is the retail price of coal in one large city, Washington. On July 15th the price of bituminous coal was increased an average of $1.60 a ton. On the last day of the month anthracite coal was increased an average of $1.15 a ton.

Enters Into Price of Steel

Third step. The price of coal enters into the cost of making steel. A wave of increases in prices of steel came during the last week of July, the amounts varying with different kinds of steel and differing stages of manufacture. On July 24th the Republic Steel Company announced an increase of $5 to $8 a ton. Two days later Jones & Laughlin announced an increase of $5 to $10 a ton. Several other companies announced increases during the same week. The largest producer, United States Steel Corporation, acted on July 29th, announcing an increase ranging about $5 a ton, to take effect August 1st.

Fourth step. On the first day of August came the last step, so far. Steel enters into the cost of making automobiles, and General Motors announced an increase in the prices of its automobiles and trucks. The increase ranged from two to six per cent. In terms of the price of cars, the increases on different models of Buicks, for example, ranged from $60 to $139.

While this July wave of price-increases was touched off by the raise in wages of coal miners on July 8th, and while increase in the cost of coal entered into all the other price increases, parts of several increases were due to additional factors. The steel industry had granted a wage-raise last spring and the cost of this entered into some of the increases in the prices of steel announced last week.

The increases in the prices of steel announced last week do not in all cases tell the whole story. For an increase in the price of steel at an early stage of manufacture is only one link in a chain. A pound of steel, in its passage from the original steel plant, to some plant which manufactures an intricate article containing steel, may go through a dozen processes in a dozen plants. In each, the cost of the process may be increased by increase in the cost of coal or wages or other factors. While the increase in one link may be relatively small, the increase in length of the chain is great.

Will Seriously Affect Living Costs

The increases in prices of coal and steel which took place last week must ultimately increase the prices of an infinite number of manufactured goods. The ultimate total increase in the general price level and in cost of living will be serious.

For the increases in coal and steel that took place in July, responsibility is sometimes put upon the United States Steel Corporation because that corporation, as a large producer of coal, acceded to the demand of Mr. John L. Lewis for a wage-raise, though the ultimate responsibility is of course on Mr. Lewis for making the demand. The Steel Corporation, in an explanation it has issued says: "Was it more in the interest of the country as a whole to pay whatever might prove to be the price for a new labor contract . . . or have a general strike in the bituminous coal mines," which, "would soon paralyze the industry of the country."

The present rise in the wage-price spiral arose out of negotiations between labor unions and private corporations. Rises which preceded this one, and caused this one to be added to a level already high, were brought about by the government. In January last year President Truman brought about a wage-raise in the steel industry, and concurrently the Administration, which then had control of prices, ordered an increase of $5 a ton in the price of steel in order to pay the cost of the wage-raise.

The present rise, coming on top of an already high level, is seriously dangerous. The wage-price spiral which is the mechanism of inflation, is operating with increased speed and spread.

More Output And Price Drop Only Guard Against Depression

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—The inflation spiral keeps on revolving. The indisputable fact emerges that the something-for-nothing or more-pay-for-less-work doctrines are slowly but surely bringing the democracies of the world closer and closer to the brink of economic collapse.

In Britain, the cry is for more production. But there is no relief in sight for a nation which needs to produce more. It must be able to sell outside the country enough goods to balance the cost of buying food and necessary commodities from other countries.

In America, the demand by the union labor bosses in 1945 and 1946 that workers get approximately the same pay for 40 hours of work that they got for a regular workweek and overtime during the war has resulted in an inflationary cycle that is still pyramiding business operating costs.

President Truman, who refused to maintain wage controls but for a long time insisted on keeping price controls, has fought a losing battle to persuade American producers to absorb wage increases within their existing prices. He urged them to take a chance on quantity production or large volume of sales to get a profit. They didn't like the risk in the face of rising costs in materials.

Failed to Persuade Union Bosses

Mr. Truman failed to persuade such union bosses as John L. Lewis to hold the line, too. As a consequence, despite the administration's efforts to belittle the real meaning of the wage boost in coal and to insist that the costs could be absorbed, there have been serious sequels.

Steel companies, faced with a rising price in coal, have lifted prices of steel products.

Automobile companies, faced with a rise in steel prices, have lifted the prices of automobiles.

In countless businesses, steel is the backbone of the product made and hence influences the price.

So coal influenced steel and now steel is influencing a host of other things—including new construction.

When will the spiral end?

The answer is that, for the time being, our export trade is absorbing a huge volume of American goods and when the exports decline—as they have already begun to do—the American domestic market will absorb some of this export business for a while until shortages are met. This may take a few months anyway.

Then what—when shortages are met and demand is in balance with supply?

The answer is "recession" or "depression" depending on whether the movement turns out to be a mild correction of a maladjusted situation or whether it becomes more intense and farreaching.

The situation today is by no means parallel to 1929 except in one sense—the nation found then as it will now that it cannot stand the continuance of a maladjustment indefinitely. The present crisis is due to high prices and rising wages. Eventually, as the purchasing power of the people is curtailed, demand falls off and factories have to be shut down. At that time the folly of the union leaders in forcing the issue will doubtless be camouflaged in an attempt to spread the work in 35-hour weeks—which will mean that most wage earners will earn less. If production per man is increased the situation will be retrieved after a painful transition.

Responsibility Is Administration's

The responsibility for a recession or depression will fall squarely on the administration which refused to apply to the wage spiral the same pressure it exerted on price control. The ill effects of the administration's unbalanced effort to retain price control are still being felt, as is also its policy of encouraging unions to ask for wartime earnings for less hours of work.

When the "recession" or "depression" occurs and is fully understood, the answer to recovery will be to bring about increased production per hour of wages. This, in turn, will permit lower prices. Propaganda to the effect that the production of coal, for instance, has increased recently is met with counter charges by coal operators that coal production is below what it was before the new contract was signed.

Unless this country and other countries can find a way to increase production and reduce prices, there will be economic stagnation and unemployment. The high level of business activity noticeable at the moment in America can be deceiving. Once the export trade comes down to normal and the inevitable resistance to price increases really takes hold, a serious "transition" period may be expected. When? It is anybody's guess—the climax can come anywhere from two months to two years hence, depending mostly on the severity of the impact of developments abroad on our own economic structure.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Dollar Shortage

LET US try to make it as simple as possible, although the politicians have so over-complicated the problem that it is difficult to cut away the barnacles. There is no scarcity of dollars; if anything, too many dollars are in actual circulation. The point is that countries that have borrowed dollars are unable to pay them back. They therefore want to borrow more dollars to produce goods with which to make a profit so that they might be able to redeem a part of their I.O.U.'s. It is a desperate debtor's attitude.

The theory of the dollar shortage was manufactured by the debtors with the object of convincing the creditor that he ought to share his productivity with nations that are bogged down in a morass of experimental politics and whose people suffer from war psychosis and cannot settle down to work.

Garet Garrett has wisely written in his foreword to Walter Sulzbach's "Bugaboo of Dollar Scarcity," published by the National Industrial Conference Board:

"But to speak of a scarcity of dollars, literally, is to make nonsense. If there is one thing now plentiful in the earth it is the American dollar. What is scarce — scarce in the whole world—is the equivalent of dollars, which is a very different matter and cannot be cured by simply providing more dollars."

The European theory is that if the United States does not provide Europe with more dollars, this country will lose the credits we have already provided and we shall also lose our prospective foreign trade. But we have to ask: If we can only save our money by pouring more good money after bad, and if we can only have a foreign trade by giving the customer the money with which to buy our goods, where will this process end? Will it end before we are broke ourselves?

As it stands now, the United States is the principal producing nation. Although Great Britain came out of World War II with a loss of about $30,000,000,000 in national wealth, her industrial productivity approximates what it was before the war, but she can do no better with her present plant and equipment. It is difficult for Great Britain to draw on private capital for investment in the reconstruction of existing industries or the development of new ones as long as she experiments with socialistic nationalization.

The four principal producing countries before the war were the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Japan. Two of these were knocked out by the war and remain out; Great Britain is inadequate. Therefore, all the world seeks American goods—not only manufactured goods but agricultural and mineral products as well. All this talk about a dollar shortage really amounts to a demand that the United States supply its goods and services to Europe for nothing, for free.

Between 1942 and 1945, this country supplied the world with $48,000,000,000 of goods and services and received back $8,000,000,000. Most of the difference was wiped out as an act of grand generosity. During 1946, the United States provided $15,300,000,000 to foreign countries, receiving $7,100,000,000. Among the agencies used to transfer American wealth to Europe and Asia were UNRRA and private remittances which together amounted to $3,100,000,000. It looks now as though Europe would be willing to settle for an American contribution of $5,000,000,000 a year for four years.

Thee institutions exist to transfer American wealth abroad:

1. The Export-Import Bank has lending authority of $3,500,000,000. This bank is owned by the Government of the United States. Its loans may not be political in nature under the law.

2. The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which rose out of the Bretton Woods Agreement. This bank has an authorized capital of $10,000,000,000 (about $8,000,000,000 paid up), which the United States, among about 45 countries, subscribed $3,175,000,000. Only the United States possesses a free ticket for the purchase and resale of its securities.

3. The International Monetary Fund exists to facilitate exchange operations.

The sum total of all this is that spigots have been hammered into our national wealth to siphon it off. Dr. Sulzbach asks: "Shall the United States give its wealth or lend it?" What's the difference?

Inner Serenity

In a world, and at a time, when there is so much confusion, fear, and hopelessness in people's minds, a new hunger—that for inner serenity—is created. How many happy, undisturbed faces can you count in a great crowd, or upon a busy street?

I have an idea Marcus Aurelius wrote that immortal little book of his, not for the public eye, ever, but that he might the more gain the joy and comfort of an inner serenity kept alive and vibrant by an unfaltering faith in the goodness of God and by the love which he had for his fellowman. No one can read this volume of "Reflections" without a spiritual lift.

It is possible for anyone to acquire this inner serenity if he will but put his mind to the task, dismissing all hatreds, all resentments, and all jealousies, for there can be none of this inner serenity with any of these at work. The secret of its attainment is centered in religion, in a devout faith, and a meaning, purposeful pursuit of the highest hopes of the heart.

Nature, also, is rich in the substance that contributes to inner serenity. I walk the velvety paths, with their emerald glow of moss at Weskawenaak, watch the fall of the sun at the day's closing, and look upon the distant wooded hills, often grey with mists, and at other times with a richness of playing masses of color, and running shadows—deep blues, light olive, and casts of purple. Such scenes, attracting the eye, give inner serenity because Nature and God are inseparable.

None of us can hope for much inner serenity without a liberal accumulation of love in our hearts. Love for those near and dear to us, love for all beauty, love for the right and decent, love for all Nature, and love for life itself. We ought to lose ourselves in our loves! Then we would find ourselves.

People who sincerely pray early learn the secret of inner serenity. Prayer sweeps out the mind, and reconditions the heart. It schools us in patience, tolerance, and just ways. It gives to us clearness of vision. We see beyond our own petty interests. We glimpse God!

The other day a skinny kid, no bigger than a fire hydrant, came up and asked me for a job. "What do you do, son?" I asked him. "What's your specialty?"

"You ought to know me," he said, "I'm the little colored boy who writes Irving Berlin's songs."

"Well, have a chair," I said. "Have two chairs. I've been hearing about you for years. How long have you worked for Mr. Berlin?"

"Oh, since 1907," he replied. "I wrote his first ditty when he was a singing waiter down on the Bowery."

"You look kind of young for a fellow who's been grinding them out for 39 years," I said.

"Why shouldn't I?" he answered. "Irving does the worrying for both of us."

"Well then, why do you want to leave him?" I asked. "Doesn't he pay you well?"

"Oh, sure," he said, "he gives me every dime he makes. But that man won't let me sleep. I guess nobody ever broke the news to him about bed. He keeps me chained to the piano—and night and day he cracks the whip and says, 'Lift that note, tote that bar!' 'Alexander's Ragtime Band', 'Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody', 'Always', 'God Bless America', 'White Christmas' —thousands of them—who can remember them all?"

"Nobody but everybody," I said. "You're the kid who turned Tin Pan Alley into a boulevard."

"Save the sweet talk," said the urchin. "We've heard better from Congress. But what kind of a life is this for a growing boy? Those Music Box revues were tough enough —but ever since talking pictures he's had me living on benzedrine.

"I sure hope there ain't no more shooting wars. You see that arm? Forty-seven inoculations! Twice already he's dragged me off to a tent and made me write soldier shows. The last one made ten million bucks, and do you know something—that crazy man give it all to Army Relief!

"When we got back, I thought he might let me take it easy for a spell —but not him! Bang! I'm back in Hollywood, slaving away on a picture called 'Blue Skies'. Voom! I'm back in New York doing 18 songs for something called 'Annie Get Your Gun'. I can't take it no more, Mr. Rose. If you've got some little job around here I can do, and live like ordinary folks, I'm your boy."

I hope Irving doesn't mind, but I've hired his little colored boy to write these columns.

Palumbo Started In '27

Pittsburgh Honors Posey

By C. V. BURNS

Sammy Palumbo, dubbed the Eddie Arcaro of the half mile tracks, is 37 years old, and won his first race in 1927 at the Jamaica (N.Y.) track.

He's the son of a Flushing, Long Island, barber, and didn't become a celebrity on the bullring circuit until 1934 when he was second leading rider at the Charles Town (W Va.) winter meeting.

The peak of Sammy's success probably was reached in the late 1930's when he rode the gallant mare Royal Business to so many victories and he did it right here at Fairgo. There's no question in Palumbo's mind that Royal Business was the best horse he ever rode.

"They just couldn't beat her on the half milers," Sammy reminisced the other day. "It seemed like every year they'd bring down some mile track horses to run against her, and each time the mare would get up through the stretch to beat them at the wire."

During his long career Palumbo has been set down only once and that happened when he rode a green horse which bore out with him through the stretch.

Palumbo, who has been riding annually at Fairgo since the early 1930s, is the father of three children, ages nine, eight and six.

Sammy hopes to ride at Fairgo again two weeks from today when the local fair association's 10-day meeting gets under way.

Woody Harner, the Hagerstown amateur golfer, who teamed up with the Cumberland Country Club's pro, Carroll Boggs, to sweep the pro-amateur tourney at Suburban Club, Baltimore, last week, will have his stroke allowance arbitrarily reduced, according to Baltimore links leaders. The Fountain Head ace, who possessed a 10-stroke handicap, was the whole show in the one-day tourney and highlighting his round was a birdie three at the tough 12th hole, a stretch that stumped many of the salaried players.

One hundred and forty-eight players—122 amateurs and 26 pros—participated in the tourney.

Owen Ray Stanley, Cumberland Times carrier, who won the soap box derby in Keyser last week and earned a trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the national event o n August 17, is a brother-in-law of "Bud" Mosser, slugging outfielder of the Westvaco Club of the Bi-State Baseball League.

Mrs. Mosser was Miss Mary Stanley.

Owen comes from Coach "Tack" Clark's neighborhood in Keyser. "We're both west enders," Clark informed us.

Nat Dantzic, the old minstrel man, was at the derby last week in the role of blackface entertainer. His assistant was Frank Knight who played the part of a clown.

The pair entertained the spectators before the program got under way and between each event.

Dantzic is a former Cumberlander and was associated with the outstanding minstrel companies as blackface comedian for many years. He was with Al G. Fields, Neil O'Brien, Gus Hill and John Vogel in the days when we'd pass up a football or baseball game to see a good minstrel show. Nat's still the same funny man we first met 25 years ago.

John Turner, Jr., new racing secretary for the Cumberland Fair Association, will be one of the stewards when the Hagerstown race meeting of ten days gets under way today at 2:15 p. m. Gus Haus, former official at Fairgo, and Joseph F. Flanagan, representing the Maryland Racing Commission, will be the other stewards in the Hub City.

The matching of Billy Fox and Georgie Kochan, the Ohioan, for a main bout in Madison Square Garden, Friday, is a good example of the scarcity of topflight fighters in progessional boxing.

Kochan was a fair to middlin' scrapper when he fought in one of "Vic" Ricker's shows about five years ago but he's been through the mill since then and is pretty well punched out. He's turned out to be just a catcher for the better class fighters and Fox should fatten up his batting average in the forthcoming fiasco.

Last week's Sporting News, the baseball player's bible, carried a story on Joe "Ducky" Medwick, who broke into major league baseball with Scottdale of the Mid-Atlantic League under the name of Mickey King. It states that Branch Rickey, then head man on the St. Louis Cards, made a trip to Johnstown to talk "Mickey" out of his idea of returning to college to play football.

We recall the day that Russell Heckenberry, secretary of the league, requested us in the press box at Mid City Park to change King's name to Medwick when Scottdale came to town to play the Colts. It's true about Medwick hitting wild pitches out of the park for home runs. In fact, Scottdale always carried a flock of youngsters who could belt that ball far and often.

The late Cumberland "Cum" Posey, who managed the Homestead Grays for many years and brought them here numerous times for games with the Cumberland Colts will be honored at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, tomorrow, when a twin bill will be staged, the receipts to go to the Posey Athletic Scholarship Fund.

Dormont will play Oakmont in a twilight game and the winning team will play the Homestead Grays under the lights.

One of Posey's stars we always thought could have made the major leagues if negro players were admitted to the big show when he was in his prime was the late "Josh" Gibson, the Grays' great catcher, who could hit that ball a mile with effortless ease. He hit several record homers at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C., that the fans still talk about.

Fair Association Hikes Value Of Feature Races

Purses Of $40,200 Offered First Week

The Cumberland Fair Association will offer purses totalling $40,200 for the 40 races to be run at Fairgo during the first half of the ten-day race meeting which will get under way here Tuesday, August 19.

This fact was revealed yesterday with the appearance of the condition book which will be distributed to horsemen assembled at Hagerstown and other Maryland and West Virginia tracks.

Purses are up $3,500 over the first five days of 1946 when a total of $36,700 was distributed among the owners of winning thoroughbreds.

The top race listed for opening week this year will be The Harry A. Manley Handicap Trophy to be run as the fifth event on Saturday, August 23. The purse value of the Manley, named in honor of the late president and general manager, has been upped from $1,000 to $1,200.

It was learned yesterday that The Clifton W. White Handicap, named in honor of the president and general manager of the local association, will carry a purse of $1,500 this year, an increase of $300 over the amount offered in 1946. The White will be run on Cumberland Day, Wednesday, August 27.

Purses are to be divided as follows:

$1,000—$700, first; $150, second; $100, third; $50, fourth.

$1,200—$825, first; $200, second; $100, third; $75, fourth.

1,500—$975, first; $300, second; $1$0, third; $75 fourth.

In the absence of a specific contract, the jockeys' fees for purses up to $999 shall be: $25, rider of winning mount; $15 for rider of second mount; $10 for riders of all other mounts.

For purses up to $1,999 the jockeys' fees shall be $35 for the rider of a winning mount and $15 for the rider of all other mounts.

Umpire Troubles Aired At Meeting

Centerville Warned By President Long

President John J. Long of the Interstate League told Manager John Hafer of the Centerville Reds that the management of the Pennsylvania team is responsible for the conduct of its players and fans toward umpires and stated that the league will take drastic action if arbiters are not treated with more respect at Centerville home games.

Long laid down the law to Hafer at a league meeting last night at the American Legion home after umpires had filed complaints relative to the shabby treatment they've received at Centerville. On one occasion an umpire was doused with a bucket of water.

"Umpires must receive better treatment and the Centerville management will be held responsible for the conduct of its players and fans," Long emphasized.

Eddie Diehl, manager of the Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion junior team, said that the junior nine will seek a franchise in the "faster circuit" next season to be better prepared for state tournament games. Long said this matter will be taken up at the league's winter session.

The Interstate's Shaughnessy playoff series will start on Saturday, September 6. The first two games of the best-of-three-games series will be staged on Saturday and Sunday and the third game, if necessary, will be played on the following Wednesday so that the final series can get under way Saturday or Sunday.

C. William Spangler, league umpire-in-chief, said that the umpires at a recent meeting decided to throw a party for all managers and officers of the league.

Three umpires will be used in each of the playoff games. All games are scheduled for nine innings.

Barton Legion Will Play Mt. Savage Today And Brewers Thursday

Mt. Savage and the Barton American Legion will play off a postponed Bi-State Baseball League game today at 5:30 p. m. at Barton. The umpires will be Kelly and Keister.

Barton will come here Thursday to play off a postponed game with the Queen City Brewers at 5:30 at Stitcher Field.

The dates have been approved by the teams and the league.

The Westvaco-Hyndman game billed for Saturday has been moved ahead to Friday at 5:30 p. m. at Hyndman.

OWNER AND TRAINER IN RINGER CASE ARE ASKED TO SURRENDE

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4. (AP)—Notices to surrender themselves and begin serving prison terms imposed on them for conspiring to run a "ringer" horse at Pimlico have been sent James S. O'Donnell and Roland B. Sanner, Criminal Court Clerk Wilford L. Carter said today.

The notices were sent to Sanner in College Park and O'Donnell in Washington, Carter reported.

O'Donnell was sentenced to two years on a charge of substituting a horse named Flying Kilts for Runco at Pimlico in November, 1945. Sanner, a trainer, was given 18 months in the same case.

Invoking of the sentences was withheld until the court of appeals last week sustained the convictions and denied a motion for reargument, Carter said.

Athletics Stage Rally In Fifth, Trim Yank, 9-5

45,612 See 4th Place Club Trip New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—Scoring five runs in the fifth, the Philadelphia Athletics overcame a 4-3 deficit and went on to defeat the league leading New York Yankees 9-5 tonight in the day's only American League game.

A paid crowd of 45,612 fans saw the pesky fourth place A's bat around in the fifth to wrap up the game.

Elmer Valo singled to ignite the rally and after Ferris Fain drove him home with a triple, the A's added four more runs to sew it up.

The Athletics provided starter Bill Dietrich with a 3-0 lead by scoring three times in the first but the Yanks came back with one in the first and drove Dietrich to cover with two more in the second. Young Carl Scheib entered the game in the second and went the rest of the way to gain credit for the win. Box:

HAGERSTOWN RACE MEET OPENS TODAY

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 4 (AP)—The locale of Maryland's half mile horse racing shifts tomorrow here where a ten-day session will end August 16.

Starting time of the first daily race has been fixed at 2:15 o'clock, General Manager Roger C. Hershey announced.

After Hagerstown, ten-day sessions will be held at Cumberland, Timonium and Marlboro to wind up the summer season.

Single Day's Betting Record Is $344,812

Two trainers and one rider, who established records at Fairgo in bygone days, are now successful campaigners on the mile tracks.

They are J. Bowes Bond, of Towson, and Claude Feltner, of Berryville, Pa., who are tied at Fairgo for the honor of having saddled the most winners at a ten-day meeting. Bond sent nine winners postward in 1936 and Feltner equalled that record in 1942.

Kirk Scored 167 Points

Carson Kirk, now riding on the big time circuit, established an all-time high in 1943 when he rode 22 winners, 13 seconds and 18 thirds for a total of 167 points. During the same season Carson scored with five out of five at the Charles Town (W. Va.) track. Woody and Ralph Kirk, also jockeys, are brothers of Carson. There are seven girls and three boys in the Kirk family which resides at Silver Springs, Md. Ralph rade his first winner at Cumberland when he was 15 years of age.

Robert L. "Bobby" Edens, of Wheeling, W. Va., has the next best riding record at Fairgo. In 1945 he had 21 firsts, 8 seconds and 10 thirds. Eddie Smith of Washington, D. C., had 19 firsts, 7 seconds and 7 thirds in 1935.

Fairgo records show that the biggest $2 daily double payoff was $1,463.80 on August 15, 1942, when the 8-3 combination of S. N. Boyle's Grape Vine, ridden by Vincent Bracallie of Washington, D. C., and P. W. Rudicille's Vera M., ridden by Leon Garrett of Nashville, Tenn., were victorious. In the regular wagering Grape Vine paid $124.90 and Vera M., $14.70.

The biggest $2 straight payoff was the $161.80 on August 19, 1937, when Ladys Favor, owned by H. M. Simpson, Washington, D. C., was first across the finish line.

$344,812 Bet One Day

The largest single day's wagering on eight races was $344,812 on August 31, 1946.

The largest 10-day pari mutuel handle was the $3,078,127 in 1946. This broke the old 1945 record of $2,587,428.

In 1930 sixty percent of the public choices entered the winners' circle at the local half mile oval and that stands as an all-time record.

The records listed will be hung out for others to shoot at when the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day race meeting opens just two weeks from today.

Aristocrats Defeat Stoops' Team, 4 To 2

FROSTBURG, Aug. 4.—The Aristocrats gained a half game lead in the battle for second place in the Frostburg Softball League by defeating the front running Stoops' Restaurant team today by the score of 4 to 2.

The Century Athletic Club can tie the Aristocrats for the runner-up spot if victorious over Peck's Cafe on Tuesday.

N. Harper of the Aristocrats and Brady of Stoops' team led the hitters in today's game with two bingles each.

The meeting of the Frostburg Softball League set for Tuesday night has been postponed until Wednesday at 8 o'clock at the American Legion home. Score:

Boudreau Protests

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau disclosed today that he had protested the calling of yesterday's second game with the New York Yankees after 7½ innings. The Yanks won the game, 3-0, when the game was called by the umpires because of darkness. Boudreau said he thought the contest could have gone the full distance.

Redmen, Cadillac Cop Junior Loop Playoff Openers

Merchants, Bouncers Go Down To Defeat

The Redmen upset Williams Street's Merchants by the score of 17 to 13 at Fort Hill and Cadillac took Beightol's Bouncers into camp by the score of 7-2 at Campobello as the Junior City Softball League playoffs got under way yesterday.

Finalists will be determined in the best-of-three-games series. The Redmen and Williams Street will renew hostilities Wednesday at East Side Field while the Bouncers and Cadillac will clash at Fort Hill on Wednesday. Both games are scheduled to start at 6 p. m.

In yesterday's contest at Fort Hill, the Redmen and Merchants were tied at 9-9 until the final frame when the Tribe scored eight runs to put the game on ice. Williams Street scored four times in the last of the 7th.

The Redmen collected a dozen hits, including homers by Collins and "Sonny" Lease, the latter coming with two aboard. Collins obtained three hits in four times at bat.

Gary Moler tossed a one-hitter and Charley Lattimer banged out three hits, including a four-bagger, in the Cadillac team's triumph. Cunningham's single in the sixth inning after two down robbed Moler of a no-hit game. Scores:

GALLORETTE WINS AND SETS RECORD

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 4. (AP)—Before a record-breaking opening day throng of 15,795, W. L. Brann's grand mare Gallorette today captured the Wilson Mile in 1:35 2-5, fastest eight furlongs recorded at this historic racing rendezvous since its inception back in Civil War days.

In setting up the new mark, the five year old chestnut daughter of Challenger 2nd-Big Hurry took the $16,350 first share of the purse by a length. C. T. Chenery's sprint specialist, Hornbeam, held on commendably to be second to the $4.90 for two favorite in a field of five. Another three lengths back, Joe W. Brown's King Dorsett, an entry with brown mogul, was third. Robert J. Kleberg's Bridal Flower missed the show by a length, while Brown Mogul trailed far back all the way.

The for[illegible] mile mark here was 1:36 1-5, held jointly for many years by Sun Briar (1918) and Fairy Wand (1919).

Job Jessop, the day's riding star was astride Gallorette for a triple.

Hambletonian Week Card Opens Today

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Hambletonian week opens at Goshen's Good Time Track tomorrow with two of the grand circuit's traditional stakes on the card, a prelude to Wednesday's classic Hambletonian, which may be worth $60,000 gross.

Topping tomorrow's program will be the Geers Stake for two-year-old pacers, carrying a value of $13,039, with a breeders award of $266.

Cards Clout Five Chicago Pitchers For 8-1 Triumph

Cop Fourth Straight Behind Howie Pollet

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Cardinals made it four straight on their newest drive for a pennant recovery today by lambasting five Cub pitchers for 17 hits and a 8-1 victory before a crowd of 20,215 sweltering in 97 degree temperature.

Howie Pollet held the Cubs in check with 10 well-spaced hits to register his seventh victory of the season.

The Cubs, fresh from a three-game sweep of the Brooklyn series, counted their lone run in the third on straight singles by Eddie Waitkus, Andy Pafko and Phil Cavarretta. Pollet shut off their every scoring threat thereafter. Box:

REDS BEAT PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4, (AP) — Eddie Lukon and Grady Hatton tonight smashed out homers, each with one man aboard, to pace the Cincinnati Reds to a 7 to 4 victory over the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh rallies in the eighth and ninth innings fell short.

Bucky Walters won his fifth game of the season to even his year's record although the heat and fatigue forced him to the showers in the seventh. Harry Gumbert took over and finished the contest.

The Pirates didn't break scoring ice until the sixth when Hank Greenberg singled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs. The last Pirate runs were scored in short-lived rallies in the final innings. Score:

DODGERS WIN IN 10TH

BOSTON, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight ended a losing streak at three games by edging the Boston Braves 4-2 on the strength of Dixie Walker's two run homer into the right field bull pen in the 10th inning before a paid attendance of 23,828.

The count was two balls and no strikes on the veteran outfielder when he drove an inside pitch on a line out of the playing field to score Pistol Pete Reiser ahead of him. It was Walker's seventh four-bagger of the season and the 100th of his big league career.

Reiser missed a home run by only a couple of feet when he doubled off the screen in right center. Score:

Barbara B Takes Rich Match Race

Cow Pony Is Victor Over Fair Truckle

By BOB MYERS

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Aug. 4 (AP)—Barbara B, champion quarter horse of the Arizona-New Mexico bush tracks, stepped out of her class today and handed a proud thoroughbred, Fair Truckle, a fancy whipping in a quarter mile dash for a winner-take-all purse authoritatively reported to be $100,000.

The little brown four-year-old filly, bred as a cow pony, simply was too fast for the expensive importation from Ireland, owned by wealthy turfman Charles S. Howard.

A wild cheer went up from an estimated 5,000 spectators, as Barbara B sprinted over the finish line two and one-half lengths in front in 21 3-5 seconds.

It was a colorful crowd, from the southwestern cow country, which walked through the open gate to watch the seldom if ever saga of the tracks. Clad mostly in wide-brimmed hats, boots and overall trousers, they occupied the boxes where last Saturday a fashionably dressed movie crowd helped close out the Hollywood Park season.

Aboard Fair Truckle, four-year-old of Fair Trial by Truckle, was the veteran Johnny Longden. Up on Barbara B, a not so costly importation from the Arizona ranch country, sired by a cheap thoroughbred and whose dam was a $30 mare, was Jockey Tony L. Licata, who has been riding Arizona tracks.

Barbara B's owner, Roy Gill of Tucson, was a spectator, but an attack of influenza kept Fair Truckle's boss, C. S. Howard, in bed. His son, Bob, did the honors for the family.

WESTVACO BEATEN IN EXHIBITION GAME BY STAUNTON, 4-3

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 4. (AP)—The Westvaco semi-pro team of Westernport, Md., which will represent Maryland and Delaware at the National Baseball Congress in Wichita, Kansas, later this month, received a 4-3 defeat from the Staunton, Va., Presidents in an exhibition game here tonight.

Trailing 2-1 at the beginning of the eighth Staunton stepped in to score three runs in that stanza. Westvaco managed to bring its total to three in the ninth when Yewicic, Westvaco catcher batted a three-baser and went on to score on a single by first baseman Marsh. But the nine couldn't quite catch up.

Westvaco will play a second exhibition tomorrow night — this against the Charlottesville Athletic Club. Score:

TODAY'S GAME

Reed's vs. Legion
(Community Park)

Manager Frank Riehl's Amvets continued to brush aside all opposition in their dash toward the second half championship of the City Softball League by winning an 11-9 slugfest from the runner-up Astor Cab team yesterday on the Rolling Mill Field.

It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for the league leaders and snapped an eight-game winning streak of the second place club which dropped back 3½ games behind the pace setters.

The victors blasted 13 hits, Lou Riehl and Howie Wilson leading the assault with a triple and two singles each while Doyle George and "Doc" Dougherty each smacked out two hits. Billy Dean homered in the 4th with one aboard and also singled; Roy Taylor belted a four-bagger in the fifth with one on and Pat Algieri collected two singles for Astor Cab.

Concord Beats Lacy's

Concord Clothiers moved up to within 1½ games of Astor Cab by knocking off Lacy's Delicatets at East Side field by the score of 5-3. Each team was limited to five hits. James Smith of the Clothiers collected two safeties and Hardy homered for the Delicatets in the second frame.

North End Social and Athletic Club walloped the American Legion at Community Park to the tune of 14 to 3. The NESA Club blasted 16 hits while Bob Stallings was turning back the opposition with three blows. Joe Geatz with a double and single, Fradiska with a triple and two singles and Stallings with a homer to his credit were the "big guns" for North End. Basilio got two of the Legion's hits.

"Butch" Johnson handled ten putouts in left field and led his team's attack with three hits in four trips as Reed's Electricians defeated the Maccabees at Penn Averue Field by the score of 13 to 7. Barnes, Beckman and Miller obtained two hits each for the winners.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars nosed out the Virginia Avenue Merchants at Taylor Field by the score of 5 to 4 in an extra inning game.

Ted Rowan was safe on an error, moved to second on Bagent's base on balls and scored the winning run in the eighth frame on George Greenya's single. Bagent with a two-bagger and single and Greenya with two one-base hits paced the Vets' attack while Reynolds and Stein had three blows each.

Games Rescheduled

League Secretary John R. Kelly, Jr., last night announced that Reed's and Astor Cab will play off a postponed game Thursday at Community Park with True and Angellatta as the umpires. Fogtman and True have been named as the arbiters for the Amvets-Lacy's game Friday at Taylor Field. Today Reed's and the Legion will clash at Community Park. Scores:

Trenton Boxer Cops 135-Pound Boxing Crown

Ike Avenges Knockout At Bob's Hands In '44

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4, (AP)—An explosive brown stick of dynamite named Ike Williams blew up in Bob Montgomery's face in the sixth round in Municipal Stadium tonight, drove Bobcat Bob into unconsciousness and became the first undisputed world lightweight champion in five years. Each weighed 133¾.

In the biggest fight show in Philadelphia in 11 years, the "Little Brown Bomber" from Trenton, N. J., suddenly cut loose after five tough, gruelling rounds, floored Montgomery once with as pretty a right hand haymaker as you'd want to see, and then put him away for keeps with a whole barrage of high explosives at 2 minutes, 37 seconds of the sixth.

Up till then, although Williams held a clean edge for the five completed rounds, largely through an unexpected snappy left jab that practically no one knew he had, it could have been anybody's fight. Montgomery, pushing forward out of a crouch, had given Ike's tummy a considerable going over.

Then Williams caved the roof in with his high explosive display — and it was all over before practically anyone in the thousands here knew it was happening.

Untangles Title Pretzel

Thus the Jersey Jolter, a knockout specialist who came north from his Brunswick, Ga., birthplace years ago, finally untangled the lightweight title pretzel that has twisted up the 135 pound throne ever since Sammy Angott, then the head man, announced one of his periodic retirements back in 1942.

The New York State Athletic Commission, with Pennsylvania confirming, recognized Montgomery after he had beaten Beau Jack in two of three tussles. The National Boxing Association gave its blessing to Williams, after Ike had taken the N. B. A. half of the bauble from Juan Zurita, who had lifted it from Angott, when Sammy came back.

Since then, promoters all over the premises have been trying to pair off the two thumping negroes, who've been carrying an honest-to-gosh hating grudge against each other for years now. Herman Taylor, the veteran impresario of the City of Brotherly Love finally did it in connection with the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities.

Two Governors Attend

And it turned out to be the fanciest fistic party here-abouts since Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney collided in this same ball yard 21 years ago. This huge concrete horseshoe was more than half filled by Gus Fan and his missus, in spite of an evening-long threat of rain. And among the ringsiders were Governor Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey and James Duff of Pennsylvania.

For Williams, the windup was especially sweet. It not only put the lightweight crown on his black hair all alone, but gave him a punching revenge for the knockout Bobcat Bob had pinned on him the first time they met, back in 1944.

Draws $178,301 Gate

Altogether there were 30,500 cash customers on hand in this show run for the benefit of the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities, and they chipped in to a gross gate of $17,301 —short of the anticipated $200,000 largely because of an afternoon-long threat of rain.

Of this total, the charities are expected to benefit to the tune of some $30,000. Montgomery, getting 30 per cent of the net, figured to take home a paycheck of close to $38,000 and Williams, receiving 25 per cent, probably was to get some $31,500 for winning the crown.

As in most title fights in recent years, the two signed agreements for a return bout regardless of the outcome of tonight's affair. This next one will go to New York and probably will take place either December 5 or 12 in Madison Square Garden.

The K. of C. play the Elks on Thursday while the Legion tackles the Elks on Friday.

Other games todffay bring together the Elks and Texcel at East Side, Potomac Edison and the Moose at Fort Hill and the Outdoor Club and Jaycees on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Palumbo Started In '27

Horner's Handicap Cut

Dantzic Still Wows 'Em

By C. V. BURNS

Sammy Palumbo, dubbed the Eddie Arcaro of the half mile tracks, is 37 years old, and won his first race in 1927 at the Jamaica (N.Y.) track.

He's the son of a Flushing, Long Island, barber, and didn't become a celebrity on the bullring circuit until 1934 when he was second leading rider at the Charles Town (W Va) winter meeting.

The peak of Sammy's success probably was reached in the late 1930's when he rode the gallant mare Royal Business to so many victories and he did it right here at Fairgo. There's no question in Palumbo's mind that Royal Business was the best horse he ever rode.

"They just couldn't beat her on the half milers," Sammy reminisced the other day. "It seemed like every year they'd bring down some mile track horses to run against her, and each time the mare would get up through the stretch to beat them at the wire."

During his long career Palumbo has been set down only once and that happened when he rode a green horse which bore out with him through the stretch.

Palumbo, who has been riding annually at Fairgo since the early 1930s, is the father of three children, ages nine, eight and six.

Sammy hopes to ride at Fairgo again two weeks from today when the local fair association's 10-day meeting gets under way.

Woody Harner, the Hagerstown amateur golfer, who teamed up with the Cumberland Country Club's pro, Carroll Boggs, to sweep the pro-amateur tourney at Suburban Club, Baltimore, last week, will have his stroke allowance arbitrarily reduced, according to Baltimore links leaders. The Fountain Head ace, who possessed a 10-stroke handicap, was the whole show in the one-day tourney and highlighting his round was a birdie three at the tough 12th hole, a stretch that stumped many of the salaried players.

One hundred and forty-eight players—122 amateurs and 26 pros—participated in the tourney.

Owen Ray Stanley, Cumberland Times carrier, who won the soap box derby in Keyser last week and earned a trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the national event on August 17, is a brother-in-law of "Bud" Mosser, slugging outfielder of the Westvaco Club of the Bi-State Baseball League.

Mrs. Mosser was Miss Mary Stanley.

Owen comes from Coach "Tack" Clark's neighborhood in Keyser. "We're both west enders," Clark informed us.

Nat Dantzic, the old minstrel man, was at the derby last week in the role of blackface entertainer. His assistant was Frank Knight who played the part of a clown.

The pair entertained the spectators before the program got under way and between each event.

Dantzic is a former Cumberlander and was associated with the outstanding minstrel companies as blackface comedian for many years. He was with Al G. Fields, Neil O'Brien, Gus Hill and John Vogel in the days when we'd pass up a football or baseball game to see a good minstrel show. Nat's still the same funny man we first met 25 years ago.

John Turner, Jr., new racing secretary for the Cumberland Fair Association, will be one of the stewards when the Hagerstown race meeting of ten days gets under way today at 2:15 p. m. Gus Haus, former official at Fairgo, and Joseph F. Flanagan, representing the Maryland Racing Commission, will be the other stewards in the Hub City.

The matching of Billy Fox and Georgie Kochan, the Ohioan, for a main bout in Madison Square Garden, Friday, is a good example of the scarcity of topflight fighters in progessional boxing.

Kochan was a fair to middlin' scrapper when he fought in one of "Vic" Ricker's shows about five years ago but he's been through the mill since then and is pretty well punched out. He's turned out to be just a catcher for the better class fighters and Fox should fatten up his batting average in the forthcoming fiasco.

Last week's Sporting News, the baseball player's bible, carried a story on Joe "Ducky" Medwick, who broke into major league baseball with Scottdale of the Mid-Atlantic League under the name of Mickey King. It states that Branch Rickey, then head man on the St. Louis Cards, made a trip to Johnstown to talk "Mickey" out of his idea of returning to college to play football.

We recall the day that Russell Hockenberry, secretary of the league, requested us in the press box at Mid City Park to change King's name to Medwick when Scottdale came to town to play the Colts. It's true about Medwick hitting wild pitches out of the park for home runs. In fact, Scottdale always carried a flock of youngsters who could belt that ball far and often.

The late Cumberland "Cum" Posey, who managed the Homestead Grays for many years and brought them here numerous times for games with the Cumberland Colts will be honored at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, tomorrow, when a twin bill will be staged, the receipts to go to the Posey Athletic Scholarship Fund.

Dormont will play Oakmont in a twilight game and the winning team will play the Homestead Grays under the lights.

One of Posey's stars we always thought could have made the major leagues if negro players were admitted to the big show when he was in his prime was the late "Josh" Gibson, the Grays' great catcher, who could hit that ball a mile with effortless ease. He hit several record homers at Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C., that the fans still talk about.

Fair Association Hikes Value Of Feature Races

Purses Of $40,200 Offered First Week

The Cumberland Fair Association will offer purses totalling $40,200 for the 40 races to be run at Fairgo during the first half of the ten-day race meeting which will get under way here Tuesday, August 19.

This fact was revealed yesterday with the appearance of the condition book which will be distributed to horsemen assembled at Hagerstown and other Maryland and West Virginia tracks.

Purses are up $3,500 over the first five days of 1946 when a total of $36,700 was distributed among the owners of winning thoroughbreds.

The top race listed for opening week this year will be The Harry A. Manley Handicap Trophy to be run as the fifth event on Saturday, August 23. The purse value of the Manley, named in honor of the late president and general manager, has been upped from $1,000 to $1,200.

It was learned yesterday that The Clifton W. White Handicap, named in honor of the president and general manager of the local association, will carry a purse of $1,500 this year, an increase of $300 over the amount offered in 1946. The White will be run on Cumberland Day, Wednesday, August 27.

Purses are to be divided as follows:

$1,000—$700, first; $150, second; $100, third; $50, fourth.

$1,200—$825, first; $200, second; $100, third; $75, fourth.

1,500—$975, first; $300, second; $180, third; $75 fourth.

In the absence of a specific contract, the jockeys' fees for purses up to $999 shall be: $25, rider of winning mount; $15 for rider of second mount; $10 for riders of all other mounts.

For purses up to $1,999 the jockeys' fees shall be $35 for the rider of a winning mount and $15 for the rider of all other mounts.

Centerville Warned By President Long

President John J. Long of the Interstate League told Manager John Hafer of the Centerville Reds that the management of the Pennsylvania team is responsible for the conduct of its players and fans toward umpires and stated that the league will take drastic action if arbiters are not treated with more respect at Centerville home games.

Long laid down the law to Hafer at a league meeting last night at the American Legion home after umpires had filed complaints relative to the shabby treatment they've received at Centerville. On one occasion an umpire was doused with a bucket of water.

"Umpires must receive better treatment and the Centerville management will be held responsible for the conduct of its players and fans," Long emphasized.

Eddie Diehl, manager of the Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion junior team, said that the junior nine will seek a franchise in the "faster circuit" next season to be better prepared for state tournament games. Long said this matter will be taken up at the league's winter session.

The Interstate's Shaughnessy playoff series will start on Saturday, September 6. The first two games of the best-of-three-games series will be staged on Saturday and Sunday and the third game, if necessary, will be played on the following Wednesday so that the final series can get under way Saturday or Sunday.

C. William Spangler, league umpire-in-chief, said that the umpires at a recent meeting decided to throw a party for all managers and officers of the league.

Three umpires will be used in each of the playoff games. All games are scheduled for nine innings.

Barton Legion Will Play Mt. Savage Today And Brewers Thursday

Mt. Savage and the Barton American Legion will play off a postponed Bi-State Baseball League game today at 5:30 p. m. at Barton. The umpires will be Kelly and Keister.

Barton will come here Thursday to play off a postponed game with the Queen City Brewers at 5:30 at Stitcher Field.

The dates have been approved by the teams and the league.

The Westvaco-Hyndman game billed for Saturday has been moved ahead to Friday at 5:30 p. m. at Hyndman.

OWNER AND TRAINER IN RINGER CASE ARE ASKED TO SURRENDE

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4. (AP)—Notices to surrender themselves and begin serving prison terms imposed on them for conspiring to run a "ringer" horse at Pimlico have been sent James S. O'Donnell and Roland B. Sanner, Criminal Court Clerk Wilford L. Carter said today.

The notices were sent to Sanner in College Park and O'Donnell in Washington, Carter reported.

O'Donnell was sentenced to two years on a charge of substituting a horse named Flying Kilts for Runco at Pimlico in November, 1945. Sanner, a trainer, was given 18 months in the same case.

Invoking of the sentences was withheld until the court of appeals last week sustained the convictions and denied a motion for reargument, Carter said.

45,612 See 4th Place Club Trip New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—Scoring five runs in the fifth, the Philadelphia Athletics overcame a 4-3 deficit and went on to defeat the league leading New York Yankees 9-5 tonight in the day's only American League game.

A paid crowd of 45,612 fans saw the pesky fourth place A's bat around in the fifth to wrap up the game.

Elmer Valo singled to ignite the rally and after Ferris Fain drove him home with a triple, the A's added four more runs to sew it up.

The Athletics provided starter Bill Dietrich with a 3-0 lead by scoring three times in the first but the Yanks came back with one in the first and drove Dietrich to cover with two more in the second. Young Carl Scheib entered the game in the second and went the rest of the way to gain credit for the win. Box:

Starting time of the first daily race has been fixed at 2:15 o'clock, General Manager Roger C. Hershey announced.

After Hagerstown, ten-day sessions will be held at Cumberland, Timonium and Marlboro to wind up the summer season.

Single Day's Betting Record Is $344,812

Two trainers and one rider, who established records at Fairgo in bygone days, are now successful campaigners on the mile tracks.

They are J. Bowes Bond, of Towson, and Claude Feltner, of Berryville, Pa., who are tied at Fairgo for the honor of having saddled the most winners at a ten-day meeting. Bond sent nine winners postward in 1936 and Feltner equalled that record in 1942.

Kirk Scored 167 Points

Carson Kirk, now riding on the big time circuit, established an all-time high in 1943 when he rode 22 winners, 13 seconds and 18 thirds for a total of 167 points. During the same season Carson scored with five out of five at the Charles Town (W. Va.) track. Woody and Ralph Kirk, also jockeys, are brothers of Carson. There are seven girls and three boys in the Kirk family which resides at Silver Springs, Md. Ralph rade his first winner at Cumberland when he was 15 years of age.

Robert L. "Bobby" Edens, of Wheeling, W. Va., has the next best riding record at Fairgo. In 1945 he had 21 firsts, 8 seconds and 10 thirds. Eddie Smith of Washington, D. C., had 19 firsts, 7 seconds and 7 thirds in 1935.

Fairgo records show that the biggest $2 daily double payoff was $1,463.80 on August 15, 1942, when the 8-3 combination of S. N. Boyle's Grape Vine, ridden by Vincent Bracallie of Washington, D. C., and P. W. Rudicille's Vera M., ridden by Leon Garrett of Nashville, Tenn., were victorious. In the regular wagering Grape Vine paid $124.90 and Vera M., $14.70.

The biggest $2 straight payoff was the $161.80 on August 19, 1937, when Ladys Favor, owned by H. M. Simpson, Washington, D. C., was first across the finish line.

$344,812 Bet One Day

The largest single day's wagering on eight races was $344,812 on August 31, 1946.

The largest 10-day pari mutuel handle was the $3,078,127 in 1946. This broke the old 1945 record of $2,587,428.

In 1930 sixty percent of the public choices entered the winners' circle at the local half mile oval and that stands as an all-time record.

The records listed will be hung out for others to shoot at when the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day race meeting opens just two weeks from today.

The Yanks won the game, 3-0, when the game was called by the umpires because of darkness. Boudreau said he thought the contest could have gone the full distance.

Merchants, Bouncers Go Down To Defeat

The Redmen upset Williams Street's Merchants by the score of 17 to 13 at Fort Hill and Cadillac took Beightol's Bouncers into camp by the score of 7-2 at Campobello as the Junior City Softball League playoffs got under way yesterday.

Finalists will be determined in the best-of-three-games series. The Redmen and Williams Street will renew hostilities Wednesday at East Side Field while the Bouncers and Cadillac will clash at Fort Hill on Wednesday. Both games are scheduled to start at 6 p. m.

In yesterday's contest at Fort Hill, the Redmen and Merchants were tied at 9-9 until the final frame when the Tribe scored eight runs to put the game on ice. Williams Street scored four times in the last of the 7th.

The Redmen collected a dozen hits, including homers by Collins and "Sonny" Lease, the latter coming with two aboard. Collins obtained three hits in four times at bat.

Gary Moler tossed a one-hitter and Charley Lattimer banged out three hits, including a four-bagger, in the Cadillac team's triumph. Cunningham's single in the sixth inning after two down robbed Moler of a no-hit game. Scores:

GALLORETTE WINS AND SETS RECORD

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 4. (AP)—Before a record-breaking opening day throng of 15,795, W. L. Brann's grand mare Gallorette today captured the Wilson Mile in 1:35 2-5, fastest eight furlongs recorded at this historic racing rendezvous since its inception back in Civil War days.

In setting up the new mark, the five year old chestnut daughter of Challenger 2nd-Big Hurry took the $16,350 first share of the purse by a length. C. T. Chenery's sprint specialist, Hornbeam, held on commendably to be second to the $4.90 for two favorite in a field of five. Another three lengths back, Joe W. Brown's King Dorsett, an entry with brown mogul, was third. Robert J. Kleberg's Bridal Flower missed the show by a length, while Brown Mogul trailed far back all the way.

The former mile mark here was 1:36 1-5, held jointly for many years by Sun Briar (1918) and Fairy Wand (1919).

Cop Fourth Straight Behind Howie Pollet

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Cardinals made it four straight on their newest drive for a pennant recovery today by lambasting five Cub pitchers for 17 hits and a 8-1 victory before a crowd of 20,215 sweltering in 97 degree temperature.

Howie Pollet held the Cubs in check with 10 well-spaced hits to register his seventh victory of the season.

REDS BEAT PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4, (AP) — Eddie Lukon and Grady Hatton tonight smashed out homers, each with one man aboard, to pace the Cincinnati Reds to a 7 to 4 victory over the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh rallies in the eighth and ninth innings fell short.

Bucky Walters won his fifth game of the season to even his year's record although the heat and fatigue forced him to the showers in the seventh. Harry Gumbert took over and finished the contest.

The Pirates didn't break scoring ice until the sixth when Hank Greenberg singled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs. The last Pirate runs were scored in short-lived rallies in the final innings. Score:

DODGERS WIN IN 10TH

BOSTON, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight ended a losing streak at three games by edging the Boston Braves 4-2 on the strength of Dixie Walker's two run homer into the right field bull pen in the 10th inning before a paid attendance of 23,828.

The count was two balls and no strikes on the veteran outfielder when he drove an inside pitch on a line out of the playing field to score Pistol Pete Reiser ahead of him. It was Walker's seventh four-bagger of the season and the 100th of his big league career.

Reiser missed a home run by only a couple of feet when he doubled off the screen in right center. Score:

Barbara B Takes Rich Match Race

By BOB MYERS

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Aug. 4 (AP)—Barbara B, champion quarter horse of the Arizona-New Mexico bush tracks, stepped out of her class today and handed a proud thoroughbred, Fair Truckle, a fancy whipping in a quarter mile dash for a winner-take-all purse authoritatively reported to be $100,000.

The little brown four-year-old filly, bred as a cow pony, simply was too fast for the expensive importation from Ireland, owned by wealthy turfman Charles S. Howard.

A wild cheer went up from an estimated 5,000 spectators, as Barbara B sprinted over the finish line two and one-half lengths in front in 21 3-5 seconds.

It was a colorful crowd, from the southwestern cow country, which walked through the open gate to watch the seldom if ever saga of the tracks. Clad mostly in wide-brimmed hats, boots and overall trousers, they occupied the boxes where last Saturday a fashionably dressed movie crowd helped close out the Hollywood Park season.

Aboard Fair Truckle, four-year-old of Fair Trial by Truckle, was the veteran Johnny Longden. Up on Barbara B, a not so costly importation from the Arizona ranch country, sired by a cheap thoroughbred and whose dam was a $30 mare, was Jockey Tony L. Licata, who has been riding Arizona tracks.

Barbara B's owner, Roy Gill of Tucson, was a spectator, but an attack of influenza kept Fair Truckle's boss, C. S. Howard, in bed. His son, Bob, did the honors for the family.

WESTVACO BEATEN IN EXHIBITION GAME BY STAUNTON, 4-3

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 4. (AP)—The Westvaco semi-pro team of Westernport, Md., which will represent Maryland and Delaware at the National Baseball Congress in Wichita, Kansas, later this month, received a 4-3 defeat from the Staunton, Va., Presidents in an exhibition game here tonight.

Trailing 2-1 at the beginning of the eighth Staunton stepped in to score three runs in that stanza. Westvaco managed to bring its total to three in the ninth when Yewicic, Westvaco catcher batted a three-baser and went on to score on a single by first baseman Marsh. But the nine couldn't quite catch up.

Westvaco will play a second exhibition tomorrow night — this against the Charlottesville Athletic Club. Score:

TODAY'S GAME

Reed's vs. Legion
(Community Park)

Manager Frank Riehl's Amvets continued to brush aside all opposition in their dash toward the second half championship of the City Softball League by winning an 11-9 slugfest from the runner-up Astor Cab team yesterday on the Rolling Mill Field.

It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for the league leaders and snapped an eight-game winning streak of the second place club which dropped back 3½ games behind the pace setters.

The victors blasted 13 hits, Lou Riehl and Howie Wilson leading the assault with a triple and two singles each while Doyle George and "Doc" Dougherty each smacked out two hits. Billy Dean homered in the 4th with one aboard and also singled; Roy Taylor belted a four-bagger in the fifth with one on and Pat Algieri collected two singles for Astor Cab.

Concord Beats Lacy's

Concord Clothiers moved up to within 1½ games of Astor Cab by knocking off Lacy's Delicatets at East Side field by the score of 5-3. Each team was limited to five hits. James Smith of the Clothiers collected two safeties and Hardy homered for the Delicatets in the second frame.

North End Social and Athletic Club walloped the American Legion at Community Park to the tune of 14 to 3. The NESA Club blasted 16 hits while Bob Stallings was turning back the opposition with three blows. Joe Geatz with a double and single, Fradiska with a triple and two singles and Stallings with a homer to his credit were the "big guns" for North End. Basilio got two of the Legion's hits.

"Butch" Johnson handled ten putouts in left field and led his team's attack with three hits in four trips as Reed's Electricians defeated the Maccabees at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 13 to 7. Barnes, Beckman and Miller obtained two hits each for the winners.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars nosed out the Virginia Avenue Merchants at Taylor Field by the score of 5 to 4 in an extra inning game.

Ted Rowan was safe on an error, moved to second on Bagent's base on balls and scored the winning run in the eighth frame on George Greenya's single. Bagent with a two-bagger and single and Greenya with two one-base hits paced the Vets' attack while Reynolds and Stein had three blows each.

Games Rescheduled

League Secretary John R. Kelly, Jr., last night announced that Reed's and Astor Cab will play off a postponed game Thursday at Community Park with True and Angellatta as the umpires. Ike Avenges Knockout At Bob's Hands In '44

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4, (AP)—An explosive brown stick of dynamite named Ike Williams blew up in Bob Montgomery's face in the sixth round in Municipal Stadium tonight, drove Bobcat Bob into unconsciousness and became the first undisputed world lightweight champion in five years. Each weighed 133¾.

In the biggest fight show in Philadelphia in 11 years, the "Little Brown Bomber" from Trenton, N. J., suddenly cut loose after five tough, gruelling rounds, floored Montgomery once with as pretty a right hand haymaker as you'd want to see, and then put him away for keeps with a whole barrage of high explosives at 2 minutes, 37 seconds of the sixth.

Up till then, although Williams held a clean edge for the five completed rounds, largely through an unexpected snappy left jab that practically no one knew he had, it could have been anybody's fight. Montgomery, pushing forward out of a crouch, had given Ike's tummy a considerable going over.

Then Williams caved the roof in with his high explosive display — and it was all over before practically anyone in the thousands here knew it was happening.

Untangles Title Pretzel

Thus the Jersey Jolter, a knockout specialist who came north from his Brunswick, Ga., birthplace years ago, finally untangled the lightweight title pretzel that has twisted up the 135 pound throne ever since Sammy Angott, then the head man, announced one of his periodic retirements back in 1942.

The New York State Athletic Commission, with Pennsylvania confirming, recognized Montgomery after he had beaten Beau Jack in two of three tussles. The National Boxing Association gave its blessing to Williams, after Ike had taken the N. B. A. half of the bauble from Juan Zurita, who had lifted it from Angott, when Sammy came back.

Since then, promoters all over the premises have been trying to pair off the two thumping negroes, who've been carrying an honest-to-gosh hating grudge against each other for years now. Herman Taylor, the veteran impresario of the City of Brotherly Love finally did it in connection with the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities.

Two Governors Attend

And it turned out to be the fanciest fistic party here-abouts since Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney collided in this same ball yard 21 years ago. This huge concrete horseshoe was more than half filled by Gus Fan and his missus, in spite of an evening-long threat of rain. And among the ringsiders were Governor Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey and James Duff of Pennsylvania.

For Williams, the windup was especially sweet. It not only put the lightweight crown on his black hair all alone, but gave him a punching revenge for the knockout Bobcat Bob had pinned on him the first time they met, back in 1944.

Draws $178,301 Gate

Altogether there were 30,500 cash customers on hand in this show run for the benefit of the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities, and they chipped in to a gross gate of $17,301 —short of the anticipated $200,000 largely because of an afternoon-long threat of rain.

Of this total, the charities are expected to benefit to the tune of some $30,000. Montgomery, getting 30 per cent of the net, figured to take home a paycheck of close to $38,000 and Williams, receiving 25 per cent, probably was to get some $31,500 for winning the crown.

As in most title fights in recent years, the two signed agreements for a return bout regardless of the outcome of tonight's affair. This next one will go to New York and probably will take place either December 5 or 12 in Madison Square Garden.

Ridgeley Woman Pays $5 Fine

Charged with disorderly conduct, a young woman identified as Remona Zimmers, Ridgeley, W. Va., was fined $5 yesterday morning in Police Court after she complained of the officer who arrested her.

The defendant told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew she was en route home with a boy friend, when he remembered a package he left in town. Miss Zimmers said she decided to wait in Riverside Park for her friend to return.

According to her testimony, Officer Joseph Niland told her she would have to leave the park since it was closed at 11 p. m. She told the magistrate that the officer grabbed her by the arm in an "ungentlemanly manner" and took her to Police Headquarters.

Two brothers, Randolph and Herbert Silvious, 39 Offutt Street, were found not guilty on charges of disturbing the peace following their arrest Friday on a complaint of Jennie Twigg, 38 Elder Street, who told police the pair played ball in a nearby lot and called her "names."

William Self, this city, forfeited $3 bond for loitering in Riverside Park early Sunday morning.

Maryland Motor Vehicle Revenue Breaks Record

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4. (AP) — The highest collections for any fiscal year in its history was reported yesterday by the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles.

The department said revenues for the year amounted to $10,678,646.42, an increase of nearly 54 per cent over the previous 12 months.

Accounting for most of the increase, the department reported, was a jump in total registration from 516,229 to 571,590, higher motor vehicle license fees which went into effect last spring, and doubling of the number of titles for new registrations which are subject to the two per cent excise tax.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Woman With Straying Husband Has Only Two Alternatives

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married six years and have two little boys, one three, and the other two.

Recently, my husband took a new job and, since he began his new work, he has been keeping company with several different girls. When I found out and asked him about it, he denied it, of course. But on a number of occasions, he has come home with lipstick on his handkerchiefs and shirts.

I have asked him to stop running around and stay home with us more, or to take us out with him, but he cannot find time to take his family out. I have asked his mother to talk to him, but she seems to think he is doing all right. Several people have said to me, "What's good for the goose is good for the gander," but I cannot see it that way. I myself could keep company but I love my husband and I love my boys too much to lose their respect when they're old enough to understand. Please advise me what to do.

"LONESOME."

Dear "Lonesome":

In a situation of this sort, a wife usually has only two alternatives. One is to wait patiently with as much philosophy as possible to see if her husband will not come to his senses and return to a normal family life, and the other is to take a definite stand and tell her husband that, unless his conduct improves, she will leave him. But she should never theaten to leave him when she really doesn't mean it, but is merely trying to scare him into a different frame of mind. Moreover, there is no use for a wife to talk about leaving her husband unless she is able to support herself and her children.

I suggest that you adopt the first course for a while, at least, and see if perhaps your husband doesn't get tired of running around. Try to avoid quarreling with him about the matter and try to have your home a happy place for him to come to. All this, of course, will be very hard to do, but you will certainly gain nothing by constant quarrels and reproaches except probably to make him stay away even more.

You are very wise, too, to hold to your own standards of conduct and not let yourself do a foolish thing purely in retaliation for your husband's infidelity. All you could possibly succeed in doing, otherwise, would be to make everything worse than it is now.

Four Men Authorized For Naval Armory

Authority has been received to call four men for active duty at the new U. S. Naval Reserve Armory which is now under construction, Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick reported yesterday. The men, to be appointed from the reserves, will be chosen from the rates of machinist mate, electrician mate, yeoman, radioman and shipfitter, he said.

The local Reserve Division, he added, has been commended for being the fourth division to attain its goal of 200 members, although it was the last of 28 divisions to begin recruiting. Vacancies still exist since an allowance of over strength has been authorized.

Two men enlisted in the Reserves here yesterday. They are Gustave Nelson Frizzell, 26, 29 Jackson Street, Lonaconing, and Chester Norman Dawson, Rawlings. Frizzell will become an aviation ordnance mate, second class, and Dawson a seaman first class.

Albert Wade Jones, 19, Moorefield, W. Va., enlisted Saturday as seaman second class. He served in the Navy 18 months during World War II.

The defendant told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew she was en route home with a boy friend, when he remembered a package he left in town. Miss Zimmers said she decided to wait in Riverside Park for her friend to return.

According to her testimony, Officer Joseph Niland told her she would have to leave the park since it was closed at 11 p. m. She told the magistrate that the officer grabbed her by the arm in an "ungentlemanly manner" and took her to Police Headquarters.

Two brothers, Randolph and Herbert Silvious, 39 Offutt Street, were found not guilty on charges of disturbing the peace following their arrest Friday on a complaint of Jennie Twigg, 38 Elder Street, who told police the pair played ball in a nearby lot and called her "names."

William Self, this city, forfeited $3 bond for loitering in Riverside Park early Sunday morning.

Maryland Motor Vehicle Revenue Breaks Record

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4. (AP) — The highest collections for any fiscal year in its history was reported yesterday by the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles.

The department said revenues for the year amounted to $10,678,645.42, an increase of nearly 54 per cent over the previous 12 months.

Accounting for most of the increase, the department reported, was a jump in total registration from 516,229 to 571,590, higher motor vehicle license fees which went into effect last spring, and doubling of the number of titles for new registrations which are subject to the two per cent excise tax.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Woman With Straying Husband Has Only Two Alternatives

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married six years and have two little boys, one three, and the other two.

Recently, my husband took a new job and, since he began his new work, he has been keeping company with several different girls. When I found out and asked him about it, he denied it, of course. But on a number of occasions, he has come home with lipstick on his handkerchiefs and shirts.

I have asked him to stop running around and stay home with us more, or to take us out with him, but he cannot find time to take his family out. I have asked his mother to talk to him, but she seems to think he is doing all right. Several people have said to me, "What's good for the goose is good for the gander," but I cannot see it that way. I myself could keep company but I love my husband and I love my boys too much to lose their respect when they're old enough to understand. Please advise me what to do.

"LONESOME."

Dear "Lonesome":

In a situation of this sort, a wife usually has only two alternatives. One is to wait patiently with as much philosophy as possible to see if her husband will not come to his senses and return to a normal family life, and the other is to take a definite stand and tell her husband that, unless his conduct improves, she will leave him. But she should never theaten to leave him when she really doesn't mean it, but is merely trying to scare him into a different frame of mind. Moreover, there is no use for a wife to talk about leaving her husband unless she is able to support herself and her children.

I suggest that you adopt the first course for a while, at least, and see if perhaps your husband doesn't get tired of running around. Try to avoid quarreling with him about the matter and try to have your home a happy place for him to come to. All this, of course, will be very hard to do, but you will certainly gain nothing by constant quarrels and reproaches except probably to make him stay away even more.

You are very wise, too, to hold to your own standards of conduct and not let yourself do a foolish thing purely in retaliation for your husband's infidelity. All you could possibly succeed in doing, otherwise, would be to make everything worse than it is now.

Negro Released On Habeas Corpus

Hearing Continued Pending Promises

James E. Jones, negro of Cleveland, Ohio, was released from the County Jail yesterday on condition that he return to Cleveland, close out his paperhanging shop there, and return to this city, resume his trade here and support his children.

Jones had been sentenced to serve 90 days in jail by Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem, of Juvenile Court, and had sought his release on a writ of habeas corpus, filed by his attorney Estel C. Kelley.

Chief Judge William A. Huster declared the Court's interest is having Jones take care of his children, and he could not support them while he was in jail.

Jones agreed to pay $40 immediately for the support of the children and to resume weekly $20 payments immediately. He had been ordered to make the payments in Juvenile Court in April 1944, before he left for Cleveland.

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney told the Court at the hearing that Jones was nearly $800 in arrears in his payments to his family.

Judge Huster continued the hearing, and its outcome depends upon Jones' fulfillment of promises made to the Court.

Parade Sets Off Boys' Week Here

Cumberland's Boys Week program got underway last night as approximately 150 local boys riding gaily decorated bicycles paraded through the city's main streets last night lead by the Moose band and approximately 75 motorcycles, representing two associations.

Feature of the parade, however, was the youths' bicycles, which were covered with crepe and colored papers and many were designed to represent airplanes and automobiles while some provided humor with the "crazy" arrangements which they pulled along.

The Cumberland Aquatic Meatballs, drew laughter from the crowds that lined Cumberland streets, as they jumped from their float, fell in the street, and conversed with the spectators or occasionally threw a bucket of water in the direction of an officer directing traffic.

The program which will actually get underway tonight at 7 p. m. with a diving and swimming race at Constitution Park is scheduled to last for the entire week, with various forms of recreation and contests scheduled.

The Police Boys Club will also sponsor a boxing contest tonight at the park amphitheater at 8 p. m.

Negro Released On Habeas Corpus

Hearing Continued Pending Promises

James E. Jones, negro of Cleveland, Ohio, was released from the County Jail yesterday on condition that he return to Cleveland, close out his paperhanging shop there, and return to this city, resume his trade here and support his children.

Chief Judge William A. Huster declared the Court's interest is having Jones take care of his children, and he could not support them while he was in jail.

Jones agreed to pay $40 immediately for the support of the children and to resume weekly $20 payments immediately. He had been ordered to make the payments in Juvenile Court in April 1944, before he left for Cleveland.

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney told the Court at the hearing that Jones was nearly $800 in arrears in his payments to his family.

Truck Wheel Runs Over 14-Year-Old's Foot

Melvin Garland, 14, Route 2, this city, was treated yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital after a truck ran over his right foot at the Consolidated Orchard. X-rays will be taken.

Donald Shircliff, 10, 206 Valley Street, received treatment at the same hospital yesterday for a scalp laceration suffered when he was struck in the head with a rock.

Cumberland's Boys Week program got underway last night as approximately 150 local boys riding gaily decorated bicycles paraded through the city's main streets last night lead by the Moose band and approximately 75 motorcycles, representing two associations.

Feature of the parade, however, was the youths' bicycles, which were covered with crepe and colored papers and many were designed to represent airplanes and automobiles while some provided humor with the "crazy" arrangements which they pulled along.

The Cumberland Aquatic Meatballs, drew laughter from the crowds that lined Cumberland streets, as they jumped from their float, fell in the street, and conversed with the spectators or occasionally threw a bucket of water in the direction of an officer directing traffic.

Another feature of the parade was the Cumberland Acquatic Club's float carrying 10 bathing beauties.

The program which will actually get underway tonight at 7 p. m. with a diving and swimming race at Constitution Park is scheduled to last for the entire week, with various forms of recreation and contests scheduled.

The Police Boys Club will also sponsor a boxing contest tonight at the park amphitheater at 8 p. m.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 — Pardon me, gentlemen of the sports pages—but this story about the great Seabiscuit belongs to me—or to be exact, to Warner Brothers, who have just bought the rights to the life and career of the noble steed, from Charles S. Howard!

Louella Parsons

Now that's a race track story what is a story. for Seabiscuit is probably the most popular thoroughbred ever to set four feet on the turf. No, he was not the greatest money earner. His $437,730 record has been far surpassed. But how the $2 bettors loved him!

When he died taps were sounded on almost every course in the country and a bronze statue was erected to his memory at Santa Anita Park.

I notice many of his colts are now racing, but so far none of them have come up to pappy.

David Butler, owner of thoroughbreds himself, will direct this racing epic.

The greatest piece of insolence I've ever heard of is the propaganda sent out by the Communist Party offering to explain Communism to producers who are making anti-Communist pictures.

We don't need Communism explained. We know its danger to our country all too well. They can whitewash it a thousand different ways, and it still remains the darkest menace in the world today.

I have in my possession a copy of the letter sent to producers by Jim Forest, educational director of the Communist Party, enclosing a booklet, "Is Communism un-American?" with nine questions about the Communist Party answered by Eugene Dennis. Well, here's the motion picture industry's answer—Yes, it's dangerous—yes, it's un-American!

Chatter in Hollywood: After a couple of attempts at reconciliation, Steve Cochran will file suit to divorce Fay McKenzie next Wednesday.

What is all this business of husbands rushing to the divorce courts instead of the wives? There was a time when no matter what the real trouble was, women always brought the divorce action. Gallantry was the inspiration—and most people approved and abided by it.

A Ronald Button, Steve's attorney, will charge desertion in his behalf. Steve blames Fay's family who never approved of the marriage and the fact that she does not want to give up her career, for their rift—and he adds:

"I'm hard to live with—let's face it. Maybe I'm to blame, too."

Tomorrow, Sid Luft, Lynn Bari's ex, is filing a $25,000 damage suit through his attorney, Jacques Leslie. Luft will charge that he tripped over a hose pipe when he stepped out of his car in a Hollywood filling station, and as a result had to undergo an operation for the removal of a piece of cartilage in his knee.

Incidentally, Luft and Lynn have been talking over a possible reconciliation, and I think there is a 50-50 chance that they'll get together, as both say there is no one else—and they're still in love.

The Beverly Hills police have been keeping a sharp lookout around Betty Grable's home for over a week—in fact, ever since two prowlers somehow got past the electric gates.

One of the men showed up while Betty was shopping and told the servants he had been hired to repaint certain rooms. The maid kept him at the door while the police were called but he became suspicious about the delay and fled. Then a second man showed up with the same story and also got away.

Police stopped cars in Coldwater Canyon for several hours after the incidents. Well, Harry James got back over the weekend—so now there's a man around the house to keep the girls from being nervous.

I ran into Walter Winchell having dinner with J. Edgar Hoover, who is in Hollywood on business. I asked the FBI chieftain if it was Bugsy Siegel's murder that brought him to Hollywood, and while his answer was noncommital, I have a pretty good idea he's working on a clue of some kind.

With J. Edgar in our midst, the underworld element had better take to their heels, because he's the man who is going to see that Los Angeles is rid of this undesirable element.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The elopement of Jesse Lasky, Jr., and Marie Johnson, is expected daily.

Barbara Cavanaugh, pretty Stork Club photographer, who has snapped pictures of hundreds of celebrities, is marrying Sig Shore, advertising executive.

Renee De Marco is in Las Vegas establishing residence. She'll, divorce Jody Hutchinson, her second husband, even though she divorced him in Mexico some time ago.

Yvonne De Calro and Howard Duff are as cool as we would like to see the weather.

The Darryl Zanucks have issued invitations to a dinner dance honoring Gen. and Mrs. Mark Clark. That will be really one of the parties of the year, as everyone will want to meet Gen. Clark.

Corinne Calvay's French boy friend better get over here in a hurry. She looked awfully happy dancing with Rory Calhoun at the Chanteclair. They were in a party with Ann Sothern and Bob Sterling, celebrating Henry Willson's birthday.

The Rex Harrisons gave a party in honor of their house guests, the John Mills, Saturday night which was largely attended by the film colony.

Anne Baxter has dropped 18 pounds and looks like a million dollars. Good girl, Anne.

Judy Garland's mother telephoned to tell me that she thought Fay Holden ought to have a hand for giving some of the beauty operators an electric fan for their booths.

Robert Young, who now lives on a ranch near Carmel, was in town for a day and lunching at the Brown Derby with three of his daughters, who were dressed exactly alike.

Carole Landis flies east tomorrow for a week of personal appearances at the hippodrome theater in Baltimore and then on for a week in Boston. Speaking of the Hippodrome,, Bobby Rappaport, whose popular dad, Izzy Rappaport owns the theater, has been having the time of his life in Hollywood.

That's all today.

LOOK OUT FOR PIN-WORMS

Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grown-ups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong! And these pests, living inside the human body, can cause real distress.

So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms—especially the aggravating rectal itch. Get JAYNE'S P-W and follow the directions.

Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4—Pardon me, gentlemen of the sports pages—but this story about the great Seabiscuit belongs to me—or to be exact, to Warner Brothers, who have just bought the rights to the life and career of the noble steed, from Charles S. Howard!

Louella Parsons

Now that's a race track story what is a story, for Seabiscuit is probably the most popular thoroughbred ever to set four feet on the turf. No, he was not the greatest money earner. His $437,730 record has been far surpassed. But how the $2 bettors loved him!

When he died taps were sounded on almost every course in the country and a bronze statue was erected to his memory at Santa Anita Park.

I notice many of his colts are now racing, but so far none of them have come up to pappy.

David Butler, owner of thoroughbreds himself, will direct this racing epic.

The greatest piece of insolence I've ever heard of is the propaganda sent out by the Communist Party offering to explain Communism to producers who are making anti-Communist pictures.

We don't need Communism explained. We know its danger to our country all too well. They can whitewash it a thousand different ways, and it still remains the darkest menace in the world today.

I have in my possession a copy of the letter sent to producers by Jim Forest, educational director of the Communist Party, enclosing a booklet, "Is Communism un-American?" with nine questions about the Communist Party answered by Eugene Dennis. Well, here's the motion picture industry's answer—Yes, it's dangerous—yes, it's un-American!

Chatter in Hollywood: After a couple of attempts at reconciliation, Steve Cochran will file suit to divorce Fay McKenzie next Wednesday.

What is all this business of husbands rushing to the divorce courts instead of the wives? There was a time when no matter what the real trouble was, women always brought the divorce action. Gallantry was the inspiration—and most people approved and abided by it.

A Ronald Button, Steve's attorney, will charge desertion in his behalf. Steve blames Fay's family who never approved of the marriage and the fact that she does not want to give up her career, for their rift—and he adds:

"I'm hard to live with—let's face it. Maybe I'm to blame, too."

Tomorrow, Sid Luft, Lynn Bari's ex, is filing a $25,000 damage suit through his attorney, Jacques Leslie. Luft will charge that he tripped over a hose pipe when he stepped out of his car in a Hollywood filling station, and as a result had to undergo an operation for the removal of a piece of cartilage in his knee.

Incidentally, Luft and Lynn have been talking over a possible reconciliation, and I think there is a 50-50 chance that they'll get together, as both say there is no one else—and they're still in love.

The Beverly Hills police have been keeping a sharp lookout around Betty Grable's home for over a week—in fact, ever since two prowlers somehow got past the electric gates.

One of the men showed up while Betty was shopping and told the servants he had been hired to repaint certain rooms. The maid kept him at the door while the police were called but he became suspicious about the delay and fled. Then a second man showed up with the same story and also got away.

Police stopped cars in Coldwater Canyon for several hours after the incidents. Well, Harry James got back over the weekend—so now there's a man around the house to keep the girls from being nervous.

I ran into Walter Winchell having dinner with J. Edgar Hoover, who is in Hollywood on business. I asked the FBI chieftain if it was Bugsy Siegel's murder that brought him to Hollywood, and while his answer was noncommital, I have a pretty good idea he's working on a clue of some kind.

With J. Edgar in our midst, the underworld element had better take to their heels, because he's the man who is going to see that Los Angeles is rid of this undesirable element.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The elopement of Jesse Lasky, Jr., and Marie Johnson, is expected daily.

Barbara Cavanaugh, pretty Stork Club photographer, who has snapped pictures of hundreds of celebrities, is marrying Sig Shore, advertising executive.

Renee De Marco is in Las Vegas establishing residence. She'll, divorce Jody Hutchinson, her second husband, even though she divorced him in Mexico some time ago.

Yvonne De Calro and Howard Duff are as cool as we would like to see the weather.

The Darryl Zanucks have issued invitations to a dinner dance honoring Gen. and Mrs. Mark Clark. That will be really one of the parties of the year, as everyone will want to meet Gen. Clark.

Corinne Calvay's French boy friend better get over here in a hurry. She looked awfully happy dancing with Rory Calhoun at the Chanteclair. They were in a party with Ann Sothern and Bob Sterling, celebrating Henry Willson's birthday.

The Rex Harrisons gave a party in honor of their house guests, the John Mills, Saturday night which was largely attended by the film colony.

Anne Baxter has dropped 18 pounds and looks like a million dollars. Good girl, Anne.

Judy Garland's mother telephoned to tell me that she thought Fay Holden ought to have a hand for giving some of the beauty operators an electric fan for their booths.

Robert Young, who now lives on a ranch near Carmel, was in town for a day and lunching at the Brown Derby with three of his daughters, who were dressed exactly alike.

Carole Landis flies east tomorrow for a week of personal appearances at the hippodrome theater in Baltimore and then on for a week in Boston. Speaking of the Hippodrome,, Bobby Rappaport, whose popular dad, Izzy Rappaport owns the theater, has been having the time of his life in Hollywood.

That's all today.

LOOK OUT FOR PIN-WORMS

Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grown-ups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong! And these pests, living inside the human body, can cause real distress.

So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms—especially the aggravating rectal itch. Get JAYNE'S P-W and follow the directions.

Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A B.B.C. MYSTERY

The British Broadcasting Corporation's "Mystery Playhouse" series is now being carried by transcription every Saturday night (8:30 p. m. EDT) over WINS, New York, and, for all I know, it may be heard on other independent stations throughout the country. These productions, I should say, will stir American mystery fans only mildly. Their chief interest to our ears lies in the difference in technique and approach, and I'm not at all sure the difference in technique greatly worries the average American mystery fan.

John Crosby

The first things that struck my ears in this series is the British reverence for their own literature. The other night Mystery Playhouse presented one of the best known of Conan Doyle's stories, "The Adventure of the Speckled Band." I haven't read this Sherlock Holmes' story recently but it seemed to me that the radio version was taken from the text almost word for word. Now, we have a Sherlock Holmes series in this country but most of the episodes are merely suggested by Conan Doyle's stories; they are not at all literal adaptations.

For the devout Holmes fan who regards any alteration of the originals as desecration, the British approach is the only proper one. But to my streamlined, impatient American mind, this sort of veneration is misplaced in the case of any mystery story, including those of Holmes. When originally written, "The Speckled Band" was a rattling good blend of mystery and horror; much of its effectiveness stemmed from the fact that readers didn't know what the devil the speckled band was. Well, I know, and I imagine a great many others do too, that the speckled band was a swamp adder, "deadliest snake in India." Once you know that, there isn't much point in re-hearing the tale, unless, as I say, you're one of those rabid Holmes fans whose bite means instant death.

Well, let's not muddy the international waters any more than necessary. The "Mystery Playhouse" production was superbly cast with, I should say, one rather surprising exception. Holmes was played by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who is one of the greatest living actors on the stage or screen, but not, I'm afraid, on the radio. Hardwicke has a magnificent voice and he is fully aware of it; in fact, he employed it with such utter abandon that I couldn't make out a word he was saying. The other members of the cast, who were not burdened either by great names or titles, were reasonably intelligible, though the King's English never falls too happily on American ears. Incidentally, the British announced the full cast—who plays whom—and also the names of writers, directors and producers at the opening of the show. This gives every one a nice break, but it chews up a lot of time, too.

Our British cousins throw in great stretches of straight narrative, much of it excellent, and also great chunks of unbroken monologue, preserving all the archiac flavor. For instance: "Hello, this bell rope's a dummy." I haven't heard that use of the word "hello" on the air for some time. The magic of words largely takes the place of our mechanized love of sound effects and this, at least, is a welcome change. When a sound effect is used, it's a very good one and also an accurate transcription of a real sound rather than our weird and unlikely noises.

The British musical bridge is a sweeping cataract of music almost symphonic in breadth and for all I know it may be played by a symphony orchestra. I assume it's recorded since otherwise it would be awfully expensive. (The British, I guess, haven't any Sir James Petrillos over there to prevent it.)

Listening to the old story (and this hasn't a great deal to do with radio), it occurred to me that contemporary mystery writers have drifted a long way from the old masters. Holmes still observes and deduces. The half-torn railway ticket, you know, the mud-spattered gloves, the noise in the night—he sorts them out, puts them in the proper order and the solution stands out in bold face. Our own hard-boiled private dicks are more interested in human frailty than in mud-spattered gloves; they solve their crimes by cynicism rather than observation. Come to think of it, it's not such a bad method at that.

Separated Servicemen May Apply For School

W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland contact office of the Veterans' Administration, announced yesterday that military personnel now being separated from the service may use terminal leave orders as a basis for obtaining a temporary six-month certificate of eligibility under the GI bill.

Under this program, the applicant may be certified for matriculation at an educational institution or training establishment without the Veterans' Administration checking his service record to determine eligibility, if his terminal leave orders show at least eight days of leave. Burns added however, that they are not eligible for a subsistence allowance until after their formal discharge.

Regular forms will replace the temporary certificates after the veteran's exact period of entitlement has been determined.

A florist's trick to obtain unusual colors of flowers, is to place the blooms in colored water and let the liquid seep up into the flower itself.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A B.B.C. MYSTERY

John Crosby

The British Broadcasting Corporation's "Mystery Playhouse" series is now being carried by transcription every Saturday night (8:30 p. m. EDT) over WINS, New York, and, for all I know, it may be heard on other independent stations throughout the country. These productions, I should say, will stir American mystery fans only mildly. Their chief interest to our ears lies in the difference in technique and approach, and I'm not at all sure the difference in technique greatly worries the average American mystery fan.

The first things that struck my ears in this series is the British reverence for their own literature. The other night Mystery Playhouse presented one of the best known of Conan Doyle's stories, "The Adventure of the Speckled Band." I haven't read this Sherlock Holmes' story recently but it seemed to me that the radio version was taken from the text almost word for word. Now, we have a Sherlock Holmes series in this country but most of the episodes are merely suggested by Conan Doyle's stories; they are not at all literal adaptations.

For the devout Holmes fan who regards any alteration of the originals as desecration, the British approach is the only proper one. But to my streamlined, impatient American mind, this sort of veneration is misplaced in the case of any mystery story, including those of Holmes. When originally written, "The Speckled Band" was a rattling good blend of mystery and horror; much of its effectiveness stemmed from the fact that readers didn't know what the devil the speckled band was. Well, I know, and I imagine a great many others do too, that the speckled band was a swamp adder, "deadliest snake in India." Once you know that, there isn't much point in re-hearing the tale, unless, as I say, you're one of those rabid Holmes fans whose bite means instant death.

Well, let's not muddy the international waters any more than necessary. The "Mystery Playhouse" production was superbly cast with, I should say, one rather surprising exception. Holmes was played by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who is one of the greatest living actors on the stage or screen, but not, I'm afraid, on the radio. Hardwicke has a magnificent voice and he is fully aware of it; in fact, he employed it with such utter abandon that I couldn't make out a word he was saying. The other members of the cast, who were not burdened either by great names or titles, were reasonably intelligible, though the King's English never falls too happily on American ears. Incidentally, the British announced the full cast—who plays whom—and also the names of writers, directors and producers at the opening of the show. This gives every one a nice break, but it chews up a lot of time, too.

Our British cousins throw in great stretches of straight narrative, much of it excellent, and also great chunks of unbroken monologue, preserving all the archiac flavor. For instance: "Hello, this bell rope's a dummy." I haven't heard that use of the word "hello" on the air for some time. The magic of words largely takes the place of our mechanized love of sound effects and this, at least, is a welcome change. When a sound effect is used, it's a very good one and also an accurate transcription of a real sound rathed than our weird and unlikely noises.

The British musical bridge is a sweeping cataract of music almost symphonic in breadth and for all I know it may be played by a symphony orchestra. I assume it's recorded since otherwise it would be awfully expensive. (The British, I guess, haven't any Sir James Petrillos over there to prevent it.)

Listening to the old story (and this hasn't a great deal to do with radio), it occurred to me that contemporary mystery writers have drifted a long way from the old masters. Holmes still observes and deduces. The half-torn railway ticket, you know, the mud-spattered gloves, the noise in the night—he sorts them out, puts them in the proper order and the solution stands out in bold face. Our own hard-boiled private dicks are more interested in human frailty than in mud-spattered gloves; they solve their crimes by cynicism rather than observation. Come to think of it, it's not such a bad method at that.

Separated Servicemen May Apply For School

W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland contact office of the Veterans' Administration, announced yesterday that military personnel now being separated from the service may use terminal leave orders as a basis for obtaining a temporary six-month certificate of eligibility under the GI bill.

Under this program, the applicant may be certified for matriculation at an educational institution or training establshment without the Veterans' Administration checking his service record to determine eligibilty, if his terminal leave orders show at least eight days of leave. Burns added however, that they are not eligible for a subsistence allowance until after their formal discharge.

Regular forms will replace the temporary certificates after the veteran's exact period of entitlement has been determined.

A florist's trick to obtain unusual colors of flowers, is to place the blooms in colored water and let the liquid seep up into the flower itself.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this opportunity to convey our heartfelt thanks to all the friends and neighbors who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Emma L. Paugh. We especially thank the ministers, Rev. J. H. Hardesty and Rev. Jonathan Edwards, for their comforting words, the pallbearers, the flowerbearers, those who sent floral tributes, and those who donated cars for the funeral.

Mrs. H. J. Adams, Sisters, and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Pvt. Eugene Deffinbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Deffinbaugh, who died in France, August 8, 1944.

In thoughts we like to wander
Along the road of yesterday,
To live again in memory
The happy days that used to be.
To hear you laugh, to see you smile,
To talk with you a little while—
We love to linger on the way
That leads us back to yesterday.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters, and Brothers.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this opportunity to convey our heartfelt thanks to all the friends and neighbors who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Emma L. Paugh. We especially thank the ministers, Rev. J. H. Hardesty and Rev. Jonathan Edwards, for their comforting words, the pallbearers, the flowerbearers, those who sent floral tributes, and those who donated cars for the funeral.

Mrs. H. J. Adams, Sisters, and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Pvt. Eugene Deffinbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Deffinbaugh, who died in France, August 5, 1944.

In thoughts we like to wander
Along the road of yesterday,
To live again in memory
The happy days that used to be.
To hear you laugh, to see you smile,
To talk with you a little while—
We love to linger on the way
That leads us back to yesterday.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters, and Brothers.

Market Leaders, For Third Straight Monday, Operate In Losing Division

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP) — The stock market suffered a slight attack of sleeping sickness today and leaders, for the third successive Monday, operated in the losing division.

Consoling to bullish contingents was the fact that dealings were relatively sluggish throughout notwithstanding sizable blocks of low-quoted issues. Steels, motors, rails, rubbers and assorted industrials were soft from the start.

The associated Press 60-stock composite was off .6 of a point at 66.3 compared with a drop of .7 last Monday. It also was the narrowest market since June 30.

Superior Oil of California was up 2½ at 123 on a few sales following a raised disbursement. Timken Roller Bearing, on the other hand, was off one-half at 46½, despite an increased quarterly.

Down one to two were Bethlenem at 89, United States Steel 72⅝, Crucible Steel 26, Republic Steel 26¼, General Motors 59⅝, Chrysler 57⅝, Goodrich 52, United States Rubber 47, Sante Fe 85½, Southern Pacific 43, Great Northern Railway 43½, Northern Pacific 19½, Montgomery Ward 60, J. I. Case 37½, General Electric 36¾, du Pont 191, Allied Chemical 190, J. C. Penny 46, Philip Morris 31⅞, Owens-Illinois 79, United Air Lines 21⅜, E. W. Bliss 29¼ and International Paper 46⅝.

Railroad issues generally slipped fractions to more than a point in light dealings in the bond market today.

Sales for the session at $2,830,000 were the smallest for any day since June 30 and compared with $3,350,000 on Friday.

Among rails declining were Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s, off 1¼ at 32¼; Rock Island refunding 4s, down 1½ at 51½; Lehigh Valley 4½s at 2003 stamped, off 1½ at 36½; Katy adjustment 5s, down 3⅜ at 66⅛&, and Missouri Pacific 5s of '77, down 1¼ at 77¼.

A handful of carriers showing improvement included Morris and Essex 5s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s.

United States governments were unchanged in over-the-counter dealings. World Bank 3s were off 4-32s at 102 12-32 and the 2½s were down 3-32 at 101 5-32 on the stock exchange.

Market Leaders, For Third Straight Monday, Operate In Losing Division

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP) — The stock market suffered a slight attack of sleeping sickness today and leaders, for the third successive Monday, operated in the losing division.

Consoling to bullish contingents was the fact that dealings were relatively sluggish throughout notwithstanding sizable blocks of low-quoted issues. Steels, motors, rails, rubbers and assorted industrials were soft from the start.

The associated Press 60-stock composite was off .6 of a point at 66.3 compared with a drop of .7 last Monday. It also was the narrowest market since June 30.

Superior Oil of California was up 2½ at 123 on a few sales following a raised disbursement. Timken Roller Bearing, on the other hand, was off one-half at 46½, despite an increased quarterly.

Down one to two were Bethlenem at 89, United States Steel 72⅝, Crucible Steel 26, Republic Steel 26¼, General Motors 59⅝, Chrysler 57⅝, Goodrich 52, United States Rubber 47, Sante Fe 85½, Southern Pacific 43, Great Northern Railway 43½, Northern Pacific 19½, Montgomery Ward 60, J. I. Case 37½, General Electric 36¾, du Pont 191, Allied Chemical 190, J. C. Penny 46, Philip Morris 31⅝, Owens-Illinois 79, United Air Lines 21⅝, E. W. Bliss 29¼ and International Paper 46⅝.

Railroad issues generally slipped fractions to more than a point in light dealings in the bond market today.

Sales for the session at $2,830,000 were the smallest for any day since June 30 and compared with $3,350,000 on Friday.

Among rails declining were Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s, off 1¼ at 32¼; Rock Island refunding 4s, down 1½ at 51½; Lehigh Valley 4½s at 2003 stamped, off 1½ at 36½; Katy adjustment 5s, down 3⅜ at 66¼&, and Missouri Pacific 5s of '77, down 1¼ at 77¼.

A handful of carriers showing improvement included Morris and Essex 5s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s.

United States governments were unchanged in over-the-counter dealings. World Bank 3s were off 4-32s at 102 12-32 and the 2½s were down 3-32 at 101 5-32 on the stock exchange.

Report Submitted On Plan For City's Development

Four Projects Found Primarily Important

Planning Board Gets Engineers' Survey

Flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct projects are rated as of primary importance to Cumberland by Whitman, Requard and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, whose report, a first major step in the development of a master plan for Cumberland and its immediate suburbs, was submitted to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday after four years of preparation.

The 129-page report plus an appendix of 18 maps and diagrams, is a review of physical facilities, general comments and recommendations for procedure to be followed for a master plan, zoning and control of sub-divisions.

It deals with and makes recommendations for flood control, water supply, sewerage, highways, public buildings, recreational facilities, housing, control of areas beyond the city limits, zoning, building code, power and utility conduits and municipal finances, most of which are essential to consideration of a master plan and a zoning plan.

Specifically excluded are such municipal services as public safety, public education, public health, administration, airport and miscellaneous special services.

To Serve As Guides

The purpose of the report is to present a series of recommendations which are both practical and economically feasible and which can serve as a guide for a long time program of municipal improvements.

Because of the size of the report and its content, it was not discussed to any extent at yesterday's meeting of the commission, but August 18 was set as a date for a public meeting in the Council Chamber in City Hall when a representative of Whitman, Requardt and Associates will discuss and explain the subject matter and recommendations. The meeting is slated to begin at 8 p. m. and the public is invited to attend.

While Flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct were rated as of primary importance, the report points out that it may be desirable to proceed with the construction of other items such as streets, public buildings or recreational facilities in advance of the major projects because of peculiar or special local conditions.

The order in which construction of public improvements is carried out is termed the responsibility of the Planning Commission and the Mayor and City Council, but the report points out that thep riority and sequence of construction of flood control work and the crosstown viaduct are not within the control of the city.

It explains that the flood program is dependent upon federal appropriations and the viaduct is dependent upon both federal and state appropriations even though the city is required to participate in the financing.

Project Is Progressing

At the meeting westerday it was pointed out that Mayor Thomas S. Post has written to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Western Maryland Railway, the State Roads Commission and the Public Roads Administration regarding sharing the cost of the viaduct. He said replies indicate all will meet with the city to discuss the matter.

The report points out that the program of flood control construction which will be followed in and adjacent to Cumberland has been developed by the Office of District Engineer, Washington District, and already has received city approval. It adds that the project has now progressed to the point where construction drawings are being prepared by the District Engineer for the letting of contracts.

Presidential action in reducing the program of flood protection projects is cited in the report which says that it is imperative that Cumberland keep sentiment alive in favor of the program, that Congressional representatives be aware of the necessity of the work and that publicity be given to the need for the project.

Insofar as the entire program of flood control construction is concerned, the city must recognize that the nature and scope of the work, as well as its location in and adjacent to the business commercial sections of the city, will present many problems during the construction period, the report states. It adds:

"Heavy construction such as will be necessary requires the use of heavy equipment and perhaps explosives. Hauling operations will cause interruptions to traffic and cause delays to normal business. The reconstruction of bridges will necessitate the rerouting of traffic and overloading of existing streets. The project will cause inconveni-

Strikes May Be Called At Some Retail Stores

Union Makes Threats On Contract Issues

Officials of Local 654, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, reported last night that the union will call strikes at some local retail stores next week unless the firms and the union agree on a contract by Monday at 5 p. m.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the union, who reported the action taken at a meeting of the union last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall, said that "if no agreement is reached by Monday at 5 p. m., we will set the time of the strike and the stores to be affected."

The procedure, he explained, will enable union officers to give at least 48 hours notice before work stoppage action. Stutzman added the union does not intend to call work stoppages in all seven of the stores at one time.

Union officials declined to comment on the chances for a settlement this week but did say "it looks like the smaller stores have made better offers than the big stores."

The union, which holds contracts with seven retail stores here, began negotiating some time ago for a new contract calling chiefly for $5 week increases for commission and $8 for non commission workers and a 40 hour work week.

Stutzman said the union will definitely insist on a 40 hour week in all the contracts, adding that three stores agreed last year to that schedule while the other agreements provided for a 43 hour work week.

The union is also asking a uniform expiration date of August 1 for all agreements.

John T. Saum, Jr., and William McGinnis, international representatives of the Retail Clerks Union, attended the meeting last night.

Planning Board Approves Hotel Site For New Bus Terminal

Recommendation Will Be Given To Council

Cumberland's Planning and Zoning Commission voted three to one yesterday afternoon to recommend to the Mayor and City Council that the Southern Hotel property on North Mechanic Street be accepted as a bus terminal for this city.

The recommendation, with Chairman James Alfred Avirett Dissenting, is based on the provisions, however, that Frank P. Vandergrift, owner of the hotel, acquire the adjacent tile building fronting on Mechanic Street and on which he said he holds an option, and raze it along with two buildings he owns on North Centre Street in order to provide more space and better means of ingress and egress.

Advantages and disadvantages of the hotel site and another proposed terminal location at Bedford and Centre Streets were discussed by representatives of three bus companies at the commission meeting yesterday afternoon which also was attended by three members of the City Council, Vandegrift, his attorney John T. Fey, and Henry Holzshu, representing his father, Charles G. Holzshu, owner of the Bedford-Centre Street property.

No Serious Opposition

Two of the three bus lines represented supported the Bedford-Centre Street location but did not offer any serious opposition to the hotel site.

The deciding factor, however, seemed to be that location of the terminal at the hotel property would relieve traffic congestion in the Bedford, North Centre, North Mechanic and Frederick Streets sections.

Another factor in favor of the hotel site was Fey's statement that it could be ready for use in 60 to 90 days while the Bedford-Centre location would not be ready for at least a year and possibly longer.

Fey said Vandegrift plans to tear down a building he owns on North Centre Street which would provide a clear avenue for buses from North Mechanic to North Centre and that with razing of this building the entrance and exit would each be about 42 feet in width.

Vandegrift explained that he holds an option on the tile building on Mechanic Street which now houses a paint shop and could raze that along with another building he owns on North Centre Street which would enlarge the capacity of the terminal and further widen the entrance and exit.

The property measures 257 feet from Mechanic to Centre and is 70 feet wide in addition to the 28-foot width of the tile building and the approximate 40-foot width of the second building on Centre Street.

More Than Adequate

Without the expansion 12 buses could be accommodated easily, Fey said, and with the enlargement 22 carriers could be taken care of. He termed the facilities more than adequate at the present time.

The first floor of the hotel which has been used as a bar and night club, would be converted to provide a waiting room, restaurant, kitchen, baggage space, toilet facilities, office space, ticket window and lockers. Fey disclosed that the Union News Company is seeking the restaurant concession, and he added that the liquor license would not go with the concession and that there would be no gambling on the premises.

Buses would be parked in sawtooth fashion at a covered passenger loading and discharging area.

The Bedford-Centre Street terminal as proposed by Holzshu would be located in an area 120 by 165 feet and would accommodate 10 or 11 buses.

Holzshu said present buildings would be razed to make way for a new business development with the terminal located in the rear of stores fronting on Bedford and Centre Streets. An arcade would lead from the corner to the terminal. Buses would enter the terminal from Bedford Street and leave on Centre.

Three-Story Building Planned

A three-story building, housing offices on the second floor and apartments on the third, was planned eventually, Holzshu said, but because of present building conditions only a one-story structure was to be erected at first.

Holzshu's plan also called for a restaurant, kitchen, waiting room and other facilities, and he said he believes the location more advantageous because it is closer to the shopping district.

Avirett suggested that the terminal be viewed from the long range

Additional School Construction Is Planned Here

Crowded Conditions Make Work Necessary

A program for alterations and new construction at two local schools and Fort Hill stadium will get under way this week according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, when contractors will be asked to bid on the projects.

The construction and alteration program, Kopp explained, is being undertaken at this time because of the crowded conditions of local schools will be transferred with children being assigned to different sections of the city to relieve the overcrowded conditions.

The projects, which are problematic depending on actual costs of the undertakings include the installation of a heating system, shower rooms, toilet facilities, locker rooms, dressing rooms, and assembly under the concrete bleachers section at Fort Hill High School stadium.

At LaVale elementary school, plans call for two additional rooms to be constructed to the existing building and improvements are to be made to the heating system. Installation of new toilet facilities are also incorporated in the plans. constructed to the existing building

The third project will be undertaken at West Side School, Kopp said, where a number of alterations are to be made to the ground floor to provide for two additional class rooms.

The new class rooms at both schools will be modern and the latest development in the new type laboratory class room complete with work counters for the children's projects.

Kopp said bids for Fort Hill and West Side will be opened "the middle of this month" with work scheduled to begin immediately if the contractor's prices will permit the undertakings at this time.

Bids for LaVale school will be opened a week later, but cost again will determine if the project is begun immediately.

Kopp explained that the work will continue after classes are reopened and said if the projects are begun

Betty Lou Rankin, Of Lonaconing, Is Second

Local Girl Goes To Atlantic City

Miss Jean Dixon, 18-year-old brown-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, 696 Fayette Street, who won the title of "Miss Cumberland" several weeks ago, was judged the winner in the "Miss Maryland" competition at Fort Hill High School, and was presented a floral crown and silver cup by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr.

As the winner was announced by Jack Moore, personable master of ceremonies, the audience cheered, and many persons stood and whistled. Perhaps no young woman who has ever appeared on a local stage ever received such an ovation.

Runners-up in the contest were Miss Betty Lou Rankin, entered as "Miss Lonaconing", and Miss Betty Zaleski of Baltimore, as "Miss Fort Meade."

Goes To Atlantic City

Miss Dixon will now represent the state of Maryland in the "Miss America" pageant the first week in September at Atlantic City, N. J., and will be one of 52 girls in the continental competition. For the first time, a girl will be entered as "Miss Canada" and one as "Miss Porto Rico." There are entries from most states, leading cities and several state universities.

The girls appeared in numerical order last night, based upon the numbers they drew earlier in the afternoon. "Miss Cumberland" wore number 7, "Miss Fort Meade" number 3, and "Miss Lonaconing" wore number 6.

The contestants made three separate appearances, first in evening gowns, then in talent competition and finally in bathing suits. They appeared in the following order. "Miss Baltimore," Miss Roman Wilson, No. 1; "Miss Carroll Park", Miss Yvonne Teacher, No. 2; "Miss Fort Meade", Miss Betty Zaleski, No. 3; "Miss Severan", Miss Betty Bertsch, Annapolis, No. 4; "Miss Dundalk", Miss Mary Emily Rawls, No. 5; "Miss Lonaconing", Miss Betty Lou Rankin, No.fl 6; "Miss Cumberland", Miss Jean Dixon, No. 7; and "Miss Hagerstown", Miss Jean Hartman, No. 8.

In the evening gown competition, the three winners were "Miss Baltimore", "Miss Cumberland", and "Miss Fort Meade".

In the talent competition, the winners were "Miss Lonaconing", "Miss Cumberland" and "Miss Hagerstown".

In the bathing suit competition, the winners were "Miss Cumberland", "Miss Fort Meade" and "Miss Annapolis".

Each of the contestants in the talent competition sang except "Miss Hagerstown" who demonstrated her interest and ability in fashion designing, by pinning a dress upon a model, from pieces of cloth. "Miss Lonaconing", in addition to her singing did a dance routine.

Scored In Three Stages

After the girls were scored in the three stages of competition, the three girls with the highest number of points appeared for brief interviews, and the judges made final balloting. Total scores gave the contest to "Miss Cumberland", with "Miss Lonaconing" a very close second, and "Miss Fort Meade" an equally close third place.

The judges were, Edgar A. Dashiell, president of the Allegany County Board of Education; Charles Soble, Baltimre, president, Pimlico Merchants Association; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, LaVale, president Allegany County Parent Teacher Association; William C. Diehl, Hagerstown, assistant superintendent of schools of Washinton County; Lawrence Fraley, Oakland, state senator from Garrett County; and Lt. George Gocke, representing the Second Army, now stationed here as a recruiter.

The Junior Association of Commerce, which sponsored the local and state competition, has arranged a stage show to supplement the beauty pageant. Jay Van's orchestra provided music for the event. Cletus Hartsock sang two vocal solos. The Lions Club Male Chorus sang four selections, and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard, who was "Miss Washington" at Atlantic City several years ago, sang two vocal solos. A dance team, from Moyer's Studio, Jay and Charmaine Johnson, of Keyser, W. Va., presented a waltz and a tango.

The stage setting was a curving stairway in the center, with huge baskets of fresh flowers on each side and in the background.

Parade Through City

Prior to the pageant at Fort Hill, a parade was held from the Algonquin Hotel to the school, with the contestants riding in open cars, es-

Municipal Airport Allotted $75,000 By CAA Chief

Is For Building, Grading And Roads

Cumberland will receive $75,000 this year in federal funds for construction at the Municipal Airport but Westernport, which sought $60,000 has been left out of the aid program, the Civil Aeronautics Administration announced in Washington yesterday.

Administrator T. P. Wright said the CAA had to revise its program to conform with a 50 percent slash made by Congress in Federal aid to airports for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Six Maryland cities will receive $962,150 in federal funds and Frederick is the only Maryland city to be given an increase. Its original aid of $51,500 was increased to $126,350. In addition to Westernport, Denton, which had requested $32,000; Westminster, which sought $61,250 and Centerville, which asked for $20,000 were omitted from the program. Baltimore will receive $200,000 less than originally alloted for its airport at Friendship Church. The city will get $600,000 instead of $800,000.

The six cities will have to put up a total of $1,118,450 as sponsors in order to qualify for the federal funds. The cost to the cities will be as follows:

Baltimore, $750,000; Cambridge, $55,000; Frederick, $127,850; Cumberland, $75,000; Salisbury, $70,800, and Crisfield $39,000. Frederick's share as sponsor was raised from an original $51,500.

The CAA said the Cumberland grant is for construction of an administration building, access roads and incidental grading. Frederick's money is to buy seven acres of land complete an administration building, construct an automobile parking area and to install lights.

Teamsters To Ask Wage Boosts Here

Members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, will ask a 17 cent hourly increase for members employed by freight handlers of the Cumberland, Md., and Winchester, Va., area, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported yesterday.

Drivers on trip operations will ask a $1.50 increase for each trip in the contracts to be negotiated soon with the firms, he added.

The union will ask a $5 a week increase for drivers employed by beer distributors of this area, with a 40 instead of the present 48 hour work week, he explained.

Stutzman said the contract proproposals of employes of 37 firms were formulated at a meeting of the drivers held Sunday at the union hall. Some 450 members of the union would be affected by the contract negotiations. Present agreements expire August 31.

Drivers employed in over-the-road operations of the Celanese plant here yesterday turned down company proposals for a contract, he said.

Stutzman said the company has made further proposals and that the drivers will meet Saturday at 1 p. m. at Teamsters Hall to vote on the proposals. Some 15 drivers are employed by the firm. The union won bargaining rights for the drivers some time ago.

Western Md. Not Being Neglected In Road Plans

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4—(AP)—While the federal government's projected super-network of roads will affect only three Maryland cities, Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the State Roads Commission, today assured other sections of the state they are not being neglected in building plans.

The commission chairman disclosed plans for spending $163,000,000 on roads in Maryland and linking them with the federal superhighways which will be in the vicinity of Baltimore, Frederick and Hagerstown.

The federal plan announced Saturday omitted mention of the Eastern Shore or Western Maryland. But Reindollar promised these sections will get new roads at the same time a program of integrating systems in the urban sections is undertaken.

Report Submitted On Plan For City's Development

Planning Board Gets Engineers' Survey

Flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct projects are rated as of primary importance to Cumberland by Whitman, Requard and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, whose report, a first major step in the development of a master plan for Cumberland and its immediate suburbs, was submitted to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday after four years of preparation.

The 129-page report plus an appendix of 18 maps and diagrams, is a review of physical facilities, general comments and recommendations for procedure to be followed for a master plan, zoning and control of sub-divisions.

It deals with and makes recommendations for flood control, water supply, sewerage, highways, public buildings, recreational facilities, housing, control of areas beyond the city limits, zoning, building code, power and utility conduits and municipal finances, most of which are essential to consideration of a master plan and a zoning plan.

Specifically excluded are such municipal services as public safety, public education, public health, administration, airport and miscellaneous special services.

To Serve As Guides

The purpose of the report is to present a series of recommendations which are both practical and economically feasible and which can serve as a guide for a long time program of municipal improvements.

Because of the size of the report and its content, it was not discussed to any extent at yesterday's meeting of the commission, but August 18 was set as a date for a public meeting in the Council Chamber in City Hall when a representative of Whitman, Requardt and Associates will discuss and explain the subject matter and recommendations. The meeting is slated to begin at 8 p. m. and the public is invited to attend.

While Flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct were rated as of primary importance, the report points out that it may be desirable to proceed with the construction of other items such as streets, public buildings or recreational facilities in advance of the major projects because of peculiar or special local conditions.

The order in which construction of public improvements is carried out is termed the responsibility of the Planning Commission and the Mayor and City Council, but the report points out that thep riority and sequence of construction of flood control work and the crosstown viaduct are not within the control of the city.

It explains that the flood program is dependent upon federal appropriations and the viaduct is dependent upon both federal and state appropriations even though the city is required to participate in the financing.

Project Is Progressing

At the meeting westerday it was pointed out that Mayor Thomas S. Post has written to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Western Maryland Railway, the State Roads Commission and the Public Roads Administration regarding sharing the cost of the viaduct. He said replies indicate all will meet with the city to discuss the matter.

The report points out that the program of flood control construction which will be followed in and adjacent to Cumberland has been developed by the Office of District Engineer, Washington District, and already has received city approval. It adds that the project has now progressed to the point where construction drawings are being prepared by the District Engineer for the letting of contracts.

Presidential action in reducing the program of flood protection projects is cited in the report which says that it is imperative that Cumberland keep sentiment alive in favor of the program, that Congressional representatives be aware of the necessity of the work and that publicity be given to the need for the project.

Insofar as the entire program of flood control construction is concerned, the city must recognize that the nature and scope of the work, as well as its location in and adjacent to the business commercial sections of the city, will present many problems during the construction period, the report states. It adds:

"Heavy construction such as will be necessary requires the use of heavy equipment and perhaps explosives. Hauling operations will cause interruptions to traffic and cause delays to normal business. The reconstruction of bridges will necessitate the rerouting of traffic and overloading of existing streets. The project will cause inconveni-

Strikes May Be Called At Some Retail Stores

Union Makes Threats On Contract Issues

Officials of Local 654, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, reported last night that the union will call strikes at some local retail stores next week unless the firms and the union agree on a contract by Monday at 5 p. m.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the union, who reported the action taken at a meeting of the union last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall, said that "if no agreement is reached by Monday at 5 p. m., we will set the time of the strike and the stores to be affected."

The procedure, he explained, will enable union officers to give at least 48 hours notice before work stoppage action. Stutzman added the union does not intend to call work stoppages in all seven of the stores at one time.

Union officials declined to comment on the chances for a settlement this week but did say "it looks like the smaller stores have made better offers than the big stores."

The union, which holds contracts with seven retail stores here, began negotiating some time ago for a new contract calling chiefly for $5 week increases for commission and $8 for non commission workers and a 40 hour work week.

Stutzman said the union will definitely insist on a 40 hour week in all the contracts, adding that three stores agreed last year to that schedule while the other agreements provided for a 43 hour work week.

The union is also asking a uniform expiration date of August 1 for all agreements.

John T. Saum, Jr., and William McGinnis, international representatives of the Retail Clerks Union, attended the meeting last night.

Planning Board Approves Hotel Site For New Bus Terminal

Recommendation Will Be Given To Council

Cumberland's Planning and Zoning Commission voted three to one yesterday afternoon to recommend to the Mayor and City Council that the Southern Hotel property on North Mechanic Street be accepted as a bus terminal for this city.

The recommendation, with Chairman James Alfred Avirett Dissenting, is based on the provisions, however, that Frank P. Vandergrift, owner of the hotel, acquire the adjacent tile building fronting on Mechanic Street and on which he said he holds an option, and raze it along with two buildings he owns on North Centre Street in order to provide more space and better means of ingress and egress.

Advantages and disadvantages of the hotel site and another proposed terminal location at Bedford and Centre Streets were discussed by representatives of three bus companies at the commission meeting yesterday afternoon which also was attended by three members of the City Council, Vandegrift, his attorney John T. Fey, and Henry Holzshu, representing his father, Charles G. Holzshu, owner of the Bedford-Centre Street property.

No Serious Opposition

Two of the three bus lines represented supported the Bedford-Centre Street location but did not offer any serious opposition to the hotel site.

The deciding factor, however, seemed to be that location of the terminal at the hotel property would relieve traffic congestion in the Bedford, North Centre, North Mechanic and Frederick Streets sections.

Another factor in favor of the hotel site was Fey's statement that it could be ready for use in 60 to 90 days while the Bedford-Centre location would not be ready for at least a year and possibly longer.

Fey said Vandegrift plans to tear down a building he owns on North Centre Street which would provide a clear avenue for buses from North Mechanic to North Centre and that with razing of this building the entrance and exit would each be about 42 feet in width.

Vandegrift explained that he holds an option on the tile building on Mechanic Street which now houses a paint shop and could raze that along with another building he owns on North Centre Street which would enlarge the capacity of the terminal and further widen the entrance and exit.

The property measures 257 feet from Mechanic to Centre and is 70 feet wide in addition to the 28-foot width of the tile building and the approximate 40-foot width of the second building on Centre Street.

More Than Adequate

Without the expansion 12 buses could be accommodated easily, Fey said, and with the enlargement 22 carriers could be taken care of. He termed the facilities more than adequate at the present time.

The first floor of the hotel which has been used as a bar and night club, would be converted to provide a waiting room, restaurant, kitchen, baggage space, toilet facilities, office space, ticket window and lockers. Fey disclosed that the Union News Company is seeking the restaurant concession, and he added that the liquor license would not go with the concession and that there would be no gambling on the premises.

Buses would be parked in sawtooth fashion at a covered passenger loading and discharging area.

The Bedford-Centre Street terminal as proposed by Holzshu would be located in an area 120 by 165 feet and would accommodate 10 or 11 buses.

Holzshu said present buildings would be razed to make way for a new business development with the terminal located in the rear of stores fronting on Bedford and Centre Streets. An arcade would lead from the corner to the terminal. Buses would enter the terminal from Bedford Street and leave on Centre.

Three-Story Building Planned

A three-story building, housing offices on the second floor and apartments on the third, was planned eventually, Holzshu said, but because of present building conditions only a one-story structure was to be erected at first.

Holzshu's plan also called for a restaurant, kitchen, waiting room and other facilities, and he said he believes the location more advantageous because it is closer to the shopping district.

Avirett suggested that the terminal be viewed from the long range

Additional School Construction Is Planned Here

Crowded Conditions Make Work Necessary

A program for alterations and new construction at two local schools and Fort Hill stadium will get under way this week according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, when contractors will be asked to bid on the projects.

The construction and alteration program, Kopp explained, is being undertaken at this time because of the crowded conditions of local schools will be transferred with children being assigned to different sections of the city to relieve the overcrowded conditions.

The projects, which are problematic depending on actual costs of the undertakings include the installation of a heating system, shower rooms, toilet facilities, locker rooms, dressing rooms, and assembly under the concrete bleachers section at Fort Hill High School stadium.

At LaVale elementary school, plans call for two additional rooms to be constructed to the existing building and improvements are to be made to the heating system. Installation of new toilet facilities are also incorporated in the plans. constructed to the existing building

The third project will be undertaken at West Side School, Kopp said, where a number of alterations are to be made to the ground floor to provide for two additional class rooms.

The new class rooms at both schools will be modern and the latest development in the new type laboratory class room complete with work counters for the children's projects.

Kopp said bids for Fort Hill and West Side will be opened "the middle of this month" with work scheduled to begin immediately if the contractor's prices will permit the undertakings at this time.

Bids for LaVale school will be opened a week later, but cost again will determine if the project is begun immediately.

Kopp explained that the work will continue after classes are reopened and said if the projects are begun

Betty Lou Rankin, Of Lonaconing, Is Second

Local Girl Goes To Atlantic City

Miss Jean Dixon, 18-year-old brown-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, 696 Fayette Street, who won the title of "Miss Cumberland" several weeks ago, was judged the winner in the "Miss Maryland" competition at Fort Hill High School, and was presented a floral crown and silver cup by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr.

As the winner was announced by Jack Moore, personable master of ceremonies, the audience cheered, and many persons stood and whistled. Perhaps no young woman who has ever appeared on a local stage ever received such an ovation.

Runners-up in the contest were Miss Betty Lou Rankin, entered as "Miss Lonaconing", and Miss Betty Zaleski of Baltimore, as "Miss Fort Meade."

Goes To Atlantic City

Miss Dixon will now represent the state of Maryland in the "Miss America" pageant the first week in September at Atlantic City, N. J., and will be one of 52 girls in the continental competition. For the first time, a girl will be entered as "Miss Canada" and one as "Miss Porto Rico." There are entries from most states, leading cities and several state universities.

The girls appeared in numerical order last night, based upon the numbers they drew earlier in the afternoon. "Miss Cumberland" wore number 7, "Miss Fort Meade" number 3, and "Miss Lonaconing" wore number 6.

The contestants made three separate appearances, first in evening gowns, then in talent competition and finally in bathing suits. They appeared in the following order, "Miss Baltimore," Miss Roman Wilson, No. 1; "Miss Carroll Park", Miss Yvonne Teacher, No. 2; "Miss Fort Meade", Miss Betty Zaleski, No. 3; "Miss Severan", Miss Betty Bertsch, Annapolis, No. 4; "Miss Dundalk", Miss Mary Emily Rawls, No. 5; "Miss Lonaconing", Miss Betty Lou Rankin, No.fl 6; "Miss Cumberland", Miss Jean Dixon, No. 7; and "Miss Hagerstown", Miss Jean Hartman, No. 8.

In the evening gown competition, the three winners were "Miss Baltimore", "Miss Cumberland", and "Miss Fort Meade".

In the talent competition, the winners were "Miss Lonaconing", "Miss Cumberland" and "Miss Hagerstown".

In the bathing suit competition, the winners were "Miss Cumberland", "Miss Fort Meade" and "Miss Annapolis".

Each of the contestants in the talent competition sang except "Miss Hagerstown" who demonstrated her interest and ability in fashion designing, by pinning a dress upon a model, from pieces of cloth. "Miss Lonaconing", in addition to her singing did a dance routine.

Scored In Three Stages

After the girls were scored in the three stages of competition, the three girls with the highest number of points appeared for brief interviews, and the judges made final balloting. Total scores gave the contest to "Miss Cumberland", with "Miss Lonaconing" a very close second, and "Miss Fort Meade" an equally close third place.

The judges were, Edgar A. Dashiell, president of the Allegany County Board of Education; Charles Soble, Baltimre, president, Pimlico Merchants Association; Mrs. Stanley Buckley, LaVale, president Allegany County Parent Teacher Association; William C. Diehl, Hagerstown, assistant superintendent of schools of Washinton County; Lawrence Fraley, Oakland, state senator from Garrett County; and Lt. George Gocke, representing the Second Army, now stationed here as a recruiter.

The Junior Association of Commerce, which sponsored the local and state competition, has arranged a stage show to supplement the beauty pageant. Jay Van's orchestra provided music for the event. Cletus Hartsock sang two vocal solos. The Lions Club Male Chorus sang four selections, and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard, who was "Miss Washington" at Atlantic City several years ago, sang two vocal solos. A dance team, from Moyer's Studio, Jay and Charmaine Johnson, of Keyser, W. Va., presented a waltz and a tango.

The stage setting was a curving stairway in the center, with huge baskets of fresh flowers on each side and in the background.

Parade Through City

Prior to the pageant at Fort Hill, a parade was held from the Algonquin Hotel to the school, with the contestants riding in open cars, es-

Municipal Airport Allotted $75,000 By CAA Chief

Is For Building, Grading And Roads

Cumberland will receive $75,000 this year in federal funds for construction at the Municipal Airport but Westernport, which sought $60,000 has been left out of the aid program, the Civil Aeronautics Administration announced in Washington yesterday.

Administrator T. P. Wright said the CAA had to revise its program to conform with a 50 percent slash made by Congress in Federal aid to airports for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Six Maryland cities will receive $962,150 in federal funds and Frederick is the only Maryland city to be given an increase. Its original aid of $51,500 was increased to $126,350. In addition to Westernport, Denton, which had requested $32,000; Westminster, which sought $61,250 and Centerville, which asked for $20,000 were omitted from the program. Baltimore will receive $200,000 less than originally alloted for its airport at Friendship Church. The city will get $600,000 instead of $800,000.

The six cities will have to put up a total of $1,118,450 as sponsors in order to qualify for the federal funds. The cost to the cities will be as follows:

Baltimore, $750,000; Cambridge, $55,000; Frederick, $127,850; Cumberland, $75,000; Salisbury, $70,800, and Crisfield $39,000. Frederick's share as sponsor was raised from an original $51,500.

The CAA said the Cumberland grant is for construction of an administration building, access roads and incidental grading. Frederick's money is to buy seven acres of land complete an administration building, construct an automobile parking area and to install lights.

Teamsters To Ask Wage Boosts Here

Members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, will ask a 17 cent hourly increase for members employed by freight handlers of the Cumberland, Md., and Winchester, Va., area, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported yesterday.

Drivers on trip operations will ask a $1.50 increase for each trip in the contracts to be negotiated soon with the firms, he added.

The union will ask a $5 a week increase for drivers employed by beer distributors of this area, with a 40 instead of the present 48 hour work week, he explained.

Stutzman said the contract proproposals of employes of 37 firms were formulated at a meeting of the drivers held Sunday at the union hall. Some 450 members of the union would be affected by the contract negotiations. Present agreements expire August 31.

Drivers employed in over-the-road operations of the Celanese plant here yesterday turned down company proposals for a contract, he said.

Stutzman said the company has made further proposals and that the drivers will meet Saturday at 1 p. m. at Teamsters Hall to vote on the proposals. Some 15 drivers are employed by the firm. The union won bargaining rights for the drivers some time ago.
